MRS. T. JEFFERSON MYERS

With only the echoes of the Exposition bustle and movement sounding in her ears, and with the mellow sunshine and luminous air of October, quietly whispering of work completed and labors performed, one is inclined to grow a bit peevish, to speak of the hush in the air and "the quiet that has come over all things." While poetical feeling may not be becoming in the social chronicler, it is quite apropos for her to speak of the "hush" that has come over Portland's social world, and of the general air of quiet that is so very apparent here. One could scarcely imagine a quieter, more socially than the past one has been. "Fins" having been written of the Exposition, it means as well, "fins" for a while, to the entertaining of house-guests and to the daily going out which was a part of the Exposition period. Mildly can now take a bit of a rest, get the buttons sewed on and plan for the winter's fun and the winter's activities. She can go over her store of dainty embroideries, inspect her linen closet, count up how many of her cut-glass pieces have been broken during the summer and stop to think whether she needs new gowns or fresh curtains. And having done all these things, she can begin plans for Christmas and the next birthdays. Meantime, everyone is rather grateful for having a period of freedom from social engagements.

Mrs. Phillip Schuyler and Mrs. Alvord leave tomorrow for a trip to the East, which will cover three or four months. They go to New York for the opening of the opera season and then to Boston, where they are to be present about Thanksgiving time to hear Miss Alice Robbins Cole's concert.

Mrs. Fielding Kelly has been giving a series of teas which have been unusually pleasant occasions. On Friday of the week before last her invites were the girls and young married women of her set. On Thursday and Friday of the past week they were married women. These are the first large affairs given by Mrs. Kelly since her return with Mr. Kelly from Manila. On Thursday Mrs. Allen Ellsworth and Mrs. James Watts poured tea for her and Mrs. Sanderson Reed served lunch. On Friday, Mrs. George Whitteles and Miss Gibson poured, and Miss Grace Warren and Mrs. Sanderson Reed assisted in the dining-room. Mrs. Kelly has had somewhat of a severe cold, but refused to disappoint her guests by recalling her invitations.

Mr. Frank Vincent Du Mond, who has completed his term as chief of the department of fine arts, leaves for New York tomorrow. Mrs. Du Mond, who has not been in the best of health for several weeks, will remain here with her mother, Mrs. Vincent, until she is better able to travel.

Captain and Mrs. R. M. Schofield, who have been visiting Mrs. Schofield's mother and sisters in Portland for the past week, will leave by the end of this week for Manila, where the captain goes to a new post. Several hostesses wished to entertain for Mrs. Schofield, but she has so far declined all invitations.

Mrs. Fred Hopkins is numbered among the absentees from town. She has gone out to her farm, and plans to remain there for several weeks.

Mrs. L. Allen Lewis will spend a part of the winter in California. She will probably not leave Portland until December or later.

The dinner given by Mr. Bowers at the Portland on Monday evening was one of the most attractive from a social standpoint that has been given in Portland for months. The color notes of maple foliage when touched with the pinks of October simply filled the dining-room with golden sunshine. The room was in some mystic fashion carpeted with the shimmering leaves, not matted together, but hanging as lightly as if whirled by some soft breeze and held suspended in a golden rain. Arched pillars and against the walls climbed and gleamed these autumn maples in all their red-gold freshness. On the mantle and hanging in rich clusters from the chandeliers were the sober colors of purple and wine-red grass. A few laurel or boxwood trees at the sides of the room toned the gaudy coloring of the maples, and a few sheaves of cut smilax were pendant or festooned from the ceiling. The table, with its mirror surface, reflected this wealth of color. Several low vases, filled with pink rose buds, were placed about the table. It was declared by the guests that Mr. Bowers possessed his best brand of champagne for the occasion, and that in some instances it had a slightly effect.

Commissioner and Mrs. Wilson H. Fairbank were guests at luncheon on Friday of Mrs. W. S. Ladd and Mrs. Corbett.

Mrs. John Kollhoff has been giving a series of small card parties, entertaining different friends.

Colonel Henry Altman, of the New York Commission, was host on Monday evening at a dinner party of eight given at the Portland Hotel. Mrs. Dolph was chaperon for the occasion, and the guests were: Miss Mabel Hammett, Mrs. Caley, who is spending the winter with her uncle and aunt, Major and Mrs. Barnhardt; Miss Wold, Major Mel. Wood and Mr. McClurg. After the dinner Miss Hammett was persuaded to go into one of the parlors and read for the guests. Mrs. Caley also sang several songs. Miss Hammett returned to Boise on Tuesday, after having spent six weeks at the Exposition as assistant hostess. Her quiet dignity and simple cordiality have been a delight to all visitors at the Idaho buildings. She has dramatic ability of a most unusual order, and at the request of friends has recited at many private gatherings here, freely exercising her delightful talent for the entertainment of her friends or guests.

