SEATTLE MAYOR IS CLOSING THE LID

Police Are Ordered to Clean Up the Town.

SUNDAY CLOSING IS COMING

No "Sticks" in Drinks at the Soda Fountains.

VAGRANTS ARE DRIVEN OUT

SEATTLE, Wash., May 9 .- (Special.) -'I am going to make Scattle a clean

Mayor William Hickman Moore said that and he offered it in explanation f the sweeping orders he has given his police department to "clean up the town." It summarizes the policy that the Mayor has declared he will follow.

It ought not to be said he Mayor has been forced into the position by the ministerial cry for reform. There was such an outery at the time he was inducted into office, but the Mayor found a means of being invited to preside when the ministers held a public meeting to demand civic perorm, and he told them as plainly as possible that he did not want to be interfered with. He curtly insisted that reform must come by piecemeal, and he declined to indorse the wholesale programme of

But the /Mayor found opportunities of cleaning up infractions of law the mipisterial crusade had ignored. been he forgot about the important demund the clergy made for a "closed

Mayor Moore says he is too busy to look up the law regarding Sunday closing. He insists that the police department is busied with immediate reforms and that Sunday closing is a problem of the future. Conceding all this, the fact that the ministerial crusade was designed to drive the Mayor has had a great deal to do with the overcrowding of the police department and the rush of duty that makes it Impossible to Investigate Sunday con-

Rounders Expect the Blow.

It is pretty certain that Scattle will be shut up tight some Sunday. The rounders expect the blow to fall at time. The saloon men pretend an indifference that is not real, and the town is expecting something to be After all Sunday closing is not an mniedlate threat. It will come, no doubt. But it is not clear Mayor Moore's sympathies with the closedtown movement extend that far, He has clear ledas of civic virtue that do not include the enforcement of her socalled blue laws, and the Sunday regulation has a place in that category.

If the lid is not pressed clear down od clamped tight until late Fall or Winter, it should surprise no one, Just about the time the Legislature convenes and the public resentment has time to express itself before the as-sembly of the lawmakers there may be a complete shutdown. If that pro gramme is adopted, and there is a clear ntimation it is in contemplation, it will be accepted to bring home the scutiment of the public while the Legislature is in session. If there should be modification of the code, the public will be reminded forcibly of the fact. Scattle may be compelled to show the state at a time the state can comprehend and remember what all the criminal code really means.

Hard Drinks at Soda Fountains.

Mayor Moore's latest order is the one that forbids the sale of intoxicants at Sada fountains. Yesterday a copy of the menu at one of the largest refreshment houses frequented by women came out with the blue pencil, indicating the effect of the Mayor's order.

Until this menu was discovered no one really comprehended what the soda fountain pretended to serve as temperance resorts. Here is a list of 23 drinks, or light refreshments, which downtown fashionable fountain resorts have been serving and which the Mayor declares shall only be provided hereafter at saloons:

Snowball.
Champagne Freeze.
Fruit Punch.
Mint Julep
Mint Julep
Mentucky Frappe
Humberry Cocktail.
Baspberry Cocktail.
Claret Punch.
Grenadine Funch.
Grenadine Funch.
Claret Float.
Egg Claret.
Egg Sherry.

The John Of Claret Lemonade.
Claret Lemonade.

In a few of the drinks cancelled as a result of the Mayor's order a rounder could recognize no symptom of liquors. But it was probable a touch was given, for the menu was hastily revised and the list given wiped off the eligibles.

Orders Are Carried Out.

There is one startling feature of the Mayor's crusade-his orders are real and are obeyed. Chief of Police Wappenstein, the old Portland detective has demanded of his force the rigid cament of all the new decrees, and Calef Wappenstein is policeman enough to know whether they are

The Mayor ordered the saloons to lose at 1 A. M. daily. A lone proprieor evaded the order, was arrested im-nediately, and in court pleaded as his nly means of escape that he had only given a drink to a "swamper," or the was the only infraction of the law after the police order went into effect. The order threatens to ruln the saoons in the restricted district, but here is not even the popular backsubterfuge permitted to save them. Even the dancehalls, in which temperance drinks only are served must close at 1 o'clock. And the tancehalls are quiet on Sundays. Police officers were instructed to drive vagrants out of town. In those dives where chairwarmers hovered about constantly there is a described appearance that indicates the deteness of the crusade. The Police Court has been thronged daily with the scourings of the department.

