REALTY IS ACTIVE

Building Permits Are on the Increase.

HEAVY TRANSFERS ARE

Eastern Money in the Banks for Capitalists Who Desire to Make Investments in Portland and Vicinity.

The census of Portland, recently taken, may be correct or it may be incorrect, but one thing is certain-the growth of the city is by no means at a stand-still if building conditions are to be taken as a criterion. The building permits each weeks are gratifying to all interested in the progress of the city, and one needs but to glance over the returns as they are published from day to day to ascertain that new buildings are not only numerous but that many residences and business blocks are being erected at quite heavy

Although the latter part of the Summer usually shows a falling-off in activity among builders, it has not been so up to this time this year, and there are no indications to believe that such will be the case. Architects are constantly recelving calls for specifications and the leading firms have more orders than they can attend to. Contractors are rushed completing the buildings already under way and making estimates on new ones. No sooner is one project off their hands than others are submitted for consideration. It is safe to say that build-ing will continue active until the Fall rains compel a slack for the Winter. There are many projects now hanging fire that are not yet sufficiently matured

Portlanders Are Active.

While the Lewis and Clark Fair is mainly responsible for the increase in building this year over previous years, it is interesting to notice that a large proportion of the new structures are owned by Portland persons. The fact owned by Portland persons. The fact that Easterners have been coming in to buy reality and build business blocks and residences to rent has awakened Portlanders to some of the opportunities that they have been neglecting in the cast. Now that citizens see large sums on deposit in Portland banks, which men from the East are ready to put into building as soon as they can secure desirable lots, they are getting over their own timidity and are beginning to realize that better opportunities for investment are afforded in Portland than at any are afforded in Portland than at any the Pacific Coast. see, too, that although property is higher now than it has been in the past, it is probably lower than it will ever be again, except for brief periods of general financial panic which might come over the country like the panic of '94.

Harry Hahn's Residence.

Work is now well under way on the work is now wer under way on the residence of Henry Hahn, of Wadhams and Company, on the Cornell road at Kinga Heights. This is to cost $16,600 and is the most expensive dwelling now under construction. There are to be two stories and basement, and the entire building will be handsomely finished. The living-room, which will contain a targe fireplace and numerous window seats and ozy-corners, will be 22x48 feet in di-The entire lower story will be finished in oak with parquet floors. The bath-rooms and kitchen will be floored with white tile and the wainscoting also of same material. Another bungalow, which is being erected on Portland Heights, is the property of J. H. Carkey. The estimated cost of this home is $7,600. It, also, was designed by Mr. Schucht.

U. G. Orendorff, secretary and treasurer of the Paritn & Orendorff Co., the largest firm manufacturing agricultural imple-ments in the world, is in Portland, visiting the branch house of the company and the Lewis and Clark Exposition. Mr. Orendorff says that he is well pleased with Portland and the business outlook generally in the Northwest.

Owing to the heavy increase in the business handled by the Portland branch house, the company is arranging for a permanent location. Options have been secured on several desirable pieces of property, and the company will erect a warehouse covering at least a half block.

Demand for Flats.

The demand for flats is becoming more noticeable, and builders are finding that good interest is derived from money invested in this kind of property. There are many residents who are adverse to living far from the business center, and to meet the demand of this part of the population several flats are now being constructed, and more are contemplated. As the residence district becomes more thickly settled and people have to go farther from the center of town to find destrable lots on which to erect dwellings, these flats will rise in value.

Miss Caroline Shanahan is having two finis built at Sixteenth and Montgomery streets. They are of modern style and will have every convenience that could be desired by those who favor this kind of dwelling. The architects are Knight-on and Travis. The cost will be $7000 for the two.

Another set of six three-story flats is to be built at Eleventh and Columbia streets. The owners in this case also are women, the Misses Shogren. Work has not yet begun but the plans have all been pleted by the architect, W. L. Mor-

For Preparatory School.

New quarters will be occupied by the Allen Preparatory School, a private insti-tution, which has been located at 228 Sixth street. Its new building is being completed at Twelfth and East Salmon streets, and will be ready for occupancy by September 18. It is a two-story structure, designed by H. H. Menges. There are two stories containing ten rooms, six of which will be used as recitation rooms. It is 44x60 feet in size, and will cost

The contract for Tull & Gibb's new sigre will be let tomorrow. This business block, which was designed by D. C. Lewis, will be counted among the most handsome and serviceable buildings in the city. The main part of this building will be 100x100 feet, with a 50x100 foot ell.

RESIDENCE OF T. T. STRAIN, THIRTY-SECOND AND THURMAN STREETS.

