

HOP GROWERS WAIT

Not Tempted by Prices That Are Offered Now.

THINK ADVANCE CERTAIN

Seventeen Cents Paid for Three Lots in Past Two Days—Dealers Are Reducing Their Estimate of the Crop.

The hop market is safely on a 17-cent basis. It may be 18 cents or 20 cents in another week, but all that can be said for it is that 17 cents would be freely paid if the goods were obtainable. The growers were never firmer in their views than they are now and buyers find it almost useless to make them offer.

Three sales at 17 cents in the past two days can be fully accounted for. There were rumors of other transactions at this figure, but they lack verification. Lachmund & Pincus, of Salem, bought two 17-cent lots, each of about 100 bales, one from Naylor & Jackson, of Woodburn, and the other from J. E. Querner, of Amity. H. L. Hart, of this city, secured the Brown lot near McMinnville of 12,300 pounds at 17 cents. E. C. Apperson, of McMinnville, was offered 17 cents for 40,000 pounds of hops, but before the deal was closed, another offer 1/2 cent better was made. Mr. Apperson and his partner concluded they would not sell and the hops were taken off the market. This illustrates the feeling among almost all classes of growers. They cannot see why they should be expected to accept the bids at the going price when the buyers themselves say the market will be higher later on. The fact that the buyer is playing a gambling game and banking on the uncertainty of the future does not enter into the calculation at all.

Twenty Cents in Sight Soon.

It is the general opinion in the trade that hops will bring 20 cents before the market for spot hops of the new crop is well established. The market on conditions here and abroad, this prospective figure seems to be warranted. That an advance over 20 cents will be a laborious undertaking also seems likely, barring, of course, a crop disaster, such as is not now indicated by reliable returns. There is no doubt that many growers and practically all the small dealers have decided in their own minds to unload when 20 cents is reached. If the crop looks bad then, or the advance to that point is rapid, they will probably change their minds, but if conditions remain as they are, a heavy selling movement is looked for. What will happen when the hops are in the hands of the big speculators and the weaker element is eliminated is another question.

Cutting Crop Estimates.

During the pause in trading, hop men are giving renewed attention to crop conditions in this state. Probably every dealer in Oregon has reduced his estimate in the past week or ten days. Early in the season a yield of 140,000 bales was predicted. Then the figure was cut to 120,000 bales and later to 120,000 bales. Now many traders say they will be surprised if last year's production is exceeded. Julius Pincus, of Lachmund & Pincus, who was down from Salem last night, said the Oregon crop will not run over 120,000 bales. The effect of the long-continued drought at the point of cultivation of many yards, he said, was plainly to be seen in a drive through any hop-producing section.

YAMHILL DEAL FALLS THROUGH

Apperson Lot of Hops Is Withdrawn From the Market.

McMINNVILLE, Or., Aug. 11.—(Special.)—The E. C. Apperson lot of hops has been withdrawn from the market. Negotiations were pending yesterday for contracting the hops of this yard with Mr. Weidner and also with Mr. Pincus, of Lachmund & Co., but the deal did not go through. Mr. Weidner's offer was 17 cents, while Mr. Pincus left a contract with Mr. Apperson for the hops at 17 1/2 cents and gave him until this morning to accept or reject. It is understood that Mr. Long, who is the renter and has an equal interest in the hops, decided that he would not contract at all. The yard is one of the finest in the county, consisting of 45 acres, and it is understood that buyers are anxious to secure the crop.

Mr. Apperson stated that the hops would not again be offered until they were in the bale. He said, however, that it was very hard to turn down a contract at present prices, where every concession was made to the grower and especially in view of the fact that the returns in the way of rental would equal or exceed $50 per acre. He personally was inclined to accept, but the renter preferred to wait until they were in the bale. Offers of 17 1/2 cents were made here today.

STRICTER ENTRANCE LAW

NEW IMMIGRATION LAW KEEPS OUT ANARCHIST CLASS

Intention to Become a Citizen Must Be Announced—Not Even Titled Nobility Exempt.

While no attempt has been made by the United States to place a barrier in front of the millions of immigrants who are annually pouring into this country, with the exception of the Chinese exclusion act, the new naturalization and citizenship laws enacted by Congress are hoped to prevent the admittance of many of the dangerous and undesirable classes. County Clerk Fields is in receipt of the act recently passed by Congress, which goes into effect next month. The new laws are much more stringent and exacting than the old and provide for the courts working in conjunction with a Bureau of Immigration and Naturalization.

