

WORK COMPLETED BY EDUCATORS

Congress Listens to Address on Colleges and the Universities.

EDUCATION AND THE STATE

President P. L. Campbell, of the University of Oregon, delivers an interesting talk to teachers in Auditorium.

The sixth and last day of the Educational Congress at the Lewis and Clark Exposition was taken up with a discussion of colleges and universities and the part they take in the progress of the world's advancement in education.

President P. L. Campbell, of the University of Oregon, spoke at some length on "Education and the State," and his remarks were listened to with a great deal of attention.

"There should be an election of Senators by popular vote, the same as of Representatives. We have the most pure democratic government the world has ever known. An organized Legislature under laws like those which obtain in this state, cannot long withstand the popular feeling of the people.

"No larger or better investment can be made by the state than by the establishment of popular educational facilities. Every dollar put into the popular schools is a dollar taken out of the jails and reformatories institutions.

Advancement of Education.

"The advancement of education of the popular class has marked a decrease in the more serious crimes, while there has been an increase in the petty offenses and misdemeanors. While this would seem to indicate that the smaller crimes are on the increase, another view would mean that the public conscience has become more sensitive to misdemeanors, and where acts were once regarded as constituting no offense a weakened public conscience has served to reduce them to such.

"The development of education in the West since the early days has resulted in a falling off of crime. The advancement of the board schools of England has served to reduce materially the number of arrests of youthful offenders.

"With the development of educational facilities we will attain to a higher plane of civilization fully justifying the expenditure by the state of means for the purpose of popular education.

"Upon the teachers of the Nation devolve the responsibility of developing to its perfection the possibilities of this higher education.

"Teachers should be pensioned in old age, the same as those who have served the country in a military capacity. Why should the defenders of the country be regarded as more important to the Nation than those who develop its resources?"

"There should be free universities that would enable each individual to develop to the highest his adaptation, whatever it may be. If the individual citizen is to become a maker of laws, his education must continue on a high plane that he may become a safe factor in popular government.

"The realization of the highest form of popular government will require the minimum of external restraint and the maximum of individual responsibility."

Discuss Various Topics.

Professor Samuel McCune Lindsay, of the Wharton School of Finance and Commerce, whose subject was "Education for Efficiency and the Demands of Modern Business," spoke on the work of the Wharton school in fitting men and women for commercial and financial pursuits. President Penrose, of Whitman College, Walla Walla, Wash., led the discussion on the remarks of President Campbell.

He was followed by William D. Woodwright, president of the Portland Chamber of Commerce, whose remarks on the same topic took somewhat of a humorous vein, in so far as he criticized the action of Charles Francis Adams who, when he became president of the Union Pacific, employed only Harvard students. Mr. Woodwright did not claim that Harvard men were incompetent, but held that they were not conversant with all phases of commercial life. This topic occupied the delegates until noon, when they adjourned without setting a date for the next conference.

State Teachers' Association.

After the final session of the Educational Congress yesterday at noon, a business meeting of the State Teachers' Association, which had been previously announced, was called to order. In the absence of executive officers, D. A. Grout was selected as chairman. The meeting then proceeded to the election of officers, which resulted as follows: President, B. F. Mulkey, Astoria; first vice-president, Miss Albia L. Dimmick, Portland; second vice-president, Superintendent R. F. Robinson, Portland; secretary, G. W. Jones, Salem; treasurer, Caroline L. Harris, Portland; members of the executive committee, Superintendent Frank Rigler, Portland, and Superintendent W. W. Wiley, of Tillamook County.

The question of securing the National Educational Association, which Commissioner Harris says is only waiting for an invitation to come to Portland, was briefly discussed, and left to the executive committee of the association to investigate the subject and act in accordance with what it deems expedient.

On motion, a committee, with D. A. Grout as chairman, was appointed to revise the old constitution of the association and report an amended one to the meeting next year, which has been called to meet in Portland on a date to be fixed by the executive committee.

Resolutions of Appreciation.

Principal D. A. Grout then introduced the following resolution, which was unanimously adopted: "Whereas, Superintendent L. R. Traver, an officer of this association, has removed from this district; and

"Whereas, He has ever been a valued member; Be it

"Resolved, That this association expresses its appreciation of his service and regrets that his work has called him into another part of the state, thus causing him to sever his connection with the educational work of the western part of the state. Be it further

"Resolved, That the wishes of the association go with him for his continued success, in his new field."

Busy With Assessment.

The entire office force of the County Assessor is taken up with preparation of the list of taxable property of Multnomah County and until after the week's session of the Board of Equalization, which will be Monday, October 2, nothing further will be done in the direction of taking the census, everything else being dropped and all the clerical force of the office being worked overtime in order to meet the demands of the situation in connection with the assessment.

FLOCKING TO HOP FIELDS

Picking Season for Oregon Begins in Earnest This Week.