The accompanying illustrations show exterior and interior views of the new home of T. T. Strain, chief clerk in the office of P. H. Fogarty, assistant general freight agent of the Northern Pacific. This residence is typical of a large number of others that are now under construction in Portland. These houses, well-built, modern in architecture and supplied with the latest conveniences, are ornaments to the city. Most of them are located far enough from the business center to have room for an attractive lawn with beds of beautiful roses in the Spring and Sur

Mr. Strain's residence is located at Thirty-second and Thurman streets on the side hill just above the Exposition grounds beautiful panorama spreads before it of the Pair, Guild's Lake and the Williamette with the snow-clad peaks rising superbly in the distance. A porch 12x40 feet is the most noticeable feature of this house. There are eight rooms, and the largest, the living room, which is shown in the cut, is 31 feet in length and 36 feet in width. This apartment is finished and furnished in the Dutch-Inglenook style. There is a huge fireplace at one end with a hearth extending ten feet, and this part is raised six inches above the remainder of the floor. The house is furnished throughout in weathered Oregon fir. It is built for comfort and simplicity, and yet contains some striking features, among them the lighting fixtures, which are unique. The cost of the house was $6000. The architect is Edgar M. ## MIRROR CAUSE OF ARREST

WHY T. H. HARLOWE WAS IN TROUBLE.

Accused Another Man of Stealing Looking-Glass and Accusation of Extortion Follows.

A French plate-glass mirror, valued highly by Theodore H. Harlowe because it was given to him by a dear friend, caused his arrest yesterday on a warrant issued out of the Municipal Court yesterday morning, and came near landing him in the City Jail. He was charged with extortion by J. H. Beckley, and the circumstances, as related by the defendant, are unusual

After lingering about police headquarters for several hours yesterday after-noon, Harlowe called up Municipal Judge Cameron's office by telephone and ar-ranged to put up bail. He was released by Captain Moore, and the case will come up for hearing tomorrow. The arrest was made at 247 Salmon street by Sergeant

"I roomed next door to Beckley at 247 Salmon street, and the reason for my arrest is that I accused him of taking my little French plate-glass mirror," said Harlowe, while waiting for bail at police headquarters. "I had used the glass to shave by, and left it on the dresser. My room was open, so that any one could enter, and while I was out some one took the mirror. Beckley was ready to go to the Union Depot to take a train for Eastern Oregon; in fact, he had left the Ouse. Thinking he had taken my mirror which I valued highly because of its associations and the fact that it was given me by a very dear friend, I hurried to the depot told my story to a policeman and asked him to bring Beckley to me. He did so, and I accused Beckley right to his face. He denied it, but I said to him that he was guilty, and that there was no use to lie about it. I told him that I must have the mirror back. He said he would miss his train, if I detained him longer.

miss his train, if I detained him longer, so I proposed that he deposit $5$ with me, send the mirror when he reached his destination, and I would return his money. To this he agreed, and I left the depot. I gave him a receipt for his money.

"Later Beckley quietly appeared at the house. At Salmon. I was talking to the landlady when he walked in. He asked us to go upstairs. We did. He took us into my room and there, in plain view on the my room, and there, in plain view on the dresser, lay my mirror. I immediately gave him his money.

"Beckley said then that he would have me arrested, and proposed to charge me with extortion. That is all there is to the matter, and I do not fear the outcome. It hurts me to think I had to be arrested, for it is my first trouble of this nature.

The mirror was the dearest treasure I possess, and I felt that I could not part with it."

with it."
Harlowe has been touring the Pacific Coast for a year. He has lived in Portland several months. Beckley is interested in a ranch near Shanko, Or.

TESTIMONIALS TELL

Work of the Walter Reed Optical Fair Is Appreciated.

That the scientific work of the expert eye specialists operating at the Expo-sition under the Walter Reed Optical Concession Company is duly appreciated is eloquently attested by the many insolicited testimonials that are pour ing into the office. Every mail brings in a batch of letters from Fair visitors who have availed themselves of the opportunity of having their eyes test-ed and fitted by this corps of experienced opticians. The writers are pro-fuse in their expressions of apprecia-tion of and gratitude for the services rendered, many of them having sought relief without avail from some of the most noted eye specialists in the country. These letters, while gratifying to those whose mission it is to bring re-lief to those suffering with defective eyes and imperfect vision, also serve to strengthen the confidence of the public in their work. It would require too much space to publish the many flattering testimodala received by the Walter Reed Optical Concession Company, but one re-cently received from San Francisco perhaps reflects the tenor of all. This letter, from George W. H. Patterson, a prominent real estate and fire insurance agent of the Bay City, was sent to Dr. A. Locke, one of the corps of opticians operating in the Manufactures building. It follows:

"San Francisco, Aug. 10, 1905.
"Dr. A. Locke, care Walter Reed Op-tical Concession Co., Portland, Or.— "Kind Sir: Last June I had the pleas-ure of visiting the Portland Fair, and by some streak of good luck I came into your office at the Fair. I had one eye that had been a great trouble to me for a long time. The optical science of San Francisco did me very little good, but under your treatment I soon became blessed with two good eyes, and I take the liberty to thank you in my humble way.
