

REVERED TRIBUTE TO JEFFERSON

Day Set Apart in His Honor Is Observed by Hundreds of Enthusiasts.

RAIN FAILS TO MAR EVENT

Colonel James Jackson Delivers Eloquent Oration on Work of the President Who Paved Way for Exposition.

Little more than a century ago the Lewis and Clark expedition was organized and sent by America's greatest expansion President, Thomas Jefferson.

Five hundred people braved a veritable torrent of rain in order to attend the memorial exercises in the Auditorium at 3 P. M.

The programme was brief and simple—such a programme as Jefferson would have approved of had he been present.

Mayor Lane paid a brief but eloquent tribute to the man whom he accounted one of the greatest and the greatest he ever lived.

Colonel Jackson's Tribute.

After a vocal solo by E. S. Thomas, the speaker of the day, Colonel James Jackson, was introduced.

With nations, as with men, there comes a time in their history when they are faced, leads on to fortune, to greatness and prosperity.

The people of the West, in Jefferson's time, who occupied the country between the Appalachians and the Mississippi, were clamorous to have the Mississippi open to the Gulf of Mexico.

It now became evident to Jefferson that there was something else to be done to round out the Louisiana Purchase.

There were many prominent Americans who did not want our country to go beyond the Rocky mountains.

It was not permitted the "Sage of Monticello" to witness the full fruition of his far-reaching statesmanship.

The development of this country is the marvel of the ages, and shows what can be accomplished by an enlightened and self-governing people.

favorably the physical and mental characteristics of a people, so that here the much-favored land, where the eye constantly drinks in an Arcadian beauty of landscape, and the brow is bathed with the balmy atmosphere, where "the mountains look on Marathon and Marathon on the sea," there should grow up a race of people who will vie with the best of the world.

The development of this country, though great and wonderful, has just begun. When I look back and recall what has taken place in my lifetime seems like a dream.

APPEALS ARE STILL FEW. Only Thirty-Five Thus Far From Group Juror's Awards.

Appeals from the decisions of the group jurors at the Exposition numbered 35 last evening.

To say that Oregon leads or that any exhibit Director Doehz yesterday, "The group jurors by their returns change the situation every moment. No one can form an idea as to what states and counties will gain the largest number of awards.

Two Hundred Knights Coming. About 200 delegates are expected to attend the annual convention of the Oregon Grand Lodge, Knights of Pythias, to be held in this city Tuesday and Wednesday of this week.

Tacoma Sends Praise. A resolution of praise has been extended the Lewis and Clark Exposition management by the Tacoma Chamber of Commerce and Board of Trade.

GARNET JEWELRY.

Among the exhibits that are a center of attraction in the Foreign Building to those who understand and appreciate beautiful jewelry is the fine display of Bohemian garnet jewelry.

It is a well-known law of physiology that environment affects favorably or unfavorably the physical and mental characteristics of a people.

LEAGUE PLAN FAILS

Pacific Coast Poultry Associations Decline to Unite.

NEAR-BY CITIES MAY DO SO

Portland, Seattle and Tacoma Union Discussed—Awards Made for Fine Fowls Now on Exhibition.

They gave the proposed league full consideration, but the associations entered in membership. The league was to be very much of a kennel or baseball league.

Northwest Cities May Form League. It is believed, however, that the Portland, Seattle and Tacoma associations will organize a league, and a meeting for this purpose is to be held at an early date.
