

THE OREGONIAN

Announces a Truly Great Achievement

IN THE COMPLETION OF A WORK THAT STANDS
PRE-EMINENTLY ALONE IN AMERICAN LITERATURE

ONE THAT will appeal to the LOVER OF ROMANCE, as within these volumes will be found not only the full text of the most important State papers written since the dawn of creation, but the story of a Nation's struggle and astounding, fascinating articles upon almost every phase of human interest, so remarkable in scope as to lead one to believe that the writer must have lived always.

ONE THAT will appeal to the LOVER of truth and righteousness, as Thomas Jefferson, above all men, was more responsible for the establishment of the religious and political freedom which his pen guaranteed to every liberty-loving soul.

ONE THAT will appeal to the FATHER anxious to instill into the mind of the child a comprehension and appreciation of the liberty he enjoys and of his duties to his fellows.

ONE THAT will appeal to the INQUIRER desiring first knowledge of history from the pen of a history-maker.

ONE THAT will appeal to the HISTORIAN desiring an exact account of events, of causes and effects, from the pen of one universally acknowledged to be the most potent factor in the establishment of the grandest and most enduring scheme of human liberty.

Special Contributors

Twenty of the Most Distinguished Citizens of America Contribute Special Articles, as Follows:

Special introduction by Senator Geo. F. Hoar, LL. D., and Lincoln's Tribute to Jefferson.

"Jefferson's Faith in the American People," by Hon. Alton B. Parker, Chief Justice of the Court of Appeals of New York, and Democratic candidate for the Presidency.

"The University of Virginia and Jefferson, Its Father," by Hon. James C. Carter, LL. D., leader of the New York bar.

"The Louisiana Purchase," by Chas. Emory Smith, LL. D., ex-Postmaster-General and editor of the Philadelphia Press.

"Jefferson as a Promoter of General Education," by Hon. Chas. W. Needham, LL. D., president of Columbian University, Washington, D. C.

"Jefferson as a Citizen of the Commonwealth of Virginia," by Hon. Andrew J. Montague, Governor of Virginia.

"Jefferson as a Tactician," by ex-Governor George W. Atkinson, of West Virginia.

"Jefferson's Service to Civilization During the Founding of the Republic," by B. O. Flower, editor of the "Arena."

"Jefferson and the Statute of Religious Freedom," by Hon. William Jennings Bryan.

"Jefferson and the Constitution," by U. S. Senator Chas. A. Culberson.

"Jefferson's Versatility," by Hon. Champ Clark, Congressman from Missouri.

"Jefferson's Passports to Immortality," by the late Hon. Geo. G. Vest, U. S. Senator from Missouri, 1879-1903.

"Jefferson as a Geographer," by Gen. A. W. Greely, Chief Signal Officer, U. S. A.

Eulogy on Jefferson, delivered on October 19, 1826, by Hon. William Wirt, LL. D., Attorney-General of the United States.

"The Memory of Thomas Jefferson," by Hon. Jno. B. Stanchfield, Democratic candidate for Governor of New York in 1900.

"Jefferson in His Family," by Hon. Thomas Jefferson Coolidge, former United States Minister to France.

