

6. A. R. EDWARDS

His Strictures on Civil War Veterans Are Bitterly Resented.

RESOLUTIONS ARE ADOPTED

Soldiers Who Saved Union Grieved and Surprised That a Minister of the Gospel Should Make Slanderous Statements.

Rev. James Edmunds, the Baptist Sunday school missionary, of Oregon, residing in Portland, has stirred up a hornet's nest by his remarks before the Baptist Convention of Washington and Idaho, held in Spokane, while delivering an address on "Mission to Childhood," by his references to the veterans of the Civil War. The veterans everywhere resent the intimation that Rev. Mr. Edmunds makes that they are a "whisky and tobacco-soaked class," and the indication that he has gone up against a buzz-saw. Last night Summer Post No. 12, G. A. R., on the East Side, held a camp fire, where Commander E. T. Hills, Chaplain Henry E. Barden, and other prominent members of the Portland posts were present.

Adopt Strong Resolutions. It was a season of speeches and feasting on hot beef, beans and other substantial, in the course of which the following resolutions were read and adopted:

Whereas, The Rev. James Edmunds, a Baptist missionary, is reported to have made the following fling at the veterans of the Civil War in his address before the Washington and Idaho Convention in Spokane, in speaking on "Mission to Childhood," "An educational conscience would revolutionize our present method of teaching patriotism by means of martial songs and parades. To glorify in a war and to shoot somebody is now held to be the acme of patriotism. And we hold our veterans who come back and dissipate themselves with drink and riotous living as the model of patriotism when they spend the winter. My father was a soldier in the Civil War, but the day has gone past when I will hurrah for a parade of veterans steeped in tobacco and whisky."

"If the church had an educational conscience which would hold up before men like folk of Missouri, who have stood for purity and against graft, instead of these polluted veterans, we would have a much higher standard of patriotism. Whereas, We express our amazement at the statement made in the foregoing quotation from a minister of the gospel, that has always been foremost in honoring the veterans of the Civil War, and cannot allow such a statement to go unnoted, delivered as it was before a convention of that denomination, but in our reply we do not intimate that the Baptists are in any way responsible for the uncalculated utterances of Rev. Mr. Edmunds.

Whereas, We deny most vigorously that the veterans of the Civil War hold up war as the symbol of all honor and patriotic virtue, but on the contrary the Grand Army of the Republic teaches that peace is the highest and noblest aim of the nation, and the statement in the foregoing by the Rev. Mr. Edmunds that "to shoulder a gun and shoot somebody is the acme of patriotism," is wholly without foundation. This organization denounces that statement as an insult to the Civil War veterans of the whole country, and proclaims the ignorance of the Rev. Mr. Edmunds of the principles of the G. A. R., and distorts the very objects for which the soldiers and volunteers fought—they fought for peace.

Whereas, We hold further that the marching of the battle-scarred veterans on public occasions, to martial music, with halting and tottering footsteps, teaches respect for the defenders of the Union, and in no way detracts from the respect in the Nation we all love; the veterans have taught patriotism in the public schools of the Nation by the erection of monuments, by the beautiful Memorial Day ceremonies by which the honored dead are remembered, by placing on the National colors on every public schoolhouse of the Nation; but public addresses in the interests of peace and quiet, by act and deed, and hence we repudiate the intimation that we teach war and its attendant horrors to the young children of this country.

Whereas, As Rev. Mr. Edmunds intimates that the veterans of the Civil War are a dissipated lot, we denounce this statement as most outrageous and untrue, and as an insult to the intelligence of the American people. While it is true that a small portion of the "boys in blue" contracted the habit of drink and using tobacco while on the firing line in defense of the Union, it is not true that they, as a rule, are a dissipated class of men. On the contrary, the noblest, the ablest and brightest and purest men this Nation has produced are Civil War veterans; and at the last Grand Encampment held in Denver, where the flower of the Grand Army of the Republic was gathered from all the states, not a single intoxicated veteran was seen of the 10,000 gathered in that city during the sessions; therefore, we repudiate the statement.

