

WORDS OF PRAISE FOR OREGONIANS

Governor Pardee Writes of Splendid Work Done by Beaver State.

GRATITUDE OF BAY CITY

Jefferson Myers, Who Has Just Returned From the South, Also Tells of the State's Timely Service.

Jefferson Myers, who went to San Francisco to aid in the relief work as the personal representative of Governor Chamberlain, with F. W. Leadbetter, returned home yesterday and speaks in glowing terms of the assistance taken by Oregonians for the relief of the earthquake and fire sufferers. He was in the City of San Francisco three weeks and says that the Beaver State has made a splendid showing in the work of helping the thousands who were rendered homeless and thrown upon their own resources by the disaster.

Letter From Governor Pardee.

Mr. Myers received yesterday the following letter from Governor Pardee:

Oakland, Cal., May 8, 1906.—Hon. Jefferson Myers, Portland, Or.—My Dear Sir: I wish I had words at my command to express to you, and through you to the Governor and people of Oregon, the deep appreciation we feel for the great help we received in our hour of need from our sister state.

The flames which followed the great earthquake had not ceased from destroying the San Francisco homes and business blocks when Oregon's help and people began to arrive to succor our destitute and distressed. And during the weeks that elapsed since the great catastrophe, Oregon's physicians and nurses did much more than to minister to the wants of our sick and suffering, while Oregon's food and shelter have been many of our destitute from want and starvation.

Will you be kind enough to say to those who accompanied you here that while we are still stunned by the great calamity that destroyed our great city and its smaller neighbors, we recognize and so well as we can, express our gratitude to them for their invaluable services to us. I wish to kindly say to you and to your people that Oregon will, if possible, occupy a warmer spot in California's heart than ever before. Very truly yours, (Signed) GEORGE C. PARDEE, Governor of California.

Praise for Oregon.

The following letter was received by F. W. Leadbetter, also special representative of Governor Chamberlain in the Oregon relief work:

Oakland, May 10, 1906.—F. W. Leadbetter, Portland, Or.—Dear Sir: During the time of the Portland Exposition many Californians visited Oregon and became acquainted with your people, came home again with feelings of the greatest friendship for them and your great state. Little did we then think we should ever have such proof of the friendship of Oregon and the Oregonians for California and the Californians as your people rendered us in the dark days following the great fire which rendered so many of San Francisco people homeless and destitute after the 18th of April last.

We hardly knew ourselves how great was our distress before Oregon responded to our cry for help with money, food, shelter and, best of all, with men and women to help our sick and distressed. The debt of gratitude your people have placed us under can never be repaid, and we hope the opportunity for us to try to repay it will never occur.

I had hoped to have the opportunity to personally thank you for the great aid you rendered us in our distress. But, owing to my engrossment in the many unexpected duties I had thrust upon me, I could not do so. But I hope you will accept this written acknowledgment of our appreciation of what you did for us until such time as the opportunity shall present itself, which I hope will be soon, to verbally assure you of the deep appreciation we have for your aid.

Until I have the pleasure of a personal meeting with you, I am, very truly yours, (Signed) GEORGE C. PARDEE, Governor of California.

Statement of Mr. Myers.

"Oregon did a noble work in San Francisco," said Mr. Myers. "The generosity of the state and her people, as shown by the work of the various relief committees, not only placed the state prominently before the people of California, but made known to the whole country that Oregon is active in coming to the aid of the suffering."

"One man who deserves special mention in the Oregon relief work is F. W. Leadbetter. His knowledge of the city and his practical ideas of assistance were of great help. His idea of placing tools in the hands of laborers who had lost everything in the fire helped them to begin life over again and got them away from the bread lines. They forthwith became self-supporting."

"Oregon doctors and nurses did splendid work. Tributes to their help were numerous, but perhaps the best one I heard was from Major Kennedy and Miss Thompson at the Presidio Hospital. They stated that the Oregon nurses are a fine lot of young women and conducted themselves in a manner that was a credit to their state."

