JASPER CREATES SCENE IN COURT

Stubbornly Refuses to Testify When Put on the Witness-Stand.

EMBRACES

Women of Grant's Pass Weep in Sympathy When Girl on Trial for Her Life Faces Her Condemned Brother.

BY W. G. MACRAE. GRANT'S PASS, Or., Jap. 29.-(Staff lence.)-After all, there is a spark of manhood in Jasper Jennings. Late this afternoon he created a scene during the trial of his sister Dora by taking the witness stand and refusing to unswer questions put to him by the Dishis refusal to answer the questions put to him by Mr. Reames, put it on the ground that his testimony would be against his sister, but because the District Attorney in his argument had called his veracity in question.

But for the frequent objections and exceptions taken by counsel for Dora, the trial was progressing with great rapidity until Jasper was brought from juil to take the stand. Only two new witnesses had been heard during the morning and afternoon sessions. The others who had testified, some 17 in number, were the same witnesses whose testimony helped to convict he brother of the accused girl.

It was 2:25 when District Attorney Reames informed the court that he wished the Sheriff instructed to bring Jasper Jennings into court. In an instant the courtroom was a beehive of buzzing conversation. It took the efforts of two bailiffs to clear a passageway down the tenter of the courtroom to make an entrance for the prisoner, and as the big door swung back admitting the condemned youth the room became as still

Jasper's Face Is Set

Jennings wormed his way down the aisle of human forms, and as he faced about, desperation was written in every line of his swarthy countenance. His face was ghastly white and his eyes burned like living coals. Hatred and defiance flashed from them and as he swung about to be sworn the expression of his face was not good to look at.

Clerk F. F. Chesher administered the oath and Jennings firmly answered. "I do," in answer. Then he took the stand and for the first time since their arrest last September brother and sister faced their lunches and others brought their habes in arms. Like a match touched to a train of dry powder it was whispered from lip to lip that Dora was crying, and many of the women began to shed tears ulso. Then came the scene which was to put the court and the District Attorney

Refuses to Give Testimony.

To the first few questions put to him the boy answered in the same clear voice that marked his testimony in his own trial. But they were charged with suppressed emotion. The prisoner's attitude showed that his back was to the wall and that he was going to make a fight of it. He was only walting for the moment to strike. It came.

"I will ask you," said the District Attorney, "if you were at your father's house Thursday morning-not the morning he was found dead, but the morning of the day on which he was killed?" "Mr. Reames, I don't think I will make any statement whatever: I refuse to answer. You said I lied."

District Attorney Reames stood silen: for several seconds and while he debated there was a faint ripple of applause in the crowded rear of the courtroom Outside, the voices of children at play came through the courtroom, but inside the silence was tense. Mr. Reames turned slowly from the prisoner to Judge Hanna

"I think I shall ask Your Honor to re quire the witness to testify."

No Way to Punish Contempt.

Judge Hanna paused for a moment, then

"Of course, the witness' refusal to testify constitutes contempt, but I don't know of any way I can compel him to testify. Contempt is punishable; with an erdinary witness I could imprison him; but he is already in iail."

Before Judge Hanna concluded his remarks Jasper broke in on him.

"You wouldn't believe me if I was to -you said I would never tell any more lies, and for that reason I have told you all I got to say."

Mr. Beames Interrupted Jasper by saying that the jury would have to determine that. Once more the prisoner witness was asked if he would testify, and he refused even more emphatically than at first. The District Attorney then asked that the witness be taken back to

Kisses His Sister Dora

Judge Hanna remanded him to the curtody of the Sheriff, and instantly the color rushed into Jasper's cheeks. He stepped down from the chair with a smile on his lips, and as he passed outside of the railing he stopped where Dora was sitting, and bending affectionately over her, he put his arms around her tenderly and classed her. Then he straightened up and followed Sheriff Lewis out of the courtroom, and as he passed out another faint ripple of spplause could be heard. From the time the first witness was sworn at the opening of court until Jas-ings are interspersed with objections and