Resolved, By the members of Summer Post, No. 12, G. A. R., in campfire assembled, That we repudiate the intimation that Rev. James Edmunds, the son of a worthy veteran, that the veterans are not worthy the respect of the Nation as examples of patriotic devotion to the country shown on the hundreds of battle-fields, or that the faltering and tottering feet of the veterans, as they march to the cemeteries to honor the dead, are examples of corruption, pollution and dissipation; and hereby express our amazement that the son of a veteran should have given utterance to such sentiments as are quoted in the foregoing extract.

Commander Hills Speaks. Following the reading of the resolutions Chairman C. J. Ward called on Department Commander T. E. Hills, who spoke with much feeling in defense of the veterans maligning by Rev. Mr. Edmunds. "My observation has been," said Commander Hills, "that the veterans of the Civil War, as a class, are not dissipated. We have shown to the world that we are a sober and industrious lot, and I believe that, man to man, the G. A. R. veterans will compare favorably with any of the citizens of the Nation. I attended the Denver encampment, and out of the 8,000 veterans who were there I never saw an intoxicated man. There may have been some intoxication, but I saw none of it in that great gathering. In intelligence, mental grasp and sobriety, I think that body would compare favorably with any body of the sort in the world. I don't say that none of them are drunk, for some do to excess; but as a class they are sober and loyal citizens."

Chaplain Barden's Tribute. Following came a fine and eloquent tribute to the veterans of the G. A. R. from Department Chaplain Rev. Henry E. Barden, who declared that Rev. James Edmunds, who had ridiculed the veterans of the Civil War, was not a Baptist and had never been ordained as a Baptist minister. He said that the veterans as a class were loyal and law-abiding citizens, and full of patriotism, and denounced in strongest terms the characterization of the veterans by Rev. Mr. Edmunds as most untrue and unworthy the son of a veteran. Remarks were made by G. E. Calkin, M. I. Pratt, Comrade Lemons (of Huntington), J. McGowan, F. R. Neale and others, and the Rev. James Edmunds received censure that would have made his ears tingle to have heard. The resolutions were adopted by a rising vote, every one in the hall standing. Department Commander Hill announced that Department Chaplain Henry E. Barden had been commissioned to prepare for the press an answer to Rev. James Edmunds from the Department of Oregon.

TRYING TO HEAL SPLIT

Negotiations for Merger of Rival Livestock Associations.

DENVER, Oct. 21.—The proposition to amalgamate the National Livestock Association and the American Stockgrowers' Association on a basis that would also dispose of the much mooted question of representation of the packing, railroad and commission house interests, was taken up at the joint conference of the executive committees of the two organizations at the Brown Palace Hotel yesterday. A plan outlined by a subcommittee was voted down after a somewhat extended discussion and the subcommittee returned to make another effort to formulate a plan that would be acceptable to all interests. The subcommittee will report again today. The report which was drafted yesterday, recommended that the National Livestock Association be changed to National Livestock Committee, consisting of representatives of the producers of livestock. This committee would in turn appoint committees on railroads, packing houses, commission houses, etc., which would give those interests a representation and a right to be heard whenever they felt the need of expression. The report recommended that the American Stockgrowers become known as the American Cattle-growers' Association, with a membership consisting of cattle, horses and swine growers. The sheep men, the report suggested, should affiliate with the American Woolgrowers' Association.

PERSONAL MENTION.

Mr. and Mrs. George W. Haasen have returned to 222 Twelfth street, after an absence of several months.

Mrs. John C. Bryant, who has been at St. Vincent's Hospital the past six weeks recovering from the effects of an operation, has returned to her residence at 215 Twelfth street.

Mrs. T. E. Clapp, wife of the late Rev. Mr. Clapp, who was pastor of the First Congregational Church of this city, from April 5, 1886, to January 31, 1894, has been spending several weeks in Portland as the guest of Mrs. Frank M. Warren. Last Friday she left for Brooklyn, N. Y., her present home. During Mrs. Clapp's stay in Oregon she spent a week in Forest Grove, visiting old friends, among them Mrs. Cephus F. Clapp, wife of the Congregational home missionary superintendent of Oregon.

Mr. Ferdinand Akoun, oriental commissioner to the Lewis and Clark Exposition, left Portland Friday for Los Angeles, where he will spend the winter. Mr. Akoun was accompanied by his mother, Mrs. O. Akoun, and the Misses Lottie, Leonie and Celestine Tetime, his cousins. This family will be greatly missed among the large circle of personal friends they have made during their residence here. They have given many delightful oriental dinners and have fully illustrated the culture and refinement of the Far East. Mrs. B. Rodite, another member of the Akoun family, will remain here another week.

