A BEAUTIFUL PORTRAIT OF MR. DOUGLAS CRANE'S MOTHER.

GENERAL HORACE PORTER, EX-AMBASSADOR TO FRANCE

Photographs of two handsome portraits by L. Douglas Crane, of New York city, who is being made recipient of many social attentions during his visit.

ASTORIA has been the scene of all that was gay socially this last week, for the annual regatta which is always the signal for much entertaining, opened auspiciously on Thursday last with the presentation of the keys to the city to Queen Esther.

Faye Rosenstein, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. G. Rosenstein, to Major Charles E. McDonell, only the immediate family are to be present at the wedding, which is to take place on Wednesday, September 6.

Many of our society folk and a large contingent from both beaches entered heartily in the gaieties and were greatly in evidence at dinners, luncheons and launching parties, which kept the town en fete the remainder of the week. Almost every matron of the seaport town entertained large house parties, which taxed the limit of their capacity, though at dinner additional guests were invariably invited to augment the ranks of the house guests.

Miss Lillian Dosch Roswell and Margaret Dosch have returned from a 10 days' camping trip.

Tom Robertson has returned home from a visit with Tom Sharp at his ranch in Eastern Oregon. Mr. Robertson and George Warren, who are numbered among the city's most popular young men, are planning to sail from San Francisco on October 6 for a tour of the world.

Mrs. E. E. Mandolin, of Fresno, who has been visiting Mrs. Sam Rothchild, has returned to California.

L. Douglas Crane, of New York, famous portrait painter, has been the honor guest this past week at several dinner parties and a large musicale and reception on Wednesday evening. Mr. Crane commenced his studies in London under William M. Chase, after which he studied at the Julian Academy, under Jean Paul Laurens and Robert Henri. While in Paris Mr. Crane also studied miniature painting under Madame LeFarge, who is said to be the finest miniature painter in the world, and took a special course in architecture, which has enabled him to design all of the beautiful frames which carry out the idea of the painting or period.

Mrs. Rose Bloch-Bauer has returned from Seaside, where she has been charmingly entertained at the summer home of Mr. and Mrs. I. N. Fleschner, "Hafelna." Mrs. Bauer is most enthusiastic over her recent trip to Alaska.

Miss Nina Lane, the eldest daughter of Mayor and Mrs. Harry Lane, and Alfred G. Finch, of Salt Lake City, are to be married today at 2 P. M. by the Rev. W. C. Elliot, of the First Unitarian Church. The wedding is to be a small affair, which will be followed by a supper at the Portland Hotel Grill. Miss Lane is a great-granddaughter of General Joseph Lane, the first territorial governor in Oregon, and is a remarkably talented girl, her clay-modelling work being especially clever. Mr. and Mrs. Finch will reside permanently in Salt Lake City, where Mr. Finch has accepted a position on the Salt Lake Tribune.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Russell Yates, of San Francisco, are guests of Mrs. E. B. Coman on Eighteenth street. Mrs. Yates, who will be remembered as Miss Helen Coman, and her sister, Mrs. W. C. Jones (Julia Coman), have both resided in California since their marriage.

Mr. H. M. de France has announced the engagement of his daughter, Lillian Almee de France, to Mr. Brockwell Statler. The wedding is to take place October 10.

Miss Susan and Blossom Erix gave a pretty luncheon on Tuesday at the Norton in honor of Miss Fannie Brown. Besides the honor guests were Mrs. David Lewis, Miss Grace Warren, Mrs. Berry, Miss Hazel Croker and Miss Marian Jackson.

An interesting announcement has been made of the coming marriage of Miss

Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Goode are spending ten days at Victoria, B. C.

Rosel M. Wilbur and wife left on Saturday morning for the Canadian Pacific for New Brunswick. Mr. Wilbur's old home, which he left when a boy for this Coast. This is his first visit since leaving the British province. They will stop over at all of the principal cities both going and returning, including St. Louis, Mrs. Wilbur's birthplace. They will be gone two months.

Mr. and Mrs. Morton Johnson, of San Francisco, are guests of Mr. and Mrs. Everett Ames at their residence on Twenty-fourth street. Mrs. Johnson before her marriage was a belle in that city. Not only has she been endowed with exceptional personal attractiveness, but is a talented musician as well.

The sudden death of Roy G. Durnham has cast a gloom over society, where he was unusually popular with young and old.

Miss Leslie Knapp, a prominent member of the younger set, returned home last week after a delightful visit in the East. Miss Knapp has spent the entire summer visiting friends who attended the same New York school.

Nocturnal visits from "der leedle cyberman" are becoming a fad with the young people, and on several recent occasions private parties have been surprised by the somewhat non-melodious strains from this well-known musical organization, engaged, evidently, by the village cut-up. A bride and groom were being rendered a house-warming at their new residence one night this past week and promptly at 9 o'clock the Germans appeared and did their worst-or best. They had been engaged to play one hour, and not all the coaxing or scolding of the entire neighborhood could drive them away. A big white bull dog finally appeared on the scene, but while there was some side-stopping and a change of location, the strains of "Ach, du Liebe Augustine" still floated out upon the evening air to the consternation of the matrons who were entertaining.

Miss Alice Lansbury has returned from a three weeks' camping trip.

Mrs. Warren E. Thomas was hostess at a pretty birthday luncheon Wednesday.

day at the Hobart-Curtis