"Mr. and Mrs. MacRae did helpful work by opening headquarters and giving assistance wherever needed. As I was closely associated with them most of the time, I can speak from experience of their splendid work of relief."

"The Southern Pacific Company's officials helped the Oregon relief organizations in every way and are entitled to much credit. Officers of the Red Cross, the Army officers, Governor Pardee and the Mayors of San Francisco and Oakland did everything they could to assist the Oregon workers, and it is largely due to their entire co-operation that the work was so effective. We had no trouble to contend with in reaching any part of the city whenever it was necessary to do so."

Other Problems to Meet.

"The situation still presents difficulties. There is a large number of girls who were formerly employed in offices and stores, but who are now absolutely without means. For months they will need assistance. Old men and women who are not able to work or take care of themselves unless given help will also need assistance. Widows with children must be given help for an indefinite period. Others of the population are getting on their feet remarkably well."

CLEANING UP CITY

Portland Will Soon Be a Spotless Town.

INITIATIVE MEMBERS ACT

Citizens Will Gather Rubbish Which Will Furnish Material for Hundreds of Bonfires Next Friday Night.

Hundreds of bonfires will blaze in the streets of Portland Friday night when the accumulated debris and rubbish of the city will be burned. Friday afternoon and night have been set aside by the Initiative One Hundred for a general cleaning up of the city, and from the general interest that has already been taken in the movement it is believed that the plan of operation will be carried out. In many of the Eastern cities days are annually set aside for cleaning up of streets, lawns, backyards and vacant lots, and wherever it has been tried it has invariably been attended by success.

The Initiative One Hundred has requested that the Board of Education dismiss the schools Friday afternoon so that the pupils may take part in the general cleaning up. The boys will be expected to clean up their yards and vacant lots. The girls will be asked to devote the afternoon to the planting of shrubbery, flowers and the beautifying of their homes. Next year it is probable that the Initiative One Hundred will inaugurate a movement to have all the business houses closed on a day set aside for the cleaning and beautifying of Portland.

Men Will Help at Night.

Friday night the men will be expected to assist in the work. The rubbish and debris collected by individuals will be piled in the streets near to the curbing and will then either be burned or hauled outside the city limits. Volunteers will be called upon to watch all bonfires so as to prevent a conflagration. Neighbors will join together and pile the rubbish in heaps which will then be set afire.

It is hoped that all the eyesores, such as are seen in vacant lots and in back yards, in the form of tin cans, broken crockery, old stoves and broken articles of furniture will be done away with and that Saturday Portland will be a clean city. Already certain men have agreed to furnish wagons in which to carry off the rubbish that cannot be burned. Mayor Lane has notified Francis J. McKenna, chairman of the initiative committee, that the entire street-cleaning department will assist in the work.

Teamsters Are Asked to Work.

All teamsters and men with wagons, who can spare the time, are requested to donate their services for Friday afternoon and night. Not a few have already agreed to take part in the work. The wagons will collect the rubbish that cannot be burned, provided it is piled in the street along with the rest of the rubbish that has been followed out in other cities where hundreds of teamsters donated their services. The appointment of one of the men in all of the wards will be announced shortly and teamsters or others who are desirous of taking part in the work will be requested to report to them. Organizations are now being formed in

Dr. Wilson will preach at Grace Church at both services today. The debate on Woman's Suffrage between Drs. Brougher and Wilson, which was postponed from last evening because of Dr. Wilson's absence from the city, will take place next Friday night.

Arthur Bartholomew, formerly of Portland, and an expert machinist in the Government service, was in Portland yesterday visiting some of his old friends. For the last four years Mr. Bartholomew has been stationed at the Puget Sound Navy-Yard, but is now on his way to Panama. Mr. Bartholomew was assisted in the construction of the torpedo-boats Davy and Fox and the destroyer Goldsborough, which were built in Portland about eight years ago.