Mrs. Carl Harbough will remain for two or three weeks longer with her father, Judge Williams. On account of the Judge's illness, she is not being entertained.

Mrs. John Shepard gave on Friday at-ernoon what was probably the largest card party of the week. It was in honor of Mrs. E. H. Houghton, of San Francisco, formerly Clarice Sheldon, and there were 10 tables.

Mrs. William Jones, of Tacoma, returned home last Sunday.

Ex-Governor Frank W. Rollins, of New Hampshire and Mr. George A. Batchelder, of San Francisco spent last Tuesday in Portland as the guests of Mr. O. F. Paxton. They visited the Lewis and Clark Fair grounds, and were shown over the city in a special car of the Portland Railway Company. Mr. Paxton gave a luncheon in their honor at the Arlington Club, his guests being Governor Rollins, Mr. Batchelder, T. B. Wilcox, E. B. Piper, William A. MacRae and J. C. Ainsworth. Governor Rollins inaugurated Old Home day in New Hampshire. He is president of the New Hampshire Forestry Commission, the author of several well-known books of fiction, and a son of E. H. Rollins, who was for many years United States Senator from New Hampshire, and who was in the Senate when the late Henry W. Corbett was Senator from Oregon. Mr. Batchelder is vice-president of the banking-house of E. H. Rollins & Sons, and has many friends in Portland.

Colonel Altman gave a dinner party on Friday evening at the Portland Hotel in honor of Commissioner and Mrs. Wilson H. Fairbank, of Massachusetts. Mrs. Corbett, wife of the late United States Senator H. W. Corbett; Mrs. Dolph, widow of the late Senator Dolph; and Mr. Gilbert McClurg were the other guests. Colonel Altman left on Saturday for Helena, Mont., whence he will go to Boston next New York. He carries with him the kindly remembrance of many Portlanders.

Mrs. John Robinson, of 253 King street, gave a card party of three tables on Friday evening, which was a very enjoyable affair. Miss Von Destimon captured first prize.

Mrs. H. W. Goode is leaving for the East today, and will be joined later by Mr. Goode. Mrs. J. Allen Lewis gave a good-bye dinner on Friday evening, at which the guests were Mr. and Mrs. Goode, Mrs. J. E. S. Wood and Mr. Theodore Hervey, who is soon to leave for New York to assume charge of the headquarters of the Civic Federation.

Mrs. Houghton, who was the guest of Mrs. John Shepard during the past week, will be with Mrs. Jack Ainsworth during the coming week.

WHI Madams Fames bring her handsome and talented husband to Portland with her? They make one of the finest-looking couples to be found.

Mrs. George Flanders, Miss Flanders and Miss Louise Flanders are leaving by the end of November for the East, and plan to sail on December 19 for Italy, where they will spend the winter.

Mrs. George E. Blair (Lucie Chamberlain) writes home enthusiastically of the cordial reception she met with from her new relatives in Lansing, Mich. She and her husband are now visiting with Ensign Blair's parents in that city.

Mr. Gilbert McClurg left for Colorado Springs last evening, after spending two months in Portland. Mr. McClurg has been much in demand at dinners and other social functions during the Exposition, and is highly appreciated by the people of the Exposition, and of Portland for his enjoyable social functions, as well as to the Arlington and Commercial Clubs, at which he has been a welcome guest. Mr. McClurg goes to join his talented wife.

Mrs. Phillip Schuyler was the honor guest at a farewell luncheon given her by Mrs. William Honeyman Wednesday last. The guests included Messrs. Schuyler, Van Rensselaer, Corbett, Mason, Ladd, Wilcox, Montgomery, Wood, Jones, Stott, Warren, Gauld and Clark.

EXPOSITION ECHOES.

