Direct Dispatches Add to Immensity of the Disaster.

BUENOS AYRES, Aug. 18.-(6:30 P. M.) The Associated Press has received auorst reports of the earthquake in Chile. Valparaiso is partially destroyed. Most of the damage was done in the center of the city, extending from the Plana del Orden to the Plana Prat. Many lives were lost, but the number is not yet known. Hundreds of persons were in jured. A state of panic prevails at Valparalso. Santiago also suffered severely, and there was much loss of life.

Los Andes, 18 miles east of San Felipe and having a population of 5000, was almost totally destroyed. The finest buildings of the town-government house, he tels and public offices-were completely wrecked.

Other towns on the Chlican side of the Andes wholly or partially destroyed are Quillota, with a population of 9000; Liay Liay, with a population of 2000; Iliapet, with a population of 5000; Vallenar, with a population of 5000, and San Felipe, having 12,000 inhabitants. Quillota is a mass of ruins, and there was great loss of life

The shock is supposed to have been caused by the eruption of a volcano near lenin Los Andes.

It is impossible to estimate the dimensions of the disaster at the present moment, owing to the circuitous route over which the news is received. There is no doubt, however, that the catastrophe was of terrible proportions.

The disaster has caused gloom over the Republic of Argentina, and all festivities have been suspended.

The ordinary means of communication with Chile are closed. There is great anxiety here. The public is waiting to ascertain the fate of relatives and friends in Chile, and the government offices and newspapers are besieged by anxious inquirers.

DETECTIVES ARE BAFFLED

Three Weeks on Clews Have Resulted in Nothing Beyond Possible Suspicions - Members of Firm Refuse to Talk.

Twenty-five hundred dollars in hard cash gone-stolen-and absolutely no clew to the thief. These are the cold facts that have been confronting the officials of the firm of Allen & Lewis, wholesale grocers, and a large number of Portland detectives for the past three weeks.

The money disappeared from within the walls of a fire and burglar-proof vault which is located in the office of the wholesale store, at 46 Front street, north. Every effort had been made to keep the robbery a secret, and so carefully have those connected with the house guarded the matter that few except the officials employed in the building are aware of it. An air of mystery has prevailed around the office, but not even the clerks have known the truth.

Several defectives were engaged. They worked hard and lost sleep over the possibility of making a mark in the sleuth world. But one of the "eagle eyes" said something to a friend about the missing coin, the friend repeated the secret to another friend, this one told it to a particular friend, and-well, here is the story

Money in Sealed Canvas Bags.

The money was in four canvas bags, eatly tied and properly sealed. But that only helped the robber. If the gold had not been arranged in sacks, it would have been a difficult matter to carry it away. How did the gold get out of the vault? That'is the question. Who got the coin? is another, more important than the first. Had some one learned the combination the lock on the vault door? Perhaps. Did some safe expert, one who follows the business for a flying, enter the office, work the lock, get away with the money and close the want doors? Perhaps. If he did, where were the employes, or, if it happened at night, where was the trusty night watchman?

Not Enough Light for a Shadow. But these are all questions the detectives are trying to solve. As time elapses the mystery deepens, and there is not enough light on the whereabouts of the missing gold to cast even the slightest Almost all the houses in Valparaiso inclined to talk, and if they have any one said to be down. of the affair. There are several versions of the mysterious disappearance. Business has been unusually brisk at the house of Allen & gaged at the office during the evening. Quite a number were at their desks the the Arsenal, Naval School and Navy evening following the afternoon, the Department have fallen, as well as the money was put carefully away, never again to be "checked" out.

It is said to be a fact that the money was there this particular night at 8 o'clock. The doors were closed about 10 o'clock, it seems, and there is considerable speculation whether the money was in its proper place at that time. Anyway, this gold, seven or eight pletely Fooled by Banker Stensland.

FULLY $1,000,000 STOLEN

Case One of Most Remarkable in History of Banking-Says Many Employes of Institution Had Guilty Knowledge.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Aug. 18.—Bank Examiner Jones, in his report to the Audltor of Public Accounts on the Milwaukee Avenue State Bank of Chicago, which was received by the Auditor today, estimates the total defalcations through the manipulation of the affairs of the bank by President Stensland to be says the closing and possibly more. He says the closing of the bank was the consummation of from Los Angeles. Following his experience with the officers, Mr. Montgomery ence with the officers, Mr. Montgomery by President Stensland to be $1,000,000, his opinion, the most conspicuous in the history of banking.