The big wrangle came up late this afternoon when District Attorney Reames sought to introduce six statements signed by Dora Jennings, Attorney Colvig objected to the introduction of these statements, on the ground that they were obtained after the information had been filed against the prisoner, not at a preliminary hearing and while she was without legal advice. Judge Hanna ruled the statements in, but while this point was argued. Dora Jennings took the stand; so did Assistant Attorney Clarence Reames and Deputy Sheriff Oris Craw-

Statements Signed by Dora

Dora admitted that she has signed the statements and that she had done so without duress or promises, but stated she was not told at the time she was making them that they would be used against her. She told of a conversation she had with Clarence Reames, in which he is purported to have told Dora that Jasper was accusing her of the murder of her father and that she had best confess. She said that she refused to do this because she was innocent. She also testified that on one occasion the Assistant District Attorney had said to her that he could make a man talk, but there was to way on earth to make a woman talk. Mr. Reames took the stand and admitted that he had Dora brought before him on several occasions, but that each time he had told her that whatever statements evidence. He told of Dora sending for him for the purpose of making a correction in one of the statements and that trict Attorney. He did not, however, in Dork had asked permission to tear them all up. She had, so the witness stated struck out several words in the state-

Practically Accuses Her Brother.

In order to show how it was done, a statement signed by Clarence Reames (the witness) was introduced. One of the tatements practically accuses Jasper of the murder of his father. In it Dora tells that Jasper asked her a number of imes how much money his father had. The girl said she had told him her father had about $300 in the bank. Once, before inquiring how much money his father had. Dorn says in this statement, he first asked, "Is father asleep?" When he found he was, he said his father must have hid the money, for he should have had $500 or $600 more that what was in the bank. Little Julia Jennings was the first witness called, and her examination was She told of having been awakened by Jimmy the morning of the murder. She said she and Dora were sleeping to gether and that she had not heard the shot that killed her father.

Jimmy Jennings, a brother, again told the story of getting up to build the fire and of going into the bedroom where his slept and discovering him murdered. He also told of running to the cookhouse to notify the people.

Boy Could Not Remember.

Claud Sill, a 9-year-old lad, who on the morning of the murder was setting some traps for squirrels near the Jennings testified he saw Jimmy running towards the cookhouse and of having seen Dora on the doorstep. The prosecution attempted to show by the boy that Dora was fully dressed, but the lad could not

Blanche Roberts, fetchingly dressed in baby blue silk shirtwaist, blue skirt and white worsted shoulder shawl, through which were woven dainty pink ribbons, was called. No attempt at this time was made to have her tell of the alleged confession she is supposed to have said Dora made to her one night when they were sleeping together. She was asked to tell Pass had attended the trial. Some brought of Jasper's visit the night the crime was ommitted.

There is no evidence as to the time of the shooting, whether it was before or after 12 o'clock. The state has gone all seeking to show that neither Dora nor Jasper, nor in fact any of the children, were deeply affected by the murder, and the testimony of several witnesses went to show that Dora and a witness named Chaplin are watermelon shortly after the inquest. Jasper is said also to have eaten melon while helping dig his father's Avalanches Wreck Telephones and Shut Alta Camp From the Outside World.

SALT MAKE CITY, Jan. 20 .- Six men were killed by a snowslide at the mining camp at Alta yesterday, according to the last message received before the telephone wires broke. Efforts to gain further information have been fruitless owing to the condition of the wires and the deep snow in the mountains. The nearest approach possible, even on snowshoes, is three miles. Alta is 20 miles from Salt Lake Alta is 20 miles from Sait Lake.
Alta mining men now in Sait Lake are of the opinion that the victims are strangers looking for work in the camp and that they were stopping in an old house between the Plagstaff mine and the Postoffice. It may be days before communication with the days before communication with the camp can be re-established.

