

EVENTS of the WEEK

BIRTH SCENE AT ST. STEPHEN'S CHAPEL

MRS. EDWARD H. CAHALAN, PRES. OF THE FRUIT AND FLOWER MISSION

MRS. HARRY E. COLEMAN, SECRETARY OF THE FRUIT AND FLOWER MISSION

THANKSGIVING and football have filled people's thoughts during the past week to the exclusion of more trivial social affairs. To be sure, the Watkins Mills concert on Wednesday evening, and the Kerr-King wedding and Miss Tingle's "turkey demonstration," which occurred on the same day, were all well attended, but when all's said, it has been the family reunion and the social affairs that centered around the athletic contest on Multnomah field that have held the greatest interest. Nearly everybody went to the game and many who did so went out again in the evening. The patronesses for the concert were not content with merely lending their names for the benefit of the affair. Nearly all of them were in attendance, and many brought smaller or larger parties.

Mr. Wesley Ladd's luncheon Thursday was one of the most elaborate affairs of Thanksgiving day and as many who did so went out again in the evening. It was charming. His guests were Mrs. Ladd, Mr. and Mrs. John Kellock, the John Sheppard, the Robert Treat Platt, Mrs. Houghton, Mrs. Annie Stone, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cheney, Mr. John Carson, and Mr. Bob Howard. It was really a "Multnomah" luncheon and the Multnomah colors were conspicuously present. In the center of the table a swan was filled with white chrysanthemums. At one end were six turkeys from whose bills red streamers were strung backwards to the swan's beak. At each cover was a miniature football, filled with red and white candles and serving as a place card as it bore the name of a guest on red and white ribbon. There were red and white carnation boutonnières for the men and rosebuds for the ladies made in the same colors. Individual almond boxes in turkey shape were placed on the table. The evening idea. After luncheon guests adjourned to the drawing-room in the center of which was a stand bearing a large turkey. The turkey was surrounded by a brood of young ones as many in number as the guests of the day. Each guest was directed to choose a chick, and at a given signal all pulled one string and a shower of favors came forth—fanciful hand mirrors, a box of colored crayon and other pretty souvenirs.

Later a tally-ho coach flaming with the Multnomah colors was driven up and Mr. Ladd took his guests out to the football game, where the men of the party did some effective shouting for their favorite teams. Mrs. Ladd sat on the front seat, looking exceedingly pretty in her ermine fur and her deep-colored mink. Mrs. Ladd wore a dark blue hat and a dark blue suit.

Mr. and Mrs. Gay Lombard were out for the football game on Thursday, having taken their guests out to the football game, where the men of the party did some effective shouting for their favorite teams. Mrs. Ladd sat on the front seat, looking exceedingly pretty in her ermine fur and her deep-colored mink. Mrs. Ladd wore a dark blue hat and a dark blue suit.

The concert given by the university boys on Thursday evening brought out one of the best crowds of the season in the Portland this season. Perhaps it was because the day was Thanksgiving that people put on their "good clothes." Numerous small parties were given on the occasion, though the boxes and logs were pre-empted by the opposing football teams—Multnomah on the right, Oregon on the left. Dr. and Mrs. Rooley had a party of ten, the Carson Platt party of eight included ex-Senator Carson, Professor Luella Carson, who is at home for the Thanksgiving holiday, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Treat Platt, Mrs. Carson and Miss Elizabeth Carson. Mrs. McArthur, who has retained her interest in the university since the death of her husband, who was a regent, was present as one of the hostesses. Her son, Clifford, an alumnus of the university, was also present. Fletcher Linn, another alumnus, came with Mrs. Linn, Miss Linn and his brother, George L. Linn and the latter's wife from Eugene. Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Wortman brought some out-of-town guests with them. Others present were Governor and Mrs. Chamberlain, President Campbell, with a small party, Mr. and Mrs. Warren Thomas, the Misses Felling, Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Denton, who have sent two sons to Eugene; Fred Mulkey and E. B. Beckman, both graduates of the university.

The Academy Club, which includes members from Portland Academy, St. Helen's Hall and the Hill Military Academy, gave its first dance of the season on Thanksgiving night in Larowe Hall. Many attended the Glee Club concert first and went out afterwards. About 100 young people were present. The patronesses for this year are: Mrs. James Hart, Mrs. M. T. Holbrook and Mrs. Louis Burke.

The L. N. Fleischers went down to their beach house for Thanksgiving, and are remaining over Sunday. They are entertaining a small house party, their guests being Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Suppe, Mr. and Mrs. Hulme and Miss Emily Ehrman.