Portlanders must continue to follow with interest the movements of the hospitable folk from other states whose presence here during the Exposition season has added so much to the summer's gaieties. One by one they are "solding their tents" and quietly leaving us. Mrs. Adelia B. Scott, official hostess for Idaho, left on Monday to take up the new duties to which she has been appointed during her absence from home, namely, those of School Director, and to resume her duties as County Treasurer. Mrs. Scott, by the way, is a rather remarkable woman. She has filled various public offices in her state, and is at the present time under bonds to the amount of $100,000 as county officer. The statement of this single fact shows the confidence with which she is regarded in her home community. At one time she was Municipal Judge. Mrs. Scott's position at the Exposition was in some ways more difficult than that of any other hostess. She had a new set of assistants each month, and by the time she had become acquainted with one month's assistants a new set came. Her work was without friction, however, and in the harmon-ous household at the Idaho building she was playfully and affectionately dubbed "Ma."

Mrs. Wiggins and Mrs. Filcher, California's popular hostesses, are to remain several weeks longer, waiting until their husbands have completed their work in connection with the California Commission.

Commissioner and Mrs. Wilson H. Fairbank, of Massachusetts, will leave about the first of November for their home in Massachusetts. They will stop en route at Salt Lake and at Denver.

Commissioner and Mrs. Ellis, of New York, expect to leave for the East some time during the coming week.

Commissioner and Mrs. James William Benham, with Mr. Benham's mother, left for the East on Thursday. They will spend the winter in New York after taking a trip into Colorado. They are sure to be much missed by the residents of the Hobart-Curtis, among whom they have been very popular.

Colonel and Mrs. Dosch were at home last Sunday afternoon, following their usual custom, and many Exposition guests took the opportunity to pay their respects. Misses Dosch have been among the most popular young women in the official circle all Summer.

Mrs. T. Jefferson Myers is enjoying a well-earned and much-needed rest at her home on the East Side.

Commissioner and Mrs. Jackson, of Maine, who were at the Portland for several days after the closing of the Exposition, left for Portland, Me., by way of Seattle, on Tuesday. They will spend a few days with Mr. Boardman, of Seattle, who was assisting hostess of the Longfellow building during a part of the Summer.

EVENTS OF THE WEEK.

Last Tuesday evening about a hundred commissioners, Government officials and other persons connected with the Exposition gathered at Mr. Walter Shaw's residence at Seventh and Washington streets. After a musical programme was rendered, Mr. Dudley Perkins, of the Massachusetts building, as master of ceremonies, stated that the purpose of the occasion was to do honor to Mr. Edith Towler Weathered and Mrs. J. J. Morgan, of Portland, ladies who had done much for the entertainment and pleasure of Exposition people during the Summer. Each of the ladies was presented with a dozen solid silver spoons, also an autograph album in which were inscribed the names of commissioners and others prominently connected with the Exposition. Commissioner Fairbank spoke in praise of the unique weekly entertainments arranged by these two ladies, such as salmon bakes, cranberry parties on the bank of the Willamette, and trips to the seashore and mountains. The programme was the first of a series of similar affairs arranged by Mrs. Weathered at other exhibitions, and said Californians were not surprised here, for she had assumed them in advance of a delightful stay in Oregon. Others expressed their appreciation. Each week during the Summer something unique was planned. The longest trip was that to Yaquina Bay. The programme was held at the California building, and together the Exposition Outing Club, as it was called, watched the turning out of the lights.

The Tuesday Afternoon Club was entertained last week by Mrs. A. A. Bailly at her home at Mount Tabor. Members responded to roll call with quotations from Henry VIII. The programme was the first of the second year's study in English literature and was in charge of the hostess. An excellent paper describing the social and political conditions of England in the time of Henry VIII was read by Mrs. Stiles. Mrs. Smith told of the value of Henry VIII to England. Mrs. Dunham gave an interesting account of the "Humantree" in England. Mrs. Stallings added to the afternoon's success by giving a full and enjoyable report of the State Federation of Women's Clubs, which met early in the month at Eugene. Light refreshments were served by the hostess during the social hour. Mrs. G. H. Ebelman will entertain the club next week at her home, 317 Eugene avenue, beginning at 2 o'clock.

After a delightful Summer, which afforded the rare opportunity of studying art in its various forms at the Lewis and Clark Exposition, the members of the John V. Water-Cook Club, met at the home of the president, Mrs. A. H. Willett, during the past week. The meeting was largely devoted to deciding upon some plan for the winter's work. The very high compliments given by the jury on awards for the work on exhibit (by several of the members) at the Lewis and Clark Exposition, has given a new impetus to do more and better work. They have, therefore, decided to engage an instructor. The arrangements are now completed and Mr. Clyde Cook engaged to lead the classes. These will open on Monday, October 23, at Logan Hall, East Washington and Grand avenue, when all the members, as well as others interested in the work are invited to be present.

