Those statistics placing Oregon near the bottom of the list in the matter of birth rate surely must be wrong. Statistics are a hard thing to dispute but none who saw the baby show at the Lewis and Clark Exposition yesterday afternoon would believe that this community was behind any other states in this respect.

Such a crowd of tiny youngsters and fond parents as filled the Auditorium has never before been seen in Portland and may never be seen again. There was not an available inch of space left when 2 o'clock, the hour for the show, rolled around. Many mothers were unable to get inside and reluctantly carried their babies home toward evening trying to find a few inches of space to crowd inside.

Rain Storm Prevents Parade.

An inadvertent rain storm interfered with the order of the day, but did not have any visible effect on the attendance of dotting mothers. The storm made the babies parade an impossibility and interfered with the systematic judging of contestants for prizes. Otherwise it did not harm. What did a mother care for a little shower when the opportunity was at hand to prove to the world that her baby was just a trifle finer than any other?

Mothers All Confident.

Proud mothers with their precious bundles began arriving at the Exposition as soon as the gates were open in the morning. A steady stream continued until 2 o'clock, the hour set for the baby parade. In no other city was there a rush for the Auditorium. The janitor was on guard with instructions to let none inside until 2 o'clock. He found himself totally unable to cope with it as many determined mothers. They swept him aside from his post and in 15 minutes the Auditorium was a seething mass of humanity. It took fully an hour to get something resembling order and chaos then the work of selecting prize-winners was started. The judges took a position on the platform and had the babies brought up in groups according to ages. In no other city would the judging be done in view of the Auditorium's crowded condition.

Awarding Prizes Delicate Task.

Now the awarding of prizes was a very ticklish piece of business. There was not a mother there who did not already know which was the finest baby of the lot. Where indeed could another such baby as her own be found? It was so obviously more beautiful than the rest that the judges could not help but discover the fact. Such is the spirit of mother love and it was everywhere present yesterday. The mother with the puny and not particularly attractive infant was just as proud and just as confident of its superiority as the mother with the perfect type of infant. Why, there was one mother there with a baby whose face had been horribly disfigured by the accidental spilling of acids and there was no crooner or more devoted mother in the hall.

Dan McAllen Speechless.

There were no exercises of any kind in connection with the event. Dan McAllen, the Exposition's father and the promoter of babies' day, found himself speechless when he beheld the thousands of more babies which had been assembled by their respective mothers. He urged that the judges begin their work without delay and this was done. The method of determining the merits of contestants was unique. Mothers were lined up and members of the committee reviewed them. A rattle and a brass Gong were used to determine the child's nature. If it became amused at the rattle it was pronounced good natured. If it cried, it was considered petulant. The general appearance of the baby was the real basis of reaching a decision, however. The judges were: Mrs. H. L. Pitcock, Mrs. T. B. Wilcox, Mrs. A. H. Devera, Mrs. Rose Hoyt, Mrs. L. H. Mosher, Mrs. A. J. Farmer, Mrs. C. R. Templeton, ex-Mayor George H. Williams, Judge M. C. George,

George W. Cleland, B. R. Pague and L. L. Hawkins.
 Not until late in the evening was the work of selecting prize-winners completed. Many infants were escorted by the entire family and part of the neighborhood. As soon as their babies had been passed upon most of the contestants left. Strangely enough two prize-winners are without mothers so far as is known. They were from the infant incubators on the Trail. One of the motherless little tots got the prize for having the brownest eye and another for being the most prettily dressed. The Feldensheimer cup went to the only lineal descendant of Captain Clark.
 All babies who failed to receive medals can obtain them from Dan McAllen.

HAWAIIANS' LAST CONCERT.

The Royal Hawaiian Band, which has so firmly and securely established itself in the estimation of the Portland music-loving public, appears for the last time at the Lewis and Clark Exposition to night. The farewell concert will be played at night, either in the bandstand on Gray boulevard or in the Auditorium, which is used when the weather does not permit playing out of doors. From Portland the Hawaiian Band goes to California, where it will make rather an extensive tour before returning to the islands.
 While the people of Portland greatly regret the departure of the Royal Hawaiian Band, they find consolation in the fact that Ellery's Band, which begins an engagement at the Exposition Monday night. He gave the Portlanders a grandly considered by critics to be the finest musical organization of its kind in America. Channing Ellery, for many years musical critic of the New York Sun, is at the head of the band. The band is led by Ferrulo, another one of those "music-mad" conductors, is said to be far superior to Creators, both in his control over the players and his taste of composition. He is supposed to be the highest pitch.

Portland Points the Way.

