AN AMAZING ARRAY OF VALUES IN THE AUGUST SALE OF

Household Linens and Summer Wash Stuffs

First Floor

When the advertising touches Linens it's a signal for thrifty housewives to bestir themselves. Sets 'em all to overhauling the linen-closets and making notes of deficiencies. Our prices for the ever-needed linens are never approached by competing stores on parallel values. If this good old "Different Store" had achieved nothing else, the reputation won by its linen values would have made it rare and important. Below we print a few examples of incomparable values in reasonable needs—both linens for the house and dainty wash goods for personal wear these August days, and for evening and afternoon frocks later on, when indoor functions fill the leisure hours of dressy femininity. Every item represents economy, and there are scores of other values not mentioned here, fully as worthy.

Clean-Cut Savings on Women's Matchless Undermuslins

Annex—Second Floor. The pilot who holds the tiller and guides this great mercantile clipper safely through the rapids and over the whirlpools that would engulf many a ship less ably held in hand, delights in trying out the men who compose the crew that mans the vessel. 'Tis a good practice, too, for it keeps every man alert to his duty—and the public who take passage are safer. The other morning we found on our desk this question: "What would be the result if this man would devote the same energy to selling good merchandise that he does to selling trash?" And we set the "think machine" going. The man referred to is a maker of "cheap" undermuslins for women. We answered: "HE WOULD MAKE A FAILURE." "Why?" asked the "Admiral." Because he has devoted his whole business life to creating and selling a class of goods without merit of any sort. He has descended the bottomless pit of "cheapness" on a pole greased with the sweat of unskilled tenement-house workers and polished with the germs of disease. He simply couldn't succeed in making garments of QUALITY, for he doesn't know the meaning of such a word. And yet, you are offered his product right here in Portland today on the "merit" (!) of "cheapness." WE WON'T SELL SUCH STUFF OR HAVE IT IN THIS STORE AT ANY PRICE. But we do offer you tomorrow undermuslins of CHARACTER at least a third better than any other store in the city is offering. If we can't prove this statement upon comparison we'll gladly withdraw all our claims, and acknowledge defeat. Here is underwear from America's best makers at the price of the cheap imitations shown elsewhere—or less. Don't miss the AUGUST SALE OF UNDERMUSLINS-TOMORROW.

A Dainty Lunch Served FREE on Third Floor

COME AND SUP WITH US ON "TID-BITS FOR TITANIAN."

That's the way one enthusiast described the toothsome delicacies our demonstrator cooks and serves FREE on third floor, near the big elevators. And, mind you—that enthusiast was a man, who wandered thro' on Saturday, and—not unlike the first Adam—allowed a woman's wifery to tempt him to taste, and like Adam again, he fell—in love with the delicious "ROSETTE WAFFERS" she—this modern Eve, is cooking with the aid of the new "Rosette Waffin Irons." A dew drop served on an oak leaf as an after quart would be the suitable accompaniment for the dainty tid-bits. Try them tomorrow when out shopping and in the store.