The reception given by George Wright

Relief Corps, Friday evening, in honor of Miss Sarah Brown, a corps member from California, was largely attended by both corps and post members, who wished to meet Miss Brown. She is a daughter of the famous John Brown, of Ossawatimie. Flowers presented to her were received with a few well-chosen remarks. At the close ice cream, cake and fruit punch were served by the corps. Miss Brown is visiting relatives in the city. The corps sewing circle spent a delightful afternoon at the suburban home of Mrs. Jaques, on Tuesday, and were served with a luncheon at 5 o'clock by the hostess, assisted by her daughters. The next sewing will meet at the home of Mrs. Emkin, 709 Smith street, Montavilla, Tuesday, October 24. President Packard is being visited by his sister, Mrs. Fisher, of Boston.

The Thursday Night Club held one of its most successful meetings on October 19, at Unity Hall. An unusually large number of members and guests was present and the programme proved to be of exceptional interest. The Portland orchestra rendered several choice selections, which were followed by a vocal solo by R. W. Sprang. The president of the club, Mr. Herbert Booth King, then gave a humorous address, concluding with the announcement of the special feature of the evening, the performance of "The Outcast's Daughter" by the Suburban Repertoire Company. The cast was as follows: Jerry, N. H. Robinson; Blackburn, R. C. Clyde; Jack, E. R. Wilcox; Colonel Lee, George Burton; Mrs. Lee, Mrs. C. M. Mathiot; Sadie, Miss Pearl Kennedy. The play won hearty applause from all present.

The "house-furnishing party" at the Irvington Club on Friday evening last proved to be a jolly affair and was attended by about a hundred guests. This was the first of a series of parties that will be given during the winter, the next one to occur on Halloween. Messrs. Waldron, C. H. Longmeyer and William Woodward constitute the house-furnishing committee. The reception committee for Friday evening consisted of Miss Mabel Goss, Miss Helen King, Miss Lillian Each guest brought a cup and saucer. "500" formed part of the evening's entertainment and the prizes were carried off by Mrs. Charles F. Fisher and Dr. W. R. Norcross. Dancing followed and then refreshments were served and the newly donated cups and saucers christened.

The Wide-Awake Boys' Club of the White Temple was entertained by Master Frederick Falling at his home, corner Eleventh and Main streets, on Friday evening, October 20. The time was spent playing games in which all boys between the ages of 12 and 14 took part. Refreshments were served in the dining-room. Short speeches were made by the different boys. Among those present were: George McDonald, Wilbur Runyon, Frank Clark, Wilbur, Carson, Charles Howe, Rudolph Cabell, Melvin Green, Toddy Stiles, Edward and Louie Pearey, Arden Hungerford, Moyer Cole, Albert Paget, Sam Hunt, Ernest Robert, Fred Falling and Frank E. Gould.

Mrs. Clara Bewick Colby, editor of the Woman's Tribune, gathered a pleasant party to bid farewell to her friend, Mrs. W. D. Wainwright, of Portland. Mrs. Cox and Mrs. Colby were intimates in their young married days in Nebraska, and each came to Portland about the time the last Autumn, desirous to the regret of the latter, Mrs. Cox leaves shortly for San Francisco. Mrs. Colby has become a rallying center for literary and musical people and has added to the pleasure of the evening were Roy Wheeler, one of Seattle's musicians, and Claire Montelith, of Idaho, who has delighted many gatherings at the Fair.

Mrs. F. R. Stokes was hostess at a card party on Friday afternoon in honor of Miss Barron, of San Francisco. The game played was 20, and the prizes falling to Mrs. Winslow Bradford and Miss Barron. Those in attendance were Mrs. W. M. Cuke, Mrs. Winslow Bradford, Mrs. A. Pattullo, Mrs. W. H. Hathaway, Mrs. A. L. McCully, Mrs. E. Mann, Mrs. G. Mills, Miss Barron, Miss Yocum, Mrs. Thomas Brillson Foster, Mrs. J. Mettschen, Mrs. Frank Stokes. The list included Mrs. Wainwright, Mrs. Warren, Mrs. Wilbur, Mrs. W. H. Chapin, Mrs. J. Thorburn Ross, Mrs. Kate Bingham, Mrs. F. H. Stanley, Mrs. Reid, of Boston; Mrs. Metcalf, of Detroit; the Misses Breymann, Miss Gile, Mrs. Hall, Mrs. Rocky, Mrs. E. R. Richardson, Mrs. Parker, Mrs. R. B. Patterson. A reception was given in honor of Mrs. L. M. Davis last Tuesday afternoon at the home of her daughter, Mrs. J. H. Davis. The members of Camella Chapter of Eastern Star presented her with a handsome piece of cut glass and a loving cup, which they hoped would hold their love until she returned, when it would be filled again. Refreshments were served at 4 P. M. Toasts were given and all wished her a happy journey and safe return. Mrs. L. M. Davis will visit all places of interest in California and Old Mexico this winter.

