

THE TERROR OF THAW

Detective Was With Architect as Bodyguard During Year Before the Shooting.

HIS MOVEMENTS WATCHED

Victim Protested that He Had Only a Fatherly Interest in Actress Evelyn Nesbit After Her Marriage to Pittsburgher.

NEW YORK, June 30.—Mrs. Thaw will be the principal witness in her husband's defense. She will tell a thrilling and startling story. I cannot make the details public now, but her testimony will open the eyes of New Yorkers and people all over the world.

This statement was made today by ex-Judge Olcott, of counsel for Harry K. Thaw. Some interesting side lights were thrown on the Thaw-White tragedy by a private detective, who declared that he was employed by White as a bodyguard for more than a year before the shooting.

In extracts from his diary the detective says that White undoubtedly feared for his life; that he took minute precautions to guard against a surprise; that equally ingenious plans were made by a corps of detectives employed by Thaw to keep track of White's movements, and that on the day that White was shot he had decided to apply to the authorities to prevent the continuance of the espionage to which he had been subjected.

According to the detective, White paid over $6000 between February 14, 1905, and the day of his death in the protection of his person, and for the shadowing of the detectives who were pursuing him. The detective thus describes a meeting between White and himself, when he told the architect that Thaw was the employer of the detectives who were annoying White. According to the statement, White said: "This man Thaw is crazy. He imagines that I have done him some wrong, and used to know his wife. I befriended her and her family. Thaw is insanely jealous of his wife. He doubts my integrity, and is anxious to get me out of his house. My friendship for the girl was taken from a purely fatherly interest, and since her marriage he has repaid my kindness by annoying me greatly by making remarks to mutual acquaintances. Such remarks are intended to arouse the jealousy of her husband. I cannot understand it. I never in my life injured man or woman."

According to the diary, June 25 White said he had decided to come to close up the matter. White said he was a nervous wreck, and that on the following day, Tuesday, he was going to take final action in the courts. That night he was shot.

MRS. THAW PAYS A LONG VISIT

Wife of Millionaire Is Taking Active Part in Securing Evidence.

NEW YORK, June 30.—Mrs. Thaw paid a visit to her husband today and remained with him for over an hour and a half. The longest visit she has yet paid to the Tombs to see the millionaire. The prisoner is still in a nervous state, but was much cheered by the visit of his wife.

Mrs. Thaw obtained a special pass from the Department of Charities and Corrections to visit Harry Thaw. She had intended spending Sunday out of town, but on account of Thaw's nervous condition she altered her plans. Thaw's name was on the list of prisoners in the Tombs, charged with homicide, which is hung in the prison office and can be seen by the public. Thaw is No. 23 on the list.

Today Mrs. Thaw not only a willing witness for her husband, but an active assistant for his attorneys. She assumed the role of informant and the inquirer, securing the evidence of many young women who knew Stanford White, and siding her attorneys in questioning others.

Truxton Beale, who was with White at the dinner which preceded the shooting, had not appeared for some time, believed to be in Washington. His evidence is wanted to follow that of Thomas McAleeb, who dined with the Thaws Monday night, and who appeared before the acting District Attorney yesterday.

McAleeb was at the roof garden with Thaw at the time of the shooting. From what could be learned, McAleeb's story is interesting in showing that Mrs. Thaw and he started to leave the roof garden before the shooting, and were on their way out when they heard the shots. McAleeb is said to have sworn that when the shots were heard Mrs. Thaw snatched him by the arm and made this remark: "My God, he has shot him."

Just what reason McAleeb gave for their starting to leave before the shooting could not be learned. He said that he had gone to dinner with them at the Casino Mart, but every effort is being made to keep all evidence quiet until the trial.

MARRIAGE WAS A COMPROMISE

Thaw Blamed White for the Suit Brought by Evelyn Nesbit.

NEW YORK, June 30.—(Special.)—The Herald says that so far as the evidence discloses, the secret of Thaw's hatred for White was not started against him by Evelyn Nesbit, prior to her marriage to Thaw. In this action she made an extraordinary affidavit, the document giving details of such a nature that there was no record if he had it in his power to suppress it by making payment, even though he might believe he was being blackmailed.

Whenever Thaw may have thought at the time, he could not afford to have the matter become public, and he compromised. He declared the case was an effort to extort money, but he paid and then he made Evelyn Nesbit his bride. Thaw had reason to believe that Stanford White had not only been consulted about the proceeding, but had a hand in its inception and knew every word that had been written, and he had not actually dictated the humiliating passage of the affidavit.

Mixed in Lederer Divorce Suit.

NEW YORK, June 30.—(Special.)—In discussing the part that Evelyn Nesbit Thaw played in the roof garden tragedy, the fact that this is not the first time the former chorus girl came into unpleasant notoriety is often commented upon. In the divorce suit brought by the second Mrs. George W. Lederer, formerly Adele Rice, which is still in the courts, Evelyn Nesbit was mentioned in the complaint which was drawn by the plaintiff. At that time Miss Nesbit was frequently in the company of the theatrical manager, who had given her a part "with lines" in "The Wild Rose." It has been said that Lederer met the girl through the interest taken in her by Stanford White, but this is said to be incorrect. Those who recall the circumstances say that both Mrs. Nesbit and her daughter were well acquainted with Lederer, and that he had introduced the girl, then 15 years old, to the architect, who from the first evinced more than a passing interest in her.

