WILL CHOOSE A BISHOP Election of Successor to Bishop Morris Takes Place Shortly. As the date for the annual convention of the Episcopal Diocese of Oregon draws near, interest in the election of a bishop to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Right Reverend Bishop Morris increases, although the situation remains practically unchanged. Several prominent churchmen have been talked for the place, but it is generally considered that the election between two men, the election being practically a contest between them. Rev. Charles Scadding, of La Grange, Ill., is a popular candidate, and will be nominated next Thursday when the convention convenes by Rev. P. K. Hammond, of Oregon City. Mr. Scadding has had a large following from the time his name was first mentioned, and as other candidates were brought into the field his popularity has seemed to increase. He is considered eminently fitted for a position of the rank and importance of a bishop, and has qualifications which would make him an unusually desirable and useful head for the diocese of Oregon. His eloquence alone is a factor in his favor, he being a lecturer of note both in the Eastern section of this country and in England. Rev. P. W. Clappett, of Trinity Parish, San Francisco, is the other candidate who will be put up, the nomination to be made by Dr. Morrison. Mr. Clappett has many desirable qualifications. He is what is known as a "broad" churchman, while Mr. Scadding is said to be with the conservatives. If other nominations are made it is not thought there will be many votes cast for them, and that the contest will lie between the two mentioned. The convention will be called to order Thursday morning at 10 o'clock, and the election of a bishop will be the first order of business. BUSINESS ITEMS. If Baby is Cutting Teeth.
