Mrs. Theodore Nicolai's reception on Wednesday afternson was one of the largest affairs of the week and one of the most deligntful. Mrs. Nicolai received in the front parior, assisted by Miss Lory Nicolai and Miss Elizabeth De Bevoise. The pariors, the library and the dining-room were elaborately and handsomely decorated with cedar. Oregon grape and poited greens. Large trees of bamboo, with their feathery green, made a screen in the mall, behind which were stationed the musicians. Mrs. Nicolai wore pearl. The musicians and the dining-done of the institute believe that it has been the means of awakening a fresh current of interest in the work being work. OF THE WEEK gray voile with a touch of lavender at | all of whom were re-elected for the com Miss Nan Wood and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Strong. The last-named seems likely to become exceedingly popular in Portland society. She wore a gown of heliotrope, with lace. V finished by a large amothyst. Miss Falling was in light blue, with white trimmings. Miss Wood in a dainty and simple made white silk, with dog collar of pearls; Mrs. Lewis in pale blue, with white lace trimmings and with shirred fibre lace trimmings and with shirred fibre with pink flowered garniture, and Miss May Falling in heliotrope of most becoming shade.

Mr. Scott Brooke had a box party on Menday evening in bonor of his niece. Genevievy Park, whose father is stationed of the afternoon, and Mrs. M. In the dinling-room, Mrs. Rand and Mrs. Millett poured during the cite a week as a labor of love for the afternoon, and Mrs. M. the throat. Miss Nicolai was in pink-flowered organdic, and Miss De Bevoise in a dove-colored challie with touches of pink running through it and edgings of

THE LADIES RELIEF SOCIETY.

Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Goode, who were in New York last week, were the guests for a few days of Dr. and Mrs. Samuel B. Ward, at Albany. A dinner party in their honor was given by the Wards on Monday evening. Nov. E. at which four of the seven members comprising the New York State Commission to the Lewis and Clark Exposition were present. Covers were laid for 10, those at table being: Dr. and Mrs. Ward, Mr. and Mrs. Goode. Colonel Henry Altman, of New York; Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Lace, of New York (Mr. Luce was the architect of the New York State buildings): Mr. and Mrs. William Bayard Van Rensselner, Mr. and Mrs. Grange Sard, Mr. and Mrs. Fletcher W. battershall, Mr. and Mrs. William Barnes, Jr.; Dr. and Mrs. Henry Hun, Mrs. Mation Randolph and Ethop Nelson, of Albany. The table flowers were orchids and white roses.

Mrs. George Russel has received many congratulations on the clever bit of verse she contributed to the souvenir programme for the Woman's Exchange benefit. It recounts the love story of Daphne, and is really a reminder to the public of the fact that Portland's society girls act as waitresses at the daily functions and teas served at the Exchange tearnoom. With the handsome addition to their finances which resulted from the courtesy of the Belasco Theater management, the women of the Exchange hope to be able to open a lunchroom farther down town, where it will be accessible to a greater number of persons. Mrs. George Russel has received, many

Mrs. H. E. Neble's buffet lunched given on Wednesday, was a decidedly unique affair, and is being spoken of as unique affair, and is being spoken of as an eminently auccessful one. Her guests were invited to come in "relays," a given hour being set for each company, or group of about 20 ladies. Coffee was poured in the dining-room by Mrs. Ogden, but the salad, ices, sandwiches, etc., were served from the kitchen, Mrs. Noble's two daughters serving. "Margaret." so well known to every Portland hostess, was on hand. From the smoothness with which all arrangements were carried out, it would seem that the method of serving must have been very well faught by Mrs. Noble, Many complimentary things were said of her eleverness in planning and carrying out the affair. The guests departed in re-lays, and there was no confusion or crowding. Moreover, there was no delay, no long waiting, and no one had time to get bored. One may expect to hear of more buffet luncheous of this character.

Mrs. Ralph Hoyt will have with her Mrs. Raiph Hoyt will have with her-for the Winter, her niece, Miss Bertine Armstrong. Miss Armstrong's many warm friends have been suddened to learn of her recent bereavement in the loss of her mother, who was a sister of Mrs. Hoyt.

Dr. A. A. Morrison, who is tak-ing a short rest in California, is expected to leave for home on the Friday before Christmas, and to be here in time to conduct Christmas service and to lead the Christmas eve service.

Mr. and Mrs. John H. Wakefield and Miss Jeaune Wakefield were in town on Priday Inst. stopping over on their re-turn from the Sound. They left again in the evening for San Francisco, whence, in the evening for San Francisco, whence, after a few days spen; with friends, they go to Los Angeles for the Winter. In the Spring they will return to their home in Omaha, Miss Wakefield, who has been one of the most popular girls in Exposition official circles, was charmingly entertained the week before last before she went over to the Sound. On Monday, Miss Fannie Brown gave a luncheon of 12 covers for her, at the Golf Links, followed by bridge playing. On Tuesday, Mrs. George Williard Brown gave an afternoon for "500" with five tables playing. Miss Etta Honeyman was the prize winner. Miss Wakefield has decided musical ability, and is a pleasing violinist. She played at one of Mrs. Rockey's musicales during the Summer, and was heard several times at social affairs at the Exposition, and at a tea at the Hobart-Curtis given by Mrs. McBride. The Wakefields stayed at Elton Court while in Portland.

