Fifth, Sixth and Washington Sts. Portland

THE OLDS, WORTMAN & KING STORE

Free Exposition and Slaughter Sale High Art Pottery

STARTS MONDAY IN THE "HOUSEKEEPERS" EXCHANGE," THIRD FLOOR.

As you step off the monster elevators tomorrow that make the third floor like to a continuation of the grand main promenades, you may almost imagine yourself at the Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York or the pottery-room at Tiffany's. We arranged for the removal last week of the entire

Weller Exhibit of Art Pottery From the Exposition

(Where it was awarded the grand gold medal over all competitors) to this store, where it has been arranged in a prominent and spacious section on third floor for FREE EXHIBIT to our patrons. Hundreds of articles, and each selected with special care for expose at the Lewis and Clark Exposition. We shall offer the beautiful pieces for a brief period, starting Monday, to our public at about HALF REGULAR PRICES! Our intelligent clientele cannot underestimate the importance of this event to lovers of the beautiful in art in pottery. Here are the pieces that rival in their superb metallic luster the wares that lie buried in old Pompeii and the tombs of the Ptolemys, the replicas of the sought-for and much-admired "Tiffany-ware." Not a hodge-podge convention of things without a parentage, but an expose of the handsomest, most elegant products of the world's greatest makers—the Wellers, of Zanesville, O., the largest pottery in the United States, and the center of the pottery art trade in America, noted for their rare and magnificent productions—the only modern potters that ever yet attained that peculiar metallic luster for which the pottery of the ancients is famous. Tiffany & Co. took the entire product of the Weller pottery in the Sicardo Ware for one year for their New York store. The entire line of Weller pottery is represented. Said a connoisseur who viewed the exhibit as it was being unpacked, picking a lovely vase from out the collection, "I saw the exact duplicate of this vase at Tiffany's when in New York last Spring, fell in love with it, bought it and brought it home as a gift to my wife. What did I pay for it? $75.00." And we're going to sell that vase for $20.00. There is every reason why you should turn to your advantage the opportunities of this Olds, Wortman & King sale of the Weller exhibit. That no such like event will ever be held in Portland again is almost sure—certainly not for years. In the monster gathering is ART NOVEAU MATT, Jap BIRDIMIAL, Eocene Dicksware, Dickens Matt, Mull's Landscapeware, Louwelsa flower and figure decorations, Aurelian flower and animal decorations, Weller Matt, Indian and Monk embellishments, Perfectware, heads and floral decorations and the beautiful, matchless metallic lusters. Then comes the magnificent SICARDO WARE, the greatest achievement in modern pottery. The world-famous Tiffany & Co. for the first year bought the entire output of the factory making this beautiful ware. For holiday remembrances, anniversaries and presents. There is something suitable for everyone. Thousands of pieces to select from, and every piece a selected work of art; regular values from 75c to $20; special at HALF PRICE.

WOMEN'S CORRECT APPAREL

(Portland's Largest, Foremost Wardrobe Stores for Women—Grand Salons, Second Floor.)

This department of this great store rose early in its career to the first prominence. Immediately fashionable women recognized in it a dictatorial center at which the freshest turns of fashion might be seen and judged. This has been intensely pleasing to us, and no effort has been spared to warrant an unflinching continuance of a patronage which has given us a mighty prestige, not only here at home, but abroad. The story today is short—but the stocks are long.

Our apparel buyer, Miss Bernard, now in New York, sent us a big shipment by express—came yesterday—containing 53 large bundles of NEW 3/4-LENGTH COATS, HANDSOME RAINCOATS, and SMART TAILORED SUITS—the largest single shipment ever made a Portland house, made up entirely of Women's apparel. The NEW COATS are of the popular mannish mixed materials, in dark, medium and light grays, tans and green mixtures, black, brown and blue. Both plain tailored and trimmed styles. The assortment is too varied and immense for detailed description, and our helpers are still unpacking, checking and rushing the garments into stock as we send this to press. Come in Monday and see them. If you wish to buy—suit yourself as to price, the range is wide—