Protection for the Gullible.

Fortune-tellers, spiritualists and the lass that has lived in luxuriant style off the gullible have been compelled to lose up. One of the most important esults of that orde; was the arrest and successful prosecution in Police Court of a "paster" of a Spiritualist hurch, who read the future as a side line. The pastor-pastress, possibly, for it was a "Mrs. Rev."-has appealed the case, but in the meantime fortunetelling does not insure a livelihood, As a side line the Police Department has cleaned out the up-town lodginghouses and hotels. The undesirable class has been compelled either to leave town or move into a restricted district. Saloon boxes have really been eliminated. There are "stalls," but they are curtainless and the open front, facing toward the center of the room, does away with any pretense at privacy. Women have been compelled to keep out of saloons, the questionable class are ordered within their own district to stay there. There is no gambling The poolrooms, raided once, are still closed. Even the handbooks are out The Police Department itself of date. was shaken up.

Red Lights Are Not Scattered.

"I realize there are timitations," said Mayor Moore of his policy, "For instance, I do not think I could successfully close the places in the restricted district without spreading that class all over town. It is better to keep them herded than to scatter them.

"I don't know what I shall do about Sunday closing. There may be other evils I will be unable to entirely abate, but so far as possible Scattle is going to be a clean city. I am not going to be fanationt these orders, but I am going to insist upon as complete observance as possible of the law. Respectability is going to count. I promised this thing. and the people seemed to want it. They are going to have it, now."

Scattle does not look much like the town of the early Klondike days now. Possibly when the races open next week there may be a return, in part, of the old gaieties, but they will be

The wildest mining camp could not have introduced Scattle to anything new when the "town was right" in the Klondike days for "getting the money." Seattle was then wide open. There was practically no restriction on gambling; it was a notorious fact that confidence men infested the city; the saloons only paid attention to the law when a policeman was needed to eject a disturber, and the city was catering to vice as one of its industries.

Scattle was then debauched by its craze to keep "the money in town." Now the city is as quiet as a Sunday chool room in comparison. fection of present-day wickedness is to boost the price of real estate when a railroad comes a-buying.

In Addition Ten Others Who Stood High in Competition Will Be Taken on Trip as Reward for Faithful Work.

With the publication of the names of the young ladies who will visit the Yellowstone National Park, the guests of The Oregonian the greatest, the most suc cessful and most thoroughly satisfactory ontest ever conducted by a Pacific Coast newspaper comes to a close. Nothing remains but the trip itself. In addition to the 24 winners, it has been decided to take along upon the trip ten of the other canfidutes, who while they worked particularly hard and faithful, were beaten out.

Winners in Contest.

The winners in the different districts and their vote are:

Miss Marie Mickel, Mount Angel, Or. While it was the original intention of

The Oregonian to award but 24 trips, one the successful candidate in each di trict, it has been found that some of the young lady candidates who falled to be elected are entirely too deserving to be left behind. In most instances they were beaten out by just a few votes, when for months and months they have been striving every energy and straining every resource for victory. It is to be regretted that all of the young lady contestantsand there were several hundred of themcannot be taken along on the trip, but that, of course, would be impossible. But The Oregonian in expressing its appreciation over the remarkable interest that has been taken in the contest from the very beginning to the very end, did the next best by selecting ten of the unsuccessful candidates who it is believed are the most entitled to the trip.

An Unprecedented Success.

It might be said that The Oregonian ontest was an unprecedented success both n the intense and widespread interest exhibited by thousands of persons in the ections of the Northwest embraced in the scope of the contest and the tremendously heavy vote cast. The circulation of The Oregonian has made substantial gains because of the contest, and this is one of the many reasons why The Oregonian wishes most kindly to thank the candidates and their many friends. The contest was conducted by A. I

The final count of the votes was made by an election board which consisted of judges selected by the different candi-

When the Trip Begins.