On his examination of November 1, 1995. everything appeared to be prosperous and satisfactory, but it has since developed that in the figures were questionable and forged notes, the exact amount of which nobody but the president can determine. He is of the opinion that Mr. Aisborg, the chief clerk; Frank Kowalski, the assitant paying-teller, who has since committed suicide; John Gully-ski, the receiver, and Mr. Fedohr, the paying-teller, and, without doubt, others of the employes of the bank, had guilty knowledge of many things which were not divulged by the directors to him.

Cashler Perjured Himself.

Mr. Jones declares that Cashier Herin swearing to the statemen of January 30, 1906, perjured him-self to the amount of $184,829, and in the April statement to the extent of $300, 123. He declares that the executive com mittee and the examining committee of the bank never acted in any official capacity, and that had they done so each member of the two committees would have found his forged note in the assets. Cashler Hering, he says, denied forging the notes and, failing to implicate President Stensland, gave him to understand that an Italian named Demario, employed in the bank, had been the guilty party and that Stensland had given $6000. State's Attorney Healey learns that De-mario is now in Italy.

Steel Ball Paper Worthless.

Mr. Jones finds that the Steel Ball obligations aggregated $180,000, and that they will not pay 10 cents on the $1. The paper of the Milwaukee Avenue Co-opera-tive Store and its ramifications, $76,000. The capital stock of the bank, amounting to $250,000, and the surplus and undivided profits of $300,000, are wiped out, and there is still a deficit of $459,000.

The notes which carried this deficiency were forged papers, or at least paper, to say the least, which was questionable ee hundred thousand dollars worth of Stansland's sub-division notes were shown under the head of "real estate." In former examinations, these notes were shown minus the matured coupon, and that it die now than starve to death." Mr. Jones was always informed that the interest had been paid. Now he finds that this was not the case, and that the oupons had been put into a package and kept in the cashler's private box and never exhibited to the examiner in previous examinations.

How Losses Are Divided.

The losses are divided as follows: Forged and worthless paper, $406,000; at least questionable paper, if not forged, $200,000; Steel Ball losses, $180,000; real estate losses, $153,000.

The report says that the examinations of the bank for years past have always shown it to be in fine condition, and that the last examination showed absolutely no suspicious circumstances. Mr. Jones considers it one of the most remarkable examples in banking that crookedness on such a scale could be so concealed. He says that even prior to the organization of this bank it is now common report that many crooked things were don by the Stenslands when they conducted a private banking institution. Jones Makes Excuses.

As an excuse for his failure to detect the fraud extending over five years on past examinations, Jones says that he took the forged notes at their face value, especially inasmuch as many of them were endorsed with interest payments, such payments extending back for years. He also says Stensland was able to prevent a checking up by keeping many of the accounts in the books of the Stensland Real Estate Company, to which the examiner was not allowed access.

RADICAL STEPS NOT NEEDED

Criticises Cannon's Speech as Too Stiff on Tariff and Possible Cause of Republican Defeat in 1908.

CHICAGO, Aug. 18 .- (Special.) - Senator Cullom created mild surprise among his friends today by the statement that he was not a stand-patter. He said he thought it the part of wisdom to revise the tariff as circumstances require, rather than permit conditions to reach such a point that the electors would put in some one who would make the desired changes. Mr. Cullom is a friend of the "lowa idea," although probably not so radical in his views as Governor Cummins. Much to the surprise of every one who listened to his comments, the Senator made his attitude known when replying to a question as to what he thought of Speaker Cannon's speech before the Danville conven-

"All in all," he said, "It was an excelent speech. However, he went a little oo stiff on the 'stand-pat' issue. We aust not lead people to believe that there is no hope of our ever changing the tariff schedules or they might put us out of office. Interests." "The tariff," he concluded, "will hardly be made an issue in this campaign. Of course the Democrats will talk about it, as they always do, but it will cut no figure. The people have never forgotten that terrible experience this country passed through under free trade ten years ago, consequently it is not likely that, when the time does come to revise the tariff, he people will entrust the job to a Democratic Congress." Senate Would Block Radicalism.

Should the next President be a Demperat and have a working majority behind him in the House of Representatives, Mr. Cullom called attention to the fact that he could do nothing in the way of passing tariff laws that would upset the business conditions of the country, for the reason that the Senate, still under Republican control, would prevent it. However, the senior Senator of Illinois is losing no sleep over the possibility of William Jennings Bryan or any other Democrat becoming the next occupant of the White House. But he does expect that, as a result of the 1908 campaign, the succeeding Congress will find it advisable to revise the tariff schedules.
