BRINGS BIG CARGO

Steamer Aragonia Due From Orient Tomorrow.

DREDGE LADD IN DRYDOCK

Lighthouse-Tender Manzanita Will Be Raised—Steamer Roanoke to Carry Igorrotes to San Francisco.

The steamer Aragonia is due here from the Orient, via San Francisco, tomorrow night. Her cargo for Portland consists mainly of tea, matting and Chinese merchandise, and she will load out of Portland with grain and flour for the Orient. She is due to sail from here October 21. The repairs to the Government dredge W. S. Ladd, which went on the drydock Friday, were completed yesterday afternoon, and she will be floated at 8 o'clock this morning. She will leave the harbor on Monday to complete her work on the lower river.

STEAMER INTELLIGENCE

Steamer	From	Date
Aragonia	Orient	Oct. 23
Roanoke	San Francisco	Oct. 23
Kruger	San Francisco	Oct. 23
F. A. Kilburn	San Francisco	Oct. 26
Costa Rica	San Francisco	Oct. 26
Redondo	San Francisco	Oct. 30
Nicomedia	Yokohama	Oct. 31

The steaming work was progressing favorably, and that the ship would be raised within the next few days. Under a contract completed yesterday, the steamer Roanoke, when she sails for San Francisco on Tuesday night, will carry 45 Igorrotes, the members of the native village at the Lewis and Clark Fair. The Igorrotes are bound for Los Angeles, where they will be a feature in the new attraction, "Yenice," near there. The Crodon is due in San Francisco today, and should be in Portland by October 30, in time to save her charter. The French bark Touraine, under-charter to Balfour, Guthrie & Co., and which left San Francisco September 28, arrived in Astoria yesterday. She will come to Portland to load wheat for the United Kingdom.

REGULATOR STICKS ON SANDS

Wheat-Laden, She Spends Twelve Hours Hard Aground.

The river steamer Regulator arrived undamaged at her dock yesterday afternoon, after having been hung on a sandbar near Oneonta Gorge for over 12 hours. The accident occurred late Friday night while the Regulator was coming down from the Dalles, loaded heavily with wheat and carrying 100 passengers. The boat was landed near Oneonta Gorge to let off some passengers. In making the landing a strong wind coming down the canyon helped to drive her hard in the soft, "gummy" beach, with the result that, being loaded down, she stuck fast. Word was sent to the Portland office and the Joseph Kellogg was sent to Oneonta early yesterday morning to aid the Regulator. Efforts to pull the latter off, however, were unavailing, so the Kellogg returned to Portland with the Regulator passengers. Later in the day the Bailey Gatzert succeeded in hauling the Regulator off the sands, and she came to Portland unharmed.

Position of Grain Ships.

The position of the grain ships in the harbor last night was as follows: Loading-Knight Errant, at Montgomery No. 2, Auchincloss, at Oceanic dock; Fennia, at Irving dock. In the stream—Oregon, partly loaded, and Durbridge, with cargo. (See McFarlane, at Oceanic dock; discharging ballast, Carradale, at Bandfield-Veyssey's dock; chartered, Adolf, at P. W. F. & R. Co.'s dock, and Oesano, partly loaded, at Victoria Dockhouse.

CAPTAIN HOOGHKIRK A HERO

Iralda's Master Saves Mother and Son From Drowning.

True heroism was shown yesterday by Captain C. I. Hooghkirk, of the steamer Iralda, in the rescue from drowning of Mrs. Clifford Harris and her 7-year-old son. The incident occurred near Willow Bar, about 18 miles from Portland. The Harris family ran a dairy near there, and ship milk to Portland by the Iralda every morning. The cans of milk from the Harris dairy are delivered to the Iralda in midstream, and, as customary, the milk was taken out to the steamer yesterday in a small boat containing Mrs. Harris and her son, a hired man handling the cans. As the cans were being passed from the rowboat to the steamer, however, the former capsized, throwing its occupants into the river and in a current that rapidly carried them away. Captain Hooghkirk, who was standing outside the rig-house, saw the accident immediately, and, without a moment's hesitation, plunged into the river and succeeded in catching the mother and son and holding them in safety until relief came from the steamer. Had it not been for the prompt and courageous action of the Iralda's master, it is certain that the accident would have resulted in death.