The members of The Oregonian party will reach Portland upon the night of July 3. On July 4 the young ladies will be entertained in Portland, and the following day the party will leave for the coast upon the steamer T. J. Potter, of the Oregon Railroad & Navigation Com pany, where they will be entertained at the Breakers, the largest and most popu lar Summer resort in the Pacific North west, which is managed by the proprie tor. J. M. Arthur. On July 6 the party will return to Portland, and the next day will embark upon the "Oregonian Special." The special train will stop only at the larger cities, and will go to Salt Lake before being taken to the park. A. K. Sloeum, circulation manager, and A L. Mitchell, contest manager of The Ore gonian, and their wives will accompany the young ladies upon the trip.

The trip to the coast is but one of the many side trips that have been arranged, All along the line the party will be treated to the most pleasant surprises. Nothing will be left undone that would possibly add to the comfort and enjoyment of the young ladies, and in every respect the trip promises to be as highly success ful as the contest itself has been. The Oregonian is the first and only newspaper to charter a special train for the conven ence of the winners in a newspaper con-

Returns From the East, but Says He Has Not Decided Whether to Resign From O. R. & N. and Accept.

CHICAGO, June 9 .- (Special.) -- Frank I. Whitney, for 18 years at the head of the assenger department of the Great Northern road, has resigned, effective July 1 It is understood that A. L. Craig, general passenger agent of the O. R. & N. Co., will be Mr. Whitney's successor. Mr. Whitney was appointed general passenger agent of the Great Northern July 1, 1888. and held that position until March 15, 1995, when he was made passenger traffic nanager, C. E. Stone becoming general nassenger agent

It is understood Mr. Whitney has re igned, to take care of his business interests, which are large. He began his railway career in 1881, as a clerk in the passenger office of the Michigan Central

HE HAS NOT YET DECIDED

A. L. Craig Is Considering Offer of the Great Northern.

A. L. Craig returned late last night from an extended stay in Chicago, He declined to discuss his rumored appointent to succeed General Passenger Agent Whitney, of the Great Northern, but the nformation is regarded locally as prob ably correct. It is believed that Mr. Craig has the position as head of the Great Northern passenger department under onsideration, but has not made his de ision in the matter.

Mr. Craig is regarded as an exception ally strong passenger official who has had ong training in the work. He stands among the first of Western passenger men and his selection for the responsible position that he is rumored to fill will not ecasion a great deal of surprise among those who know his ability.

Mr. Craig received his early training in he Northern Pacific, entering the engineering department of that road nearly 21 years ago. He later went to the auditng department and then to the passenger offices at St. Paul. He soon became as sistant general passenger agent for the Northern Pacific, a position he gave up five years ago last February to become general passenger agent for the O. R.

Since he has been with the Harriman road he has built up the department to a splendid degree of efficiency, keeping fully abreast of the steady growth of the Harriman lines in the Northwest. During Mr. Craig's stay in Portland he has made many warm friends who will feel real regret in seeing him leave the city.

Hearst Papers Ignore Boom.

Chicago Democrats have been surprised at the fallure of W. R. Hearst's newspa pers-the American and Examiner-which ose as Democratic organs, to print the iews of the recent Democratic conventions at which William J. Bryan was enthusiastically indorsed for President Fact Led to Resignation From New 1308. Not only have those papers failed to show the interest in this Democrati novement which would befit Democratic newspapers, but they have failed to accord it even the attention due as a matter of ordinary news. Democrats who know anything about the enthusiastic reception given Bryan's name in the conventions of Missouri, Arkansus, Indiana and South Dakota, or of Henry Watterson's praise. or of "Big Tim" Sullivan's assurance of Tammany support, have not learned it from Mr. Hearst's publications. By Orders From Headquarters.

Investigation into the cause of this has been made by several Democrats and it has been learned that news of Mr. Bryan's boom was omitted from the American and Examiner, not because they were "scooped." The papers had the news, but it was barred, it is said, from their columns by an order direct from W. R. Hearst, who had instructed his editors that Mr. Bryan's name should not appear in his newspapers under any circumstances. That such an order should be issued and persisted in despite the huge proportions of the Bryan wave that is sweeping through the party is caus ing much comment. It is supposed that Mr. Hearst sees in Mr. Bryan's popularity an obstacle to the ambition on which he spent so much money in 1904, and that he hopes, by keeping Bryan's name out of the Hearst newspapers, to doom the Nebraskan to