Hop-picking will begin in earnest in Oregon this week. The exodus to the Willamette Valley fields has already begun and the up-river boats and trains are carrying large crowds intent on enjoying an outing and making good wages at the same time. The largest crowd of the season will leave Thursday morning by a special train for Independence. They have been engaged by Krebs Bros. to work in their big yards at that place. There will be 600 pickers in the party, and it will require 15 cars to carry them. Krebs Bros. will give the opening "hoppicker's ball" Saturday evening in the big warehouse on their ranch. The same growers will send out a special train of eight cars Wednesday morning, with pickers for their yard at Brooks.

SAYS UPTON ASKED FOR FEE

Wanted One-Third of What Attorney Collected.

John F. Logan, speaking with reference to the statement made by Jay H. Upton, that the latter sometimes sent him legal cases, asserts that Upton did send him three cases, from which $45 fees were collected, and Upton demanded one-third of the money, which was refused him. Mr. Logan says Robert Galloway, now law librarian, was formerly his partner, and was instrumental in obtaining the position for Upton as bailiff in the County Court. After the refusal to pay Upton a percentage he sent all cases coming to his notice to H. E. Riddell, except several charity cases, where the persons were in needy circumstances and which were accepted free of charge.

GRAND JURY ACTS

Returns Two More Indictments for Land Frauds.

SILETZ DISTRICT CASES

Herman K. Finch and Bert Blauvelt Are Added to the List of Offenders Whom the Government Will Prosecute.

On the last day of grace before the statute of limitations would have barred proceedings the Federal grand jury yesterday afternoon brought in two indictments, both for violations of law in the Siletz district. One of the indictments was against Edward N. Jones, Thaddeus S. Potter, Ira Wade, John Doe and Richard Roe, and was the reiteration of the offense under which the same men were once arraigned before the Federal court. The second indictment accuses Herman K. Finch, Thaddeus Potter, Bert Blauvelt, John Doe and Richard Roe with having conspired to illegally secure land in the Siletz reserves. This brings two new names, Finch and Blauvelt, into the land fraud cases.

What Indictment Alleges.

The indictment against Jones, Potter and his associates alleges that on September 2, 1902, the men entered into a conspiracy to defraud the government by planning to illegally secure the claims filed upon by Daniel Clark, George F. Merrill, Granville C. Lawrence, Louis Paquet, James Landfair, Addison Longenecker, Henry M. Riggs and William T. Smith. It is alleged that at the time of filing these claimants knew that they were not legally entitled to the land and that they were filing in order to secure the claims for speculation.

It is also alleged that in furtherance of the conspiracy Mr. Jones on May 8, 1904, procured a letter to be sent to Secretary Hitchcock by Senator Fulton, in which the Senator requested that Jones as a well-known and honorable man, and urged that the claims held by Jones and under suspension be given the attention of the department at this time. A letter is also introduced in the indictment written to Senator Fulton by Mr. Jones in which the writer sets out his intentions at length and denies having entered into any agreement with any claimant contrary to law.

Takes Place of Old Charge.

The indictment returned yesterday covers the same offense under which the defendants were indicted by the first Federal grand jury, but which was dismissed upon the motion of the District Attorney, owing to a defect in its construction. The specific allegation is that Jones and his associates planned to secure a number of old soldiers to take claims under the homestead law; that Jones was to furnish the money and see that some of the work was done, in turn for which he was to receive a virtual option upon the property, the claimants binding themselves to sell to him.

The second indictment was one against Finch and his alleged co-conspirators, who are accused of illegally securing land September 2, 1902, is also the date of the alleged conspiracy set out in this indictment. The specific offense alleged is that of conspiracy, and it is contended that Finch made perjured statements in his final proof and in his entry and that his testimony given at the examination was false. Potter and Blauvelt were subscribing witnesses at the time Finch went before the land office to file and to prove up.

Alleged False Oaths.

Potter also filed on a claim near the first one mentioned in this case Finch and Blauvelt were served as witnesses in the filing and final proof. It is alleged that the men swore falsely when they stated in their final proofs they had lived upon the lands according to the requirements of the law.

It was late yesterday afternoon when the indictments were returned, the jury continuing in session for a couple of hours after having been convened at 1 o'clock. After the return from the courtroom, the jury adjourned until Tuesday morning, when it will again assemble for duty.

It is the present intention to allow the land frauds to rest for a time while Deputy District Attorney W. W. Banks presents an accumulation of cases before the investigating body. There are close to a dozen violations of the Federal law that have been called to the attention of the Deputy Attorney, all of which will be given to the notice of the jury.

The commencement of the third trial in the Williamson case will put a temporary stop upon Mr. Heney in his land fraud investigations with the jury, and it is probable that a temporary adjournment will be taken after Mr. Banks has finished his work, until such time as it will be possible for Mr. Heney once more to take up the task cut out for him to do.