The Portland Academy branch of Pi Delta Kappa gave a party on Saturday afternoon, November 25, at the home of Dudley Clark, which was a very merry affair. Boys who are members are as follows: Todd Hazen, Harold Bates, Harry Flavell, Ted Higgins, Dick Jones, Jerome Thorne, Stockton Mulford, Harold Reed, Dudley Clark, Phil Hart, Hamilton Corbett, Henry Wessinger. The invited guests were: Helen Bates, Leslie Smith, Celeste Moore, Leslie and Clara Welder, Helen Moore, Jean Mackenzie, Stella Frohman, Gladys Ross, Eva Jones, Vida Reed and Dorothy Holbrook. The game of hearts was played, Dorothy Holbrook capturing the prize.

The Misses Flanders, who stayed over for the Kerr-King wedding on Wednesday, left the following day (Thursday) for their winter abroad. They are to be chaperoned by their mother, Mrs. George Flanders.

The Fruit and Flower Mission girls made their annual visit to the hospitals this year on the day before Thanksgiving. They were in number, escorted by Everett's orchestra, and each bore a fragrant burden of flowers—chrysanthemums and violets. All of the patients in the hospitals who were able sat up to receive them, and every word that was uttered was more beautiful than is done at Thanksgiving time than this visit by the Fruit and Flower Mission. Among those who made the tour this year were: Mrs. Edward Cahalan, president; Miss Marshall, vice-president; Mrs. Harry Coleman, the secretary; Miss Alice Sanbury, former president; Mrs. Hamilton Brooks, Miss Bickel, Miss Louise Hickett, Miss Holton, Mrs. Wight, Mrs. Mann, Mrs. Taubeneimer, Miss Dukehart, Miss Eleanor O'Connor and Miss Margaret O'Connor.

Madame Ladd's family held Thanksgiving reunion at her home on Thursday last. Vice-Chancellor Ladd, with the Misses Ladd and Mrs. Ernest and Mrs. Hugh Ladd, occupied a box at the Watkins Mills concert on Wednesday evening last. Miss Felling, with Miss May Felling and Captain and Mrs. Knell, from the 4th racks, were in one of the boxes, and Mr. Charlton, with a party, in the other. Mr. and Mrs. Pitcock and Miss Pitcock occupied a box.

Contrary to what might have been expected, there was very little elaborate going at the Kerr-King wedding on Wednesday last. Mrs. King wore a very becoming crepe gown of heliotrope, done with ruffles of cream lace and a loose giraffe. Miss Nan Wood was a picture in a wide black velvet hat richly decked with pale blue plumes, worn above a white coat. Miss Flanders, who sat next her, wore white silk with a light hat done with pink roses. Miss Burns wore a dark blue cloth suit with a dark blue hat trimmed with plumes to match. The gowns of the bridesmaids were very effective, with the exception of Mrs. King's, who wore a delight to the eye, with its fine lines and exquisite simplicity.

The reception held in the tearoom at the Olds, Wortman & King store on Wednesday last, was attended by a large number of society leaders, and proved to be delightfully sociable. Miss Tingle's demonstrations were closely attended to. During the first hour of service Mrs. J. A. Sladen, Mrs. A. L. Maxwell, Mrs. William MacMaster and Mrs. Milton W. Smith presided over the tables, while during the second hour Mrs. Alfred Tucker, Mrs. J. Thorburn Ross, Mrs. Fletcher Linn, Mrs. H. N. Scott and Mrs. William Reid served. A number of well-known society girls of the younger set assisted under the direction of Miss Edith Houghton. They were: The Misses Clara Houghton, Carolyn Burns, Lisa Wood, Margaret Morrison, Helen White, Carlotta Parker, Jean MacKenzie, Jean Brownlie, Helen Moore, Della Holt, Celeste Moore, Stella Frohman, Norma Reid, Della Watson, Louise Small, Clara and Leslie Weidner. The domestic science committee of the association, which is composed of Mrs. W. J. Honeyman, Mrs. A. E. Rooley, Mrs. Edward Jasper, Mrs. Charles Vasey, Miss Howells, Mrs. Dell Stuart, Mrs. James Jackson and Mrs. Reno Hutchinson, had the reception in charge, and they are to be congratulated upon the success they attained. The committee of the association, which will be entirely renovated for the holiday season and will be in charge of Mrs. Goodell. It will have attractive features, and the fine service and immaculate quality of food and cookery which have before characterized it. A luncheon for the employees of the store will be opened by the committee on Friday, the first day's lunch being complimentary. Mrs. McVorkle, secretary of the local Y. W. C. A., gave announcements of the features of the association work, and was followed by the ladies in charge of the afternoon.