FAT MAN HERO OF DUEL

LONG WALK TO BATTLEFIELD EXHAUSTS MONSIEUR ROUSSET.

When Swords Are Crossed the Doctors Intervene and All Honor Is Declared Satisfied.

(Special Cable to the Central News and The Oregonian.)

PARIS, June 30.—The latest duel fought has been brought to a happy end. While there was no actual fighting, the duel was declared fought and honor satisfied. Monsieur d'Escois and Monsieur Rousset had a dispute on a personal matter and decided to settle it by a duel. The encounter took place at the Grande Rue, but no blood was shed.

Rousset happens to be an enormously stout man. He couldn't button his own boots if he were given $1,000,000 a button. The doctor declared that he had to make his way for half a mile through the forest from the carriage before the convenient glade for the fight was reached. They had stripped to his shirt sleeves he was so fatigued he could hardly hold the rapier. Perpiration streamed off his face and

As the opponents crossed swords and were about to begin fighting the doctors suddenly called a halt. They entered the lists and then gave their verdict that he was much too fatigued to continue. Any further exertion such as a duel would entail might be fatal. d'Escois cheerfully agreed and immediately shook hands. As the rapier had been actually crossed the duel was stated to have been fought. At the subsequent banquet M. Rousset was the hero of the occasion.

With the assistance of an accomplice named Mazzoni, he organized a company to manufacture the cuirasses. The capital stock was $300,000 and all of the stock was disposed of. Instead of trying to fill the Russian order, he is charged with having raised within a few months.

Among the witnesses who will testify at the trial will be the Russian Ambassador and the Japanese military attache. Testimony is expected to be sensational in the extreme.

PHILADELPHIA, June 30.—Eight persons, mostly boys, were killed this evening by the collapsing of the wall of an old building at Edgemont street and Lehigh avenue. Seven more persons who had sought refuge from a sudden storm in the shadow of the old walls were buried under the ruins and more or less seriously injured.

An unknown man passing along the street was instantly killed by falling bricks, and one other fatality is known as a result of the storm. The storm was brief, most of the damage being done during the first five minutes, when the velocity of the wind was 54 miles an hour. In the suburbs hundreds of trees were leveled and the crops of truck farmers were ruined. In all sections of the city roofs were carried away, windows were shattered, telegraph and telephone wires were prostrated, and some sections were left in total darkness. Camden, N. HEAT KILLS IN NEW YORK.

Mortality Is Great Among Infants, While Whole City Suffers.

NEW YORK, June 30.—Four deaths in Manhattan Island resulting from heat were reported before noon today. All the victims were infants. Reports of prostrations began to reach the police early, and hospital ambulances were kept busy responding to appeals for aid. Among the sufferers were four persons whose minds had given way as a result of the intense heat.

Seeking temporary relief, thousands deserted the public bath-houses. As early as 5 o'clock the crowds were so dense at several East Side bath-houses that large platoons of police were sent to maintain order. Thousands, unable to sleep in their homes, spent the night in the parks and on the sand at the near-by shore resorts. The streets were lined with weary tenement dwellers. The first relief of the day from the intense heat came with a slight breeze which sprang up during the early afternoon. The temperature then began to fall slowly, dropping from 80 at noon to 82 at 1 o'clock, and to slightly below that half an hour later.

MANY DIE OF HEAT.

WELCOME WORDS TO WOMEN.

From the view point of the average man housework is very easy. The wife is right at home. She is her own mistress. She can sit down and rest any time. She can even go to bed for a nap if she feels like it. She can order her household affairs just to suit her own convenience. If she doesn't feel equal to doing work to-day, she can do it to-morrow. That's the beautiful theory of the average man.

Just suppose the Egyptian task-masters, when they made the required daily tale of bricks tax the uttermost of human strength, had said to the toiling slaves, "Don't hurry, take a rest every now and then—only don't forget that your tale of bricks must be all right at night or else there'll be trouble."

There's the fact. There are the day's duties to be got through, and the woman who can rest may not. The woman, who, when she married, said, "Now, I'll be my own mistress," finds herself a slave to household cares and duties.

And oh! how much that woman needs rest sometimes. She brushes and scrubs, and rolls pastry, her temples throbbing, her back aching, her nerves quivering under the stress of pain. What she could give if she could just creep upstairs and throw herself on the bed in a darkened room and rest.

Rest would temporarily relieve the strain, doubtless, but it would be the same story over again to-morrow. The real need of weak, nervous women is strength, and that need is fully met and satisfied by Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It makes weak women strong and sick women well. It removes the causes of women's weakness, tranquilizes the nerves, encourages the appetite and induces restful sleep. "Favorite Prescription" is a positive cure for the most complicated and obstinate cases of leucorrhoea, excessive flowing, painful menstruation, unnatural suppressions and irregularities, prolapsus or falling of the womb, weak back, "female weakness," anteversion, retroversion, bearing-down sensations, chronic congestion, inflammation and ulceration of the womb, inflammation, pain and tenderness of the ovaries, accompanied with "internal heat."

"I am pleased to add my testimony in behalf of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription," writes Miss Earline Agard, of Chaplin, Patriotic Daughters of America, of 413½ Michigan Avenue, Lansing, Mich. "I cannot find language to express my gratitude and joy over the fact