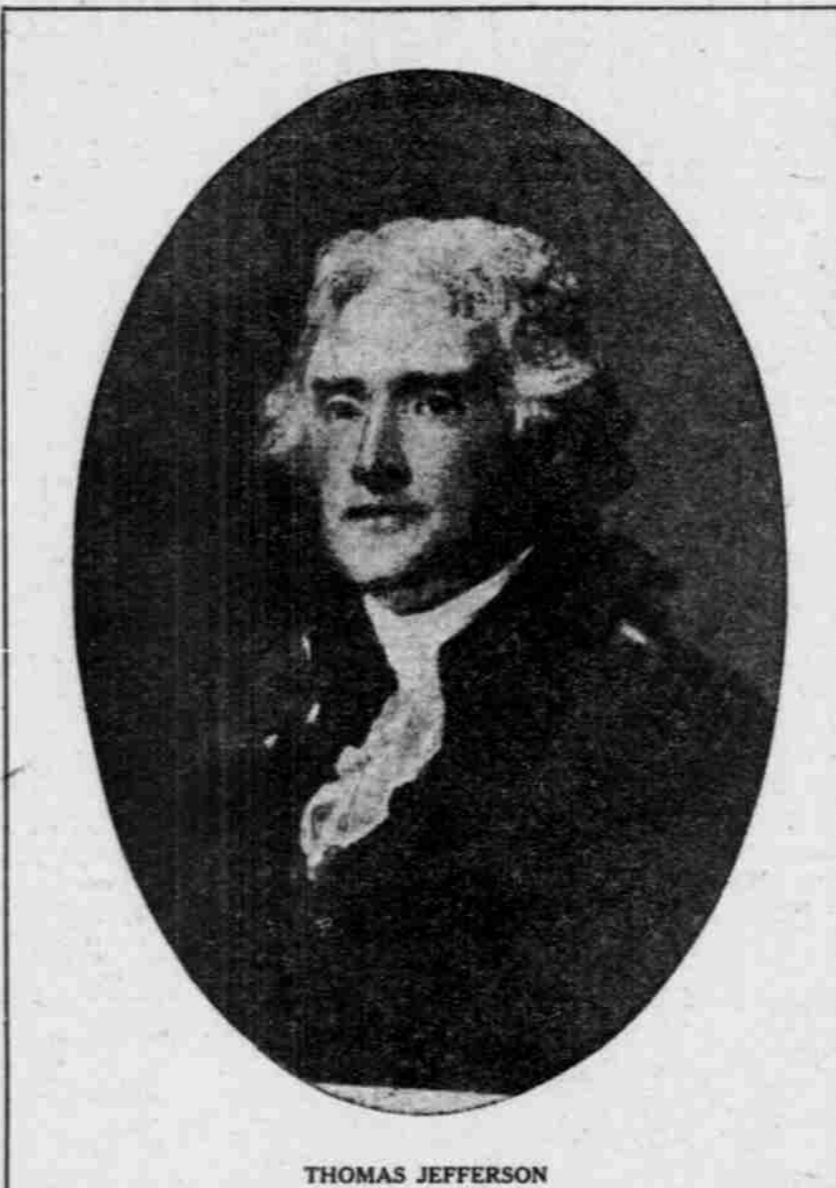

"Jefferson and the Land Question," by Henry George.

"Jefferson's Religion," by Rabbi Edward N. Calisch, B. L., M. A.

"Jefferson's Contribution to a Free Press," by Josephus Daniels, editor of the Raleigh News and Observer, Raleigh, N. C.

"Jefferson as a Man of Science," by Dr. Cyrus Adler, LL. D., of the Smithsonian Institution, Washington, D. C.

"Jefferson's Quest of Knowledge," by Chas. W. Kent, M. A., Ph. D., chairman of the University of Virginia.

THOMAS JEFFERSON

FROM CHAS. EMORY SMITH
Ex-Postmaster General
Editor of the Philadelphia Press

This edition of the Writings of Thomas Jefferson fulfils the highest expectations with which it was projected. In minute completeness and handsome topography and paper, in sumptuous binding, in unique and appropriate illustration, in the whole art of effective presentation, it greatly excels. The varied and discriminating articles with which each volume is introduced add notably to its value as a study of Jefferson, and the publication of manuscripts in their entirety makes it equally authoritative and useful. Jefferson not only played so great a part in our early history, but he was so able and versatile that his writings are as interesting as they are instructive, and should be familiar to all intelligent Americans. The edition is especially attractive.

Signed, CHARLES EMORY SMITH.

A FEW OF THE MOST IMPORTANT TOPICS OF Jefferson's Writings

Making This Work a Complete History of the Formative Period of the U. S.

A SUMMARY VIEW OF THE RIGHTS OF BRITISH AMERICA. Jefferson's first conception of the Declaration of Independence.

THE DECLARATION OF INDEPENDENCE. Including the original draught, in fac simile, the completed document, and Jefferson's famous desk memorandum.

THE FEDERAL CONSTITUTION. Jefferson's antagonism to its construction, and his work on the consequent amendments.

THE CONSTRUCTION AND ADOPTION OF OUR EARLY LAWS.

THE LOUISIANA PURCHASE.

THE LEWIS AND CLARK EXPEDITION. The early efforts of Jefferson to start the expedition, his trials in its behalf, his success in dispatching the expedition in advance of British exploration; the report of Captain Meriwether Lewis.

JEFFERSON'S NOTES ON VIRGINIA. "One of the masterpieces of the English language."

JEFFERSON'S AUTOBIOGRAPHY. THE FAMOUS ANAS.