Tomorrow evening will be presented at the Helson Theater the benefit performance of the Women's Exchange. This will be one of the notable social events of the year, as prominent society leaders have the affair in charge, and have enlisted the support and interest of their friends, both young and old. It was at first announced that the younger girls would have charge of the candy sales, but that plan has been abandoned, and it is possible that boys may serve as substitutes in their stead. The ladies who act as the committee on candy are: Mrs. J. G. Gaud, Mrs. David Robertson, Mrs. Hunt Lewis, Miss Kathleen Burns and Miss Edith Honeyman, and through their efforts generous donations have been promised. The patronesses for the evening are as follows: Mrs. A. Meier, Mrs. S. Lippman, Mrs. W. S. Ladd, Mrs. H. W. Corbett, Mrs. W. E. Ayer, Mrs. W. J. Burns, Mrs. William Honeyman, Mrs. J. N. Fleischner, Mrs. L. Allen Lewis, Mrs. S. Hirsch, Mrs. H. L. Pitcock, Mrs. Jean and Mrs. J. D. Montgomery, Mrs. James Ladd, Mrs. H. C. Wortman.

The play to be presented is one of Clyde Fitch's, "The Girl With the Green Eyes," and this will be its first production in Portland. Governor and Mrs. Chamberlain's son, Dr. Charles Chamberlain, was married on Wednesday evening in Natchez, Miss., the wedding being an elaborate church event, followed by a reception at the home of the bride. Dr. Chamberlain will probably be back in Portland with his wife in about a week. He may spend a few days en route in New Orleans and possibly a day or two in San Francisco, where he has several college friends. Four times after their arrival here, Dr. and Mrs. Chamberlain will be at home at the Governor's house in Irvington.

The formal announcement which was made during the week of the engagement of J. Couch Flanders and Miss Mabel Claire Houston has long been awaited, as friends of both have known since before the close of the Exposition that such an engagement existed. This is the sequel to one of the very pretty love stories of the past Summer. Miss Houston and Mr. Flanders became engaged about the time that Edmond C. Gilmer and Miss Zora Forrester did. By all who know her, Miss Houston is said to be a very sweet girl and a very clever one. And those who have seen her do not need to be told that Nature has endowed her with her full share of personal charms. It is understood that the marriage will take place before the holidays, probably in San Francisco. Mr. Flanders and his fiancée were among the small number of guests at the Kerr-King wedding on Wednesday last, and the latter made an exceedingly attractive picture in her dark green cloth suit, worn with a feather toque. With two such "isocorrigibles" of the bachelor class as Mr. Flanders and Major James McI. Wood soon to follow the example of Mr. Kerr, there seems a possibility that others still may mend their ways and join the Beneficials.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Kerr are to live at Cliff Cottage, Riviera. Mrs. James McCracken is giving a dinner on Tuesday evening for Fred Swift, of New York, who has many friends here. On Friday next Mrs. McCracken will give a large musical. Among the artists who have secured for that date are Agnes Watt, Mrs. Walter Reed, Arthur Alexander, Don J. Zan and Edgar Courson. This is to be a large and formal affair.

It is expected that several entertainments will be given in the near future for Mrs. Herbert Nichols (Patsy Bryan). Mrs. John McCracken entertained her family on Thanksgiving at the Nichols family held a reunion Thursday at the home of Dr. A. S. Nichols.

Mr. and Mrs. George Mason are receiving congratulations on the gift to them on Monday last by the fabled bird with the long bill and the wonderful aptitude for finding babies of a fine, healthy boy, who tipped the scales at 11 pounds. The little fellow is likely to prove the cherished pet of his grandmother, Mrs. Henry McCracken, who is rejoicing that her daughter has come back to Portland with Mr. Mason in residence here. The youngster is to be called Henry Mason McCracken Mason. With his two great-grandfathers, three great-grandmothers and four grandparents, he has a fairly good start in life.

Mrs. Theodore Wilcox was back from her Eastern trip in time for Thanksgiving. The Faculty of Hill Military Academy gave their annual Thanksgiving box last evening, about 200 guests being present.

Mrs. Henry Waldo Coe gave a "plate shower" on Saturday, November 25, in honor of Miss Anna Stuart, whose marriage to Mr. Frank Kerr will take place soon after the holidays. The plates having been arranged in the poolroom, guests were invited to go upstairs, and Miss Stuart, to whom the shower was a surprise, was requested to read the advice written by her friends on the backs of the plates. Peals of laughter greeted some of the advice maxima. The house had been decorated with chrysanthemums for the occasion, different rooms being decked with white, red, yellow and lavender flowers. Miss Stuart is a daughter of the late Judge Dell Stuart. Mr. Kerr is of the firm of Wadhams & Kerr Bros.

Last year's Bridge Club, which met for reorganization on Monday with Mrs. John Eben Young, meets tomorrow for its regular afternoon with Mrs. John Sheppard. The members are Mrs. Young, Mrs. L. Allen Lewis, Mrs. Minnet, Mrs. Houghton.