Miss Freda Rau, whose marriage to Sidney Ackerman is set for early March, was the honor guest on Thursday, at a small tea given by Miss Mildred Rheinparty was given for Miss Rau by Miss May Oppenheimer.

Miss Mary Alverta Morse is assured of a fashionable audience at her concert to be given on Tuesday evening next. Her patronesses are: Mrs. A. E. Rockey. Mrs. C. R. Tempieton, Mrs. Fletcher Linn. Mrs. J. F. Ewing, Mrs. Warren Thomas, Mrs. H. C. Wortman, Mrs. Max M. Shillock, Mrs. Charles Warren, Miss Agnes Watt, Mrs. Lewis Russell, Mrs. Edgar Coursens, Mrs. A. H. Birreil, Mrs. M. C. George, Mrs. H. C. Eckenberger, Mrs. H. Eggert, Mrs. J. L. Schultz and Mrs. S. Sichel.

Mrs. S. Sichel.

It is whispered that some of the pretitest girls in town are to take part in The Old Maids' Convention," the clever little play that is to be given in Trinity parish-house on January 2. All the attics in town and the old-fashioned chests that contain garments of ye olden days are being ramsacked to furnish costumes for the play. It is said that Miss Pailing's "coming out" bonnet will appear again, and that polomaise and Dolly Varden shawls of sentimental or historical significance, worn a quarter of a century or more ago, will be brought forth and donned by Portland girls of today. The play is to be followed by a dance, but it is not yet announced whether the Doily Vardens and polonaises are to figure in this or not. Names of the girls will be announced next week.

The Fred S. Sellers are to sail from New York on January 4 and will probably not come back across the water for a year. They will probably leave Portland in

Mrs. Samuel Kerr gave an informal bridge party on Thursday afternoon in honor of her shier. Miss Agnes McKell, from Australia, who is her guest. She had four tables and prizes were won by Miss Nan Wood and Miss Fannie Brown. Others present were: Miss Etta Honey-man Miss Stott, Miss Laile Hall, Miss Goodman, Mrs. Wills, of Philadelphia, Mrs. Fred Strong, Mrs. Feliding Kelley and the Misses Agnes and Beatrice Hill. The ladies of St. David's fiulid held a bazaar on Wednesday and Thursday aftermoons and evenings, which was most successful. Mrs. Andrew Kan and Miss Rachel Josephi poured tea. On Thursday evening a supper was given at which a large number from the parish were present. Mrs. Josephi is president of the guild. All the ladies rendered active as distances.

Mrs. James McCraken's musicale Friday afternoon was enjoyed by about 150 guests, representing the most prominent families of the city. Mrs. McCraken is a delightful hostess, and her cordial good humor is really contagious. She enjoyed as keenly as her guests the interesting programme that was rendered, and gave hearty applause. The house was decorated in most pleasing fashion. In the front parior were used bridesenaid rosebuds and Japanese chrysanthemums of a color to tone with the rose pink of the walls. Roses set in feathery sprengeril climbed by the door-casing and strangled over the mantel, while over the windows climbed by the door-casing and straggled over the mantel, while over the windows and towering from tall vases were the chrysanthenums. In the back parlor were clusters of berried holly, about the windows and on the chandeller, this harmonizing well with the green tint of the walls. Mrs. McCraken was assisted in receiving by Miss Williams, who were a tunning gown of cream white lace. Mrs. Ned Avre, in white broaded creen. Mrs. Ned Ayre. In white brocaded crepe: Mrs. Ned Ayre. In white brocaded crepe: Mrs. C. J. Reed, in white broadcloth, and Mrs. Frank Hart, who wore white satin embroidered with white chrysanthemums. Mrs. McCraken's gown was of black uncut yelvet in fine stripe pattern, cut princess. The skirt had handcome medaliton insets of heavy creem lace bordered with spangle thread. The bodice was elaborately trimmed with chiffon and silver soancies in bertha share, which fell from rately trimmed with chiffon and silver spangles in bertha shape, which fell from a lace yoke pailletted in spangle pattern. Her coffure was much admired. Mrs. McCraken's guests were as follows: Mrs. Mrs. Batchelder, Mrs. R. Lee Barnes, Mrs. Batchelder, Mrs. C. F. Bebee, Mrs. A. F. Biles, Mrs. P. H. Blythe, Mrs. W. L. Bouse, Mrs. H. C. Bowers, Mrs. W. L. Brewster, Mrs. R. J. Chlpman, Mrs. Houseman, Mrs. J. K. Clark, Mrs. W. E. Chman, Mrs. H. W. Corbett,