JEFFERSON BIBLE. This famous document, the words of Jesus as contained in Matthew, Mark, Luke and John; in four languages—Latin, Greek, French and English—with Jefferson's notations, is reproduced in fac simile in its entirety.

POLITICAL INSTITUTIONS—RELIGIOUS FREEDOM. Including Jefferson's writings, essays and speeches on those fundamental principles of the government of a republic "for the people, by the people." "That which is Jefferson today."

JEFFERSON'S WRITINGS ON MEDICINE, ANATOMY AND SURGERY.

JEFFERSON'S WORK ON OUR MONETARY SYSTEM. THE DANGERS OF A NATIONAL BANK OF AMERICA.

BIOGRAPHIES AND CHARACTER SKETCHES, BY JEFFERSON, OF THE MOST PROMINENT MEN OF OUR COLONIAL HISTORY.

"The Writings of Thomas Jefferson"

The Oregonian, knowing that a complete edition of the Writings of Thomas Jefferson had never before been published, and believing that The Oregonian readers would welcome an opportunity to procure the crowning work of American literature, and the only complete, authentic reference work on the formative period of our Government, has consummated arrangements with the publishers of "THE WRITINGS OF THOMAS JEFFERSON," as were issued under the auspices of the Thomas Jefferson Memorial Association, whereby the people of the Northwest can secure, through The Oregonian, this great work at a price which eliminates all selling agents and middlemen's profit. YOU DEAL WITH THE OREGONIAN; we transfer to you one of the sets we have contracted for with the publisher, at the same price we have agreed to pay for such sets.

These volumes, containing the recital of events, the causes responsible for the liberties we enjoy, all from the pen of the chief actor in the greatest drama of the world's history, have been aptly named

"THE TEXTBOOK OF THE NATION"

The archives of the State Department at Washington, public and private libraries, historical societies and private collectors of Jeffersonian manuscript, have all lent their aid and furnished free everything in their possession from the pen of America's most remarkable citizen.

They contain an exact reproduction in fac simile, printed from the Government plates, of the famous Jefferson Bible.

They contain a complete and comprehensive ANALYTICAL INDEX; a BIBLIOGRAPHY; the celebrated "Anas" up to the time of Jefferson's retirement from the Secretaryship of State, on January 1, 1794. Some of his friends have regretted that they were ever published. However that may be, they have been published, and it was manifestly the purpose of Mr. Jefferson that they should be. Late in life, "when the passions of the times had passed away," he carefully revised them for publication.

"At this day," he says, "after the lapse of twenty-five years, or more, from their dates, I have given to the whole a calm revision, when the passions of the times are passed away, and the reasons of the transactions act alone upon the judgment. Some of the informations I had recorded are now cut out from the rest, because I have seen that they were incorrect, or doubtful, or merely personal or private, with which we have nothing to do. I should, perhaps, not have thought the rest worth preserving, but for their testimony against the only history of that period, which pretends to have been compiled from authentic and unpublished documents." Considering these circumstances, these three volumes of the "Anas" ought not to be excluded from a publication professing to be a complete edition of the Writings of Thomas Jefferson. They are accordingly inserted in the form in which he left them after his last revision.

The supplementary portion of the "Anas," omitted from the Congressional Edition published in 1853, extends from 1797 to 1808, covering many interesting events of Jefferson's first and second Administrations while President of the United States.

Every important State paper is reproduced in fac simile, and it is as though you were reading the original document. The work is replete with illustrations of historic value; the collection of portraits of Jefferson and of all signers of the Declaration of Independence is the most complete ever published.

The price was low even when sold by the publishers at their regular figure, because the labor of the distinguished citizens who have edited this monumental work and contributed special articles has all been given without charge, and from motives of patriotism of love of liberty and humanity. At the special Oregonian price, you will be surprised and wonder how such a sumptuously bound, gilt-top volume, with all the features of an edition de luxe, can be produced for the money.

The Oregonian will send full particulars upon request, also sample pages and special "easy terms" offer. Send in coupon today. We do not expect to have a set left in 30 days.

MAIL THIS COUPON TODAY.

The Oregonian, Portland, Oregon. Gentlemen: Kindly send, without expense to me, descriptive pamphlet of "The Writings of Thomas Jefferson." Also particulars as to terms, etc.

Name
Street
Town

THE OREGONIAN OFFICE