Mrs. P. B. Chamberlain, of Walla Walla, Wash., has been spending several weeks in Portland as the guest of her daughter, Miss M. Etta Chamberlain. Mrs. Chamberlain came to Oregon from Maine 50 years ago, as the wife of Rev. F. B. Chamberlain, the second pastor of the First Congregational Church of this city. She and her husband removed to Walla Walla in 1843, and soon after Mr. Chamberlain organized the First Congregational Church in that place, which was the first church of that denomination in what is now the State of Washington. During the past week Mrs. Chamberlain visited Forest Grove for the first time in 42 years, and was the guest of Mrs. S. H. Marsh, an old-time friend of two score years ago.

CHICAGO, Oct. 21.—(Special)—Oregonians registered today as follows: From Portland—B. C. Hayes and wife, at the Palmer House; G. T. Ketcheson, at the Morrison. One of the best features of a sea bath, says the "Family Doctor," is that water inadvertently swallowed by bathers, which is a wonderful tonic.

Withdraw as Railway's Attorney. Joseph Simon appeared before Judge Frazer yesterday and stated that the firm of Dolph, Mallory, Simon & Garin would withdraw as counsel in all cases in which the Portland Railway Company was concerned, for the reason that certain changes have been made. The cause of the withdrawal is that O. F. Paxton

IS OPPOSED TO IT

Judge Webster Objects to the Bridge Advertisements.

HE GIVES HIS REASONS

An Injunction May Be Sought to Prevent the Execution of the Contract Entered Into by County Commissioners.

"I am opposed to advertising signs on the draw rests of the bridges, and always have been," said Judge Webster, yesterday. "The contract was agreed upon by County Commissioners Lightner and Barner while I was absent from the city. There are several reasons why I am opposed to it. The county does not need the money. A small sum, such as $500, is of little consequence. Another thing, if it is advisable to let a contract of this kind, the county ought to get as much as it can for it, everybody should be given a chance to bid, and it ought not to be granted to the first person that comes along."

The privilege was awarded to Allan H. Joy, attorney, who recently became the law partner of United States Senator John H. Mitchell. Mr. Joy does not propose to engage in the advertising business. He has not divulged the name of his principal, but is supposed to be working in the interest of the billboard trust. The Taxpayers' League and Chamber of Commerce organizations protested against the letting of the contract, and an injunction suit may be brought by those opposed to the scheme, and who are working in the interest of civic improvement. There is little doubt but what an injunction would be issued, as in the jurisdiction of the County Commissioners' Court over bridges and ferries is to operate and maintain them, and not to let contracts to have them plastered with unsightly advertising placards.

JUVENILE COURT CASES.

Boy Given Into Custody Who Shot Another Lad.

Judge Frazer made an order in the Juvenile Court yesterday committing Archie Edelman, 12 years old, who shot Johnny Manhuber in the shoulder with a .22-caliber revolver. The boys reside with their parents on East Sixth street, in the vicinity of Inman, Poolson & Co.'s mill. They quarreled a week ago, and Edelman shot Manhuber in the shoulder with a .22-caliber revolver. The bullet pierced the flesh and inflicted a slight flesh wound. The evidence advanced in the case disclosed that the difference between the boys was of the ordinary character. Mrs. Cypher, with three children, Irene, Earl and Maud, the eldest a beautiful girl 12 years old, was before the court to answer to a charge of neglecting them, and failure to send them to school. The mother and the children have been living in cheap lodging-houses of a questionable reputation. They were well dressed, and Mrs. Cypher said she worked and cared for them the best she could, and that her husband left her eight years ago. She did not want to part with her children, and explained that she could not afford better lodgings than those she has occupied. She mentioned several persons who would testify in her favor. Judge Frazer decided to place the children under the care of the Boys' and Girls' Aid Society for a month. In the meantime, Mrs. Mills Trumbull, one of the probation officers, will endeavor to assist the mother to find steady, remunerative employment.

Husband Asked to Support Wife.