A special to the Tribune from Amer-ican Pork says that the office of the Wyoming mine, with the superinten-dent inside, was buried by a slide Friday afternoon and more than a dred men are working to uncover the building. The missing man is George Ting. He came to Utah from Victor, Tex., and has a son in San Francisco.

In Reply a Supreme Court Decision Is Quoted as Showing the Impossibility of Relying on Comparison of Rates.

OLYMPIA, Wash., Jan. 20,-(Special.)-The broad question of the reasonableness presented to the Railroad Commission in a petition filed today, signed by 200 rest dents of Adams County. Copies of the same petition are also in circulation in Lincoln and Whitman Counties, and it is asserted will finally have 3000 signa-tures. The complaint asks for a reduction in wheat rates equivalent to 39 pe cent of the present tariffs.

It is asserted by a member of the Rail road Commission that a granting of the petition would result in a like reduction in Oregen wheat rates, and basing esti mates on a baul of 40,000,000 bushels in the two states, at an average of 10 cents per bushel, the present rates, it would also mean a reduction in freight revenues to The complaint takes the Ritzville-Ta coma rate of 11 cents per 100 pounds as a standard, and asks a reduction of 12 cents. It is pointed out that the rate on wheat from Chicago to New York is 10 cents, and that it, therefore, can be carried from Rizville to Tacoma for 12 cents. The famous conference of August, 1962, between the three milroad presidents on one side and the farmers of Washington on the other, is referred to and it is charged that freight reductions were

LOS ANGELES IS THE HOST

OREGONIAN PILGRIMS ARE HAVING A DELIGHTFUL TIME.

Trip Made to the Seasbore During the Day, and Reception Is Held in the Evening.

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 20 .- (Special.)-By far the most interesting day spent by the Beaver State delegation in California was closed tonight with a brilliant reception at the home of Los Angeles' Chamber of Commerce. The Oreorganization since alighting from the special train this morning and the chamber will act as host on side trips until Wednesday evening.
Oue of the best gatherings assembled n honor of the visitors was that which attended the reception this evening. The spacious halls of the chamber were crowded with Californians, former Oregonians and the excursionists. J. O. Kociit, president of that body, acted as chairman, and in assuming his du-ties greeted the excursionists with a hearty welcome to Southern California Judge W. B. Smith, of the Los Angeles County Supreme Court, delivered an address which made the Northern ers feel their presence was appreciated, and in response Governor George E Chamberlain assured the hosts that the party was deeply indebted for the ourtesies shown and voiced a desirto be able to reciprocate later. W. M. Cake, president of the Portland Commercial Club: Will A. Harris, a mem-ber of the Los Angeles bar, and H. C. Stover, of Chicago, a prominent figure in the commercial association of other representatives of Oregon, were other speakers.

At the close of the programme, the Oregon delegation went into executive secretary of the Oregon Development League, with a handsome alligator-skin grip, containing a complete trav-ciling set, silver mounted, while William McMurray, assistant general passenger agent of the Harriman Northwest lines, pounds is unjust and unreasonable. learning that Governor Chamberlain was in the city, sent him a beautiful floral piece in the form of a large basket, made entirely of violets.

One of the surprises of the day for the excursionists was the trip from Los Angeles to Long Beach, arranged in their honor, and for which a special train was provided by the San Pedro, Los Angeles & Salt Lake Railroad. On arriving at the watering place, the party was met by a committee from the Chamber of Com-merce, headed by L. A. Pierce, president, and a brass band, and escorted to the auditorium, where an informal reception was held. President Pierce informed the party that all the automobiles in the city were at their disposal, and the huge bathhouse was thrown open to them, besides which a band concert was arranged. Governor Chamberlain thanked the organization for the kindness displayed, and declared the hospitality of California was known the world over.

Tomorrow the visitors will journey to Catalina Island to spend the day, and other side trips have been decided on to occupy the time until Wednesday. Preparations are also under way for a number of the party to visit San Diego later.

Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Pittock, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Leadbetter and Miss Pittock departed for that point this morning.
