A REVIVAL OF THE EMPIRE IN Millinery's Realm

"Bijou" Salons—Annex, 2d Floor.

All the pomp, the glitter and the dash of the French Court is thrown upon the screen of millinery fashion this season, A. D. 1905-6. The glitter of Josephine's reign—the Empire. The gold and the green of Napoleon's own apparel; the dash of the Directoire; the grace, the beauty of the Louis—but what cares American Madame for the analysis of historic styles of yesterday, once she passes o'er the threshold and feels the art-splend of those handsome Autumn Hats in the "Bijou" Salons of correct millinery? She sees they are more beautiful than ever before—more bewitching and charming than any elsewhere—and it's enough; enough to make this Portland's busiest millinery house. New York's favorites appear here simultaneously with Broadway and the Avenue shops. Just now 'tis the blocked felt shapes that attract popular fancy. A dent and a poke here and there gives a variety of fetching shapes to the crowns, while pretty trimmings of fancy wings, birds, breasts, etc., enhance the beauty of the jaunty hats. All colorings. Prices... $5 to $15 Hats of today? Yes.

We're Price-Wizards When DRESS GOODS Are Considered

Authoritative weaves in smart dress stuffs at remarkable reduction. We went to the headquarters of fashion for our stocks—choose what America's other great style stores are exploiting today at more price, the stuffs that dictators say must go into Winter suits of tailored men. Dress fabrics exclusive with best houses—sold in Portland only by Olds, Wortman & King. In blacks and colorings that suggest the richness of the Autumn leaf, rather than vividly colored blossoms—fabrics and colorings full of newness. While some of the values may appear a trifle sensational, remember the authenticity of their source.