An amended complaint in the suit of Jennie Willingham, guardian of Maggie Clark, her sister, against R. A. Clark, the husband, was filed in the State Circuit Court yesterday by Emmons & Emmons, attorneys. Mrs. Clark is confined in the Mount Tabor Sanitarium, and her sister, several days ago, by means of an injunction order signed by Judge Frazer, prevented her removal to the insane asylum. Mr. Clark, the husband, is a saloonkeeper at Canyonville, and is alleged to own property worth $10,000, and to have an income of $200 a month. The court has been appointed general counsel for the company. Mr. Simon's firm was attorneys for the City & Suburban Railway Company, and Mr. Paxton was counsel for the old Portland Railway Company prior to the consolidation of the two companies.

Indicted for Attempt to Kill.

Dan Jones, a bartender in the Badger saloon, who attempted to shoot T. G. Bligh, proprietor of the Elk saloon, on Friday night, October 13, has been indicted by District Attorney Manning, and will be required to appear in the State Circuit Court on Monday, when the case will be set for trial. Jones has been released from custody on a bond, for $500 and $500 cash bail additional. The affair occurred in a lodging-house at 239 Corbett street, conducted by Bligh. Jones is said to have been jealous of the attentions paid to Gertrude Johnson by G. A. Sheldon, bartender for Bligh, and wanted the woman to go to Vancouver, Wash. There was a quarrel, and Jones snatched a revolver at Bligh.

Suit for Rent Begins.

The Lincoln Building Company has sued H. C. Bowers and A. A. Wright in the State Circuit Court for $500, alleged to be due as rent for the Lincoln apartment building, in Seattle, for the months of March, April, May and June, 1905. The complaint recites that in January, 1905, the defendants leased the building for five years, at a rental of $2000 a month.

File Incorporation Papers.

Incorporation articles of the Round Top Coal Company were filed in the County Clerk's office yesterday by H. H. Parker, A. E. Gebhardt and S. B. Lindholm; capital stock, $100,000. The objects are to operate coal mines, etc. The same persons also filed articles of incorporation of the Elk Creek Coal Company; capital stock, $50,000.

Judge Sears Is Ill.

Judge Alfred F. Sears, of the State Circuit Court, who has been in poor health for some time past, is confined to his home by illness, and his condition is said to be so serious that he may not be able to attend court any more this month, and probably not during the November term.

Appointed as Guardian.

G. W. Stapleton was appointed in the County Court yesterday guardian of D. K. Abrams, an incompetent person, who resides in Clark County, Washington. He has an estate in Columbia and Multnomah Counties valued at $20,000. N. C. Hall is his guardian in Clark County.

Attachment Suit Begun.

The National Cash Register Company has begun an attachment suit in the State Circuit Court against Theodore Schmidt and J. Henke to recover $200 alleged to be due for a cash register.

Post-Exposition Attendance.

Each day of the post-exposition period has brought out a large number of people who wished to have a parting view of the beautiful grounds or attend auction sales of foreign exhibits. On Monday the attendance reached 5667; Tuesday, 4567; Wednesday, 4457; Thursday, 4287; Friday, 3777. The attendance for yesterday was estimated at 5000.

GEORGE E. JABOUR AND MISS JULIA MOUTRAN WHO WILL BE MARRIED

With the closing of the Trail at the Lewis and Clark Exposition, the last chapter of George E. Jabour's career as a showman has come to an end. George E. Jabour has been in the show business ever since he was a young man, and it is with surprise that his friends learn that this veteran showman, known all over the United States, is to forsake the business with which he has been associated for so many years. When one stops to consider the source of this determination on the part of George E. Jabour, the change does not appear to be so extraordinary. Financial reasons have had nothing to do with it, but, of course, it is all the work of Cupid, which has been hovering over the Trail magnate for sometime, and at last has cast his shadow over him. Tonight he gracefully accepts the yoke of matrimony, at the same time saying good-bye forever to the show business, with all of its charms and attractions. The bride is Miss Julia Moutran, a beautiful and accomplished Syrian, and it is she who insisted upon Mr. Jabour leaving the show business. It was only accomplished after a long, hard struggle, in which love came to the top, as it usually does. Mr. Jabour and Miss Moutran have been deeply attached to each other for sometime, but the young lady in question refused to become his wife until he gave her assurances to quit the show business for good and for all. After much consideration, and not without a struggle, Mr. Jabour consented. The happy couple will be married tonight in the parlors of the Washington Hotel, Tenth and Washington streets. They will make their home here, and Mr. Jabour will shortly engage in business in Portland. Miss Moutran was born in Baalbec, Syria, 24 years ago. She has traveled all over Europe and studied in many of the most famous colleges. She speaks three different languages fluently, and is possessed of much grace and many accomplishments. Her family is one of the most noted in Turkey, and is very wealthy. An uncle of the bride is very close to the throne, being the confidential adviser of the Sultan. She met Mr. Jabour six years ago, in New York City. Mr. Jabour was born in Syria about 24 years ago. He is well-known to Portland people, and has many friends in this city.