The prize of $25, awarded by the management of the Lewis and Clark Exposition for the best slogan to be used on Portland day, was awarded yesterday to John C. Brinton, of Harrisburg, Pa., whose suggestion was "Portland Points the Way." Several others were suggested, but none from all parts of the United States. The winning Portland jay was sent in by John L. Tomlinson, of Menton, Cal. It contains a happy prediction in "Portland Great, Portland Fine, The Hundred Thousand in Nineteen Nine."

Sacramento Valley Day.

Sacramento Valley day at the Lewis and Clark Exposition, Tuesday, September 19, will be one of the very biggest celebrations held at the Exposition building. It will not exceed 20 trips abroad, which was held at the Exposition some time since. For the past few weeks elaborate preparations have been made by the commercial bodies of Sacramento and other cities in the valley to make the day an unqualified success.
 A special train, consisting entirely of Pullman coaches, will arrive in Portland September 19 from Sacramento. It has been secured through the efforts of the Sacramento Valley Development Association. The day at the Exposition will be a notable one. There will be brief exercises at the California building in the morning, and in the afternoon the visitors from Sacramento Valley will be a reception by Commissioners J. A. Elcher and Frank Wiggins. Other receptions will be given the visitors from Sacramento Valley by the Portland Commercial Club and the Oregon Development League, in the rooms of the Commercial Club.

SHAM NAVAL FIGHT

Battle of Santiago de Cuba Is Reproduced.

CERVERA'S FLEET BURNED

Realism of the Engagement on Guild's Lake So Intense That Women and Children Are Frightened by It.
 Guild's Lake, at the Lewis and Clark Exposition, is the most famous battleground in the world, another terrific and terrible engagement taking place last night, when the Spanish fleet was burned and beached of the harbor of Santiago by the victorious American ships. Fort Morro capitulated at the Exposition some time ago, and the Merrimac and the Monitor fought a bloody battle, but the engagement last night, known as the battle of Santiago, was the grandest and most wonderful of them all.
 After the reproduction of the famous sea fight off the coast of Cuba, such as was given at the Exposition last night, the very mention of a sham naval battle ought to attract the people by the thousands. It was the most magnificent spectacle ever witnessed in Portland, or for that matter, in the West. Fully 20,000 saw the battle and went home satisfied and delighted with the splendid entertainment that had been afforded them by the Exposition management.

Crowds Witness Battle.

The crowds last night were not quite so large as those which have attended the previous sham naval battles, owing to the late hour. However, the Bridge of Nations and the veranda and bridge of the American Inn were filled with people, while several thousand spectators saw the battle from Government Hill.
 There were six vessels in the American fleet, and about the same number in the Spanish fleet, which immediately exchanged shots with the fort. The Spanish fleet then steamed out from behind the fort and made a desperate attempt to penetrate. Their battle became general, and was at its very thickest. The cannonade was terrible, the earth fairly trembling from the tremendous explosions of several dozen large cannons, large quantities of red fire were burned, shedding a lurid glare upon the battle-ground, which, coupled with the almost deafening explosions and the heavy pall of smoke, presented a scene that was awful in its realism. Many of the women and children who saw the battle were frightened by the heavy cannonade.

Spanish Fleet Destroyed.

The climax of the battle was the burning of the flagship of the Spanish fleet and the explosion of its magazine. The massive bands played the "Star-Spangled Banner," and the battle was over. All of the ships of the Spanish fleet were beached and burned, and the flagship blown to atoms. The military bodies that took part in the engagement were the Centennial Guards, Tenth United States Infantry, stationed on Government Island; Battery A of the Oregon National Guards and two mountain batteries of artillery from Vancouver Barracks. Admiral Oskar Hibber, in civil life director of works at the Exposition, had direct supervision over the battle.

TOTAL ATTENDANCE, 1,874,847.

The total attendance of the Lewis and Clark Exposition to date is 1,874,847. If there is favorable weather, it is very probable that the 2,000,000 mark will be reached this week. The attendance of the Omaha Fair, corresponding with the period that the Lewis and Clark Exposition is open, four and one-half months, was 2,352,158. If the attendance at the Portland Fair averages 15,000 a day until it closes, the record of the Omaha Fair will be broken, although it was a much larger Exposition.

ADMISSIONS, 26,000.

Baby day showed a record of 26,000 admissions through the Fair turnstiles yesterday.
 They were equipped with turrets, smokestacks which emitted fire and smoke, and fighting arms, making them look like genuine men-of-war. The fort was built in the middle of the lake.