Aiming at anarchists and the dangerous and particularly undesirable aliens who, driven from their own country, seek a rendezvous in the United States, the act provides that no person who disbelieves in or who is opposed to organized government shall be naturalized. It includes in the classification of this element persons who are members of or who are affiliated with any organization entertaining or teaching any such disbeliefs. Polygamists are also prohibited from taking out citizenship papers. Instead of a Bureau of Immigration in the Department of Commerce and Labor there is to be created a separate working organization under the heading of "Bureau of Immigration and Naturalization." Immigration bureau established in different parts of the country will cause a registry to be made in the case of each alien arriving in the United States. All details regarding their life and arrival will be recorded.

To become admitted, an alien must declare on oath before a clerk of any court authorized to naturalize aliens his intention to become a citizen and renounce forever all allegiance and fidelity to other forms of governments or sovereignties. Not more than two years after more than seven years after he has made such a declaration on intention he must make a petition in writing.

Even the bluebloods are not exempt under the new act. In case an alien applying for citizenship has borne any hereditary title or has been of any of the nobility in any kingdom or state he must make an express renunciation of his title or order of nobility.

To leave the country within five years after the issuance of the certificate to take permanent residence elsewhere will be considered prima facie evidence of the intention of the alien not to become a citizen of this country.

No person can be admitted within 30 days of any election and the names of witnesses must be posted in a public place for a given length of time.

Joseph Buchtel After Bridgemen Again

Leader of Fight Against Open Draws Kept Waiting Half an Hour While Six Boats Pass Through.

It was plain to be seen last evening that Joseph Buchtel, the well-known pioneer, was out of patience. In short, he was mad clear through. Joseph Buchtel has a hobby. It is the regulation of the draws of the bridges across the Willamette River. Almost alone he has contended for regulation by the county for periods during the day when no boats should pass through the draws. Alone he fought the river captains before the representative of the War Department, and although whipped out for the time, was not beaten. He did secure some modifications of the methods of steamships passing through the draws for the accommodation of the public, but when he stood on the Burnside bridge and saw the draw kept open for six steamers to pass through, while street cars and pedestrians were waiting at both ends for half an hour, he was mad. It was a clear violation of the agreement the captains had made.

Just then the draw closed and Joe made for an ice-cream stand for something cooling.

Lord Would Not Let Him Be Buncoed

Sellwood Man Who Prays Before He Buys Anything Proves Faith and Confusion to Would-Be Swindler.

AT SELLWOOD is a very worthy and devout aged resident who asks for divine guidance before he makes a purchase, no matter how small. When he goes along and knocks at his door, he will say: "I will ask the Lord about it." Presently he will return and inform the peddler, "The Lord says that I must not buy that article," and that ends it.

Paetsch is a elder manufacturer at Milwaukie. This old man is a customer. Last week Paetsch had a barrel of cider on his hands which he was afraid would spoil, and he thought he might convince his Sellwood customer that the Lord wanted him to buy the barrel of cider. So he drove to the house, and when the old gentleman came out, Paetsch said: "The Lord told me to deliver to you a barrel of cider in prime condition this morning."

The customer said that a barrel of cider was a good deal, but he would see about it. So he went back into the house to pray over it while Paetsch waited on the outside. Presently he came out, when he remarked:

"Paetsch, the Lord told me that a barrel of cider is too much, and that your cider is not fit to drink. Furthermore, the Lord did not tell you to deliver the barrel to me. It was Postmaster Ballard that told you to try to palm that barrel of spoiled cider on me. The Lord told me to tell you to git."

Paetsch got.

COMES TO SEE THE TOWN

Friends Seize Brandt's Valuables, and He Thinks He Is Robbed.

Believing that he had been robbed of $100 and a watch, I. J. Brandt, an O. R. & N. employe from Spokane, yesterday hurried application to the police yesterday. Brandt is very well known and the police decided to help him. It took but a few minutes' investigation to learn that Brandt had been robbed by his friends, who decided to keep him out of difficulty. Brandt had been absent from Portland for some time and was desirous of seeing the city. Believing that his time could be put to better use, one of his acquaintances relieved him of $100, which he placed in a hotel for safe keeping. With $30 left Brandt started out to see the city. Meeting a second fellow-railroad man he was relieved of $15 and his watch. In the afternoon Brandt went to his room for a few hours' rest. When he was awakened he felt for his watch and money. His money was missing and his watch was gone. The police were notified and Detective Hellyer was sent out with Brandt to retrace his lost steps. The detective quickly learned that Brandt's money and watch were safe. Brandt retains his two friends and has made one or two more at police headquarters.