OREGON HISTORICAL SOCIETY MAY MOVE TO EUGENE.

Permanent Young Favors This Plan, if Permanent Building is Not to Be Erected in Portland.

If the wishes of some of the members of the Oregon Historical Society bear fruit Portland and the stockholders of the Lewis and Clark Fair will have no further cause to worry about the memorial hall and the home for the exhibits and collections of the Oregon Historical Society. The newest plan, and one that is fostered by President E. G. Young, of the State University at Eugene, and at the same time the secretary of the society, is to erect a library building at the university and in it provide for the arrangement and housing of the property of the society. It is understood that Professor Young would not advocate such a course were a building to be provided in Portland for the collections now in the keeping of the society, but he takes the ground that some place must be prepared, that the City Hall is a temporary place and inadequate, and that in other states the historical societies usually have their headquarters at the State Universities for the benefit of the students of those institutions. Professor Young is not only a member of the society who is in favor of making the change, so it is said, but a great many of those who live in Portland are willing to see the transfer made, if it will give added care to those relics which have been collected at so much labor and cost. The members of the society, so many of them as have expressed their opinions on this subject, are not in favor of placing the archives of the society in the Forestry building. They take the stand that the building has served its purpose during the Fair, and that it is no permanent and not a proper place in which to store the possessions of the Historical Society. Those who are in favor of purchasing a park are making but little outward showing, though they may be at work silently. It is understood that the Portland Consolidated Street Railway Company has offered to sell a piece of ground to the city, adjacent to the grounds surrounding the Forestry building, for $5000 less than its market value, provided the State Commission will fulfill the requirements of the law and erect a memorial building upon the land.

Train Wrecked by Broken Rail.

PORTR SCOTT, Kan., Oct. 21.—West-bound Missouri Pacific passenger train No. 49, carrying cars from Kansas City and St. Louis, struck a broken rail and was wrecked five miles west of Fort Scott early today. The baggage and express cars, mail car, smoking car, the chafe car and a sleeper left the track and turned over. Fully 30 persons were more or less injured, but no one was killed.

Of the injured, only 13 were seriously enough hurt to be taken to the hospital. The others, whose injuries were slight, continued their journey.

The most seriously hurt are: A. Spangberger, St. Joseph, Mo., badly cut about head, cannot live; Thomas Wright, Rochester, Ill., seriously cut about face and head; G. B. Gray, Kansas City, cashier American National Bank, cuts on head and chin.

Handsome New Vaudeville Theater.

A heavy force of workmen are at work putting the finishing touches on the new Liberty Theater, at Fourth and Stark streets. Under the management of Keating & Flood, a new vaudeville house will be opened there about November 1. The management states that the theater is to be the handsomest and most finely appointed popular-price vaudeville house on the Pacific Coast. Regular circuit attractions will be booked, and the management will cater particularly to ladies and children.

In Memory of Sweden's King.

A memorial service will be held at the Taylor-Street Methodist Church on Saturday night, November 4, in honor of Gustavus Adolphus, a former King of Sweden. It will be given under the auspices of the Columbian Swedish Singing Club, assisted by the Swedish prima donna, Madame Norell, and other well-known talent.

The Denver & Rio Grande has established through Pullman standard sleeping-car service between Portland and Denver, leaving Portland and Denver at 7:30 p. m. seven days a week. The train will stop seven hours in Salt Lake City second day and arriving in Denver at 10:30 p. m. following day. For reservations call at 124 Third street.