The Spanish fleet then steamed out from behind the fort and made a desperate attempt to penetrate. Their battle became general, and was at its very thickest. SHERIFF WORD RAIDS TRAIL

Several of the Concessions Placed Under Attachment.
 Sheriff Tom Word and four deputies descended upon the Trail at the Lewis and Clark Exposition last night and before they had concluded their visit, attachment suits were filed on the Carnival of Venice, Streets of Cairo, Cafe Rialto and the Klondike. The Carnival of Venice had just completed its first show when the attachment was filed, and it was decided to have no more performances until today or tomorrow. Those who were at the show say it will open up Monday, as bond will be given and the attachment suit fought out in the courts. The other three concessions remained open, with men from Sheriff Word's office in charge of the box offices.

Italy's Day at Fair.

Wednesday, September 20, has been set aside by the Exposition management as Italy day. Representative Italian citizens of Portland and Oregon and of California and Washington will take part in the elaborate programme which will be carried out on that day. The features of the day will be a magnificent display of fireworks at night, when many portraits of noted Italians will be reproduced with the set pieces.

TACOMA WEEK AT THE FAIR

Brilliant Programme Has Been Arranged.
 Receptions, Musical Entertainments and Distribution of Souvenirs Will Be Features.
 Mrs. Thomas B. Wallace, hostess for Tacoma week at the Fair, will arrive in Portland today, and with her committee of 25 of Tacoma's most prominent women, will do the honors for the City of Destiny. An elaborate programme is outlined by Mrs. Wallace, who is well known as a clever, brilliant society woman and a gracious hostess, and an enthusiastic lover and student of music. This taste is shown by the very high character of the music she has planned for Tacoma week. Hugo Schmidt, the brilliant young director of the Philharmonic Orchestra, with a selected orchestra of ten pieces, will give a concert every afternoon at the Washington building, and the programmes he has arranged are of a high order.
 Monday afternoon Mrs. Wallace and the Tacoma ladies will receive the officials of the Fair; the members of Portland Chamber of Commerce and the press, and leading Portland families. This will be in the afternoon.

HONORABLE DEALING.

Two more cases of Bright's Disease that recovered after treatment in hospital have failed and the patient is dead.
 One is John H. Gysler, the well-known merchant of Bureka, Cal. He was in the Lane Hospital in San Francisco for three months, but so weak when he returned that he had to be carried every ten days. He was steadily sinking when his family took him home and put him to bed. Bright's Disease, the kidneys failed and he began to bleed. He died in a few days. Another body in Bureka knows of his miraculous escape.
 Another case is that of Mr. T. J. Mulroy, of 2116 Bryant st., San Francisco. A few months ago he was taken to the Marine Hospital in that city and was so weak with Bright's Disease that his sister, Mrs. French, was advised by the physician in charge that a fatal end was inevitable and close at hand. She took him home, and he was cured after five months' treatment by his employment. Write either of the above if you question this.
 Bright's Disease and Diabetes are curable in 97 per cent of all cases by Fulton's Compound. Send for literature—Jno. J. Fulton, 800 Washington street, San Francisco, Cal. Woodard, Clarke & Co., Agents, Portland, Ore.
 When to suspect Bright's Disease—weakness or loss of weight; puff, ankle, hands or wrists; dropsy; kidney trouble after the third month; urine may show sediment; falling vision; drowsiness, one or more of these.

"Hercules-Kantwearout" Suits are shower-proof—it's not an advertising claim without foundation—they prove it.

Of course if your boy stands under an earnest spout in a tremendous rain he will get soaked—the force of the water will drive it right through the fabric because the rain-proofing process doesn't close up the pores in the cloth—it just coats each and every thread with a chemical that makes each particular thread water-tight—and the threads are interwoven so closely together in "Hercules-Kantwearout" that they form almost a solid mass—in an ordinary shower, water will roll right off just like mercury off a piece of glass.
 We test "Hercules" cloth by taking a piece of the fabric—make a bagaffair of it—and pouring in about a pint of water. If the cloth holds water a certain number of hours we make it up in "Hercules" suits—if it doesn't we prove it over. This is a severe test—much more severe than if tested in the rain—because the water is held stationary for hours.
 The rain-proofing process will not rot the cloth, make it air-proof, nor injure the colors—just makes it Shower-proof, Mole-proof, Perspiration-proof, Hygienic and Sanitary.

We will give you a "Hercules" without cost if you find a thread of cotton in the fabric—colors absolutely fast.

Pants fully lined with cold shrunk Irish linen. Pant seams silk sewed twice. Seat and inside leg seams covered with tape—seams will never break.

Two sleeve linings in coat where wear is greatest (patent applied for). Coat full lined with extra heavy double warped Italian cloth.

Every suit labeled "Hercules" right below the coat hanger and on coat sleeve.

For boys 6 to 16—double breasted two-piece knee pants only. Five Dollars everywhere.

Name of your clothes dealer and age of your boy—we will send a "Hercules" free for your inspection.
