LA FOLLETTE IS ON BLACKLIST

Offends Senate by Offering Sights to Its Great Dignity.

WILL HAVE HEAD REDUCED

Gearin Fortunate That Hoar Did Not Live to Criticize Credentials. Butler's Trick to Worry New Members.

OREGONIAN NEWS BUREAU, Washington, D. C., Dec. 30.—That a United States Senator is a bigger man at home than he is in Washington is demonstrated in the case of Hon. Robert M. La Follette, of Wisconsin. He is an extreme case, because he is the most conspicuous figure in Wisconsin politics, and comes to the Senate to mingle with the newest and tenderest members of that body. La Follette, who has been hoisted among his own people, is made to feel his insignificance in the Senate at the very outset. He is made chairman of the committee to "investigate the condition of the Potomac River water front," and assigned to a committee in the sub-basement of the Capitol, down among the dynamos, furnaces and woodpiles. He is, in fact, as far removed from the Senate chamber as he could possibly be. He has been given the least important and most useless committee on the entire list, and his only chance of being able than any other at the disposal of the committee on committees.

There is no particular fondness for La Follette in the Senate. That was very reason. In the first place, after his election, his press bureau announced a programme that Senator La Follette was going to put through Congress, it pictured him leading the fight for railroad rate legislation such as the President wants, and predicted that he would be a mouthpiece of the Administration in the Senate. That was very unfortunate for La Follette, for if there is one thing the Senate resents above all others it is the attempt of any new Senator to force himself to the front and attempt to assume the responsibilities of leadership.

Affront to Senate.

Later on La Follette further injured his standard in the Senate by clinging to the Governorship of Wisconsin several weeks after Congress convened. For which purpose he held onto his job in Wisconsin, in preference to coming to Washington to begin his career as Senator. The Senate looks upon this as an affront, in that it shows that La Follette, for a time at least, considered the Governorship more important than the Senatorship. He was unwise when he made this move, and the Senate will never forgive him.

Altogether, the future of "Bob" La Follette is not as bright as he and his friends might hope. He will be a very small factor in National affairs at Washington, for a time at least, considered the Governorship more important than the Senatorship. He was unwise when he made this move, and the Senate will never forgive him.

One Snag Gearin Escaped.

If George Frisbie Hoar, of Massachusetts, had been a member of the present Congress, John M. Gearin, of Oregon, would not have been sworn in as a United States Senator until Congress reconvened after the holidays. As reported at the time, Mr. Gearin's credentials were faulty, in that Governor Chamberlain appointed him to "serve until his successor is elected," something a Governor cannot do under the constitution. As it was, objection was made to permitting him to take the oath, because of this inaccuracy, but eventually the objection was waived and the oath administered.

The late Senator Hoar was a great stickler for accuracy, and many a time he refused to permit a Senator to take the oath when his credentials were in any way irregular. The insertion of a single unnecessary word, or the omission of any word needed to make a correct certificate, was always ground, in the opinion of Mr. Hoar, to deny any Senator the right to ### take the oath. If Mr. Gearin had come to the Senate while Mr. Hoar was alive, he would have been compelled to send back to Oregon for new credentials before he could sit in the Senate chamber. There are great sticklers in the Senate today, but none so rigid as the lamented Mr. Hoar.

extension provision, which the court held to be illegal. The Council had threatened to pass an ordinance granting to the holders of the present artificial gas franchise, an additional franchise to furnish natural gas. The ordinance covered a period of 20 years, but stipulated that in case the supply of natural gas gave out, the company was to have the privilege of returning to the use of artificial gas. This latter clause is held by Judge McCune to be illegal.

The company already holds a 20-year franchise to sell artificial gas at $1 per 1000 feet, and the new ordinance provided for 25-cent natural gas. Judge McCune gave the City Council the right to pass an ordinance with the objectionable clause left out.

HEAVY COURT BUSINESS.

Since Judge Cameron assumed his post, July 1, 1906, the figures of the Municipal Court, and its collections from fines and forfeitures aggregate $10,829.90.

Fines and forfeitures for the month of December aggregate $1648.

Business has steadily increased in the Municipal Court, and it is one of the best money-producing features of the municipality, as well as being one of the chief factors in regulating peace and good order.