The first tea of the season at the Patton Home took place on Tuesday afternoon last, and was a pronounced success, financially as well as socially. The programme of entertainment was in charge of Mrs. Edward Beale and Miss May Belle Names. Mrs. Theodore Nicolai and Mrs. Charles W. King acted as hostesses for the affair, and Mrs. C. C. Rose and Mrs. W. R. Ladd poured. The table was gay with red geraniums. The ladies connected with the management of the home plan to give a big party soon in Masonic Hall.

Prominent among fraternal events of the week was the Autumn ball given by Astra Circle, Women of Woodcraft, at Woolman Hall last Thursday evening. The decorations which were Autumn leaves with the colors of the order, and miniature campfires blended into a beautiful color scheme that added much to the gaiety of the occasion. Astra's guests numbered 140 couples, and the affair was such an unqualified success that an effort will be made toward arranging for another party in December.

The ladies of the Second Baptist Church met at the home of Mrs. McArthur, on the 11th inst. in annual session. Reports of past year were encouraging. The following officers were elected to serve for the coming year: Mrs. Ribbhoff, president; Mrs. Prink, vice-president; Mrs. Bruce, treasurer, and Mrs. Happersett, secretary. After the business session a social hour was enjoyed by the large number present. The hostess served refreshments and entertained in her usually delightful manner.

Bureka Council, 204 K, and L. of S., chartered a car Tuesday evening, which carried about 45 of its members, including installing officers, who assisted in installation of officers of Oregon City Council at Oregon City. Much credit is due the installing officers for the efficient manner in which they did their work and the fine appearance they made. An elaborate supper was served and dancing indulged in until car time.

The Thursday afternoon Whist Club was entertained by Mrs. George Zeller last Thursday. The first and second prizes were won by Mrs. N. A. Mathiot and Mrs. D. J. Gregory. ## ELECTRIC FLATIRONS

ELECTRIC IRON

No electrically heated device is more universally useful and popular than the ELECTRIC FLATIRON. In the home—in the sewing-room, and in the kitchen—it is becoming recognized as a strength and time-saver.

The flimsy embroidered shirtwaists, real lace collars and cuffs of every happy woman are not handed over to the tender mercies of the laundry. This sort of washing is done in her own room and smoothed into its original freshness and beauty with the ELECTRIC IRON, without danger of scorching or soiling with rust or soot from a flame.

In sewing-room, kitchen or laundry the ELECTRIC Iron saves time, temper and money.

WEDDINGS.

Osburn-Rahles.
The nuptials of Austin Osburn and Miss Marie Helen Rahles were solemnized at St. Mary's Church, at high noon, October 15, at Astoria, Or. The church was beautifully decorated for the occasion, the dominant features being ferns, Autumn leaves and long garlands of English laurel, the latter being festooned over the center aisle, creating a most pleasing effect. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Father John Waters, the pastor, according to the solemn ritual of the Roman Catholic church. The bride, who is the daughter of Mrs. Albert Rahles, of Portland, and niece of Mrs. Elsie Rahles-Devlin, of Astoria, entered the arm of her brother, Albert W. Rahles, escorted by Mrs. J. Adrian Epping as matron of honor, and the Misses Katherine Cahalin and Maude Rahles as maids of honor. She was handsomely gowned in white liberty satin, with garniture of Irish point lace, and wore a large picture hat. Mrs. J. Adrian Epping, matron of honor, was attired in a gown of ecru net, elaborately trimmed with narrow Valenciennes lace over corn-colored silk, and carried pale yellow chrysanthemums. Miss Cahalin looked charming in pale pink point d'esprit over pink silk, and carried pink carnations. Mrs. Rahles looked dainty and sweet in white silk organdie, carrying a shower of pink carnations. The groom was attended by William F. Gratke as best man, Harry D. Gray and Robert W. McLean acting as ushers. The bridal party entered the church to the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march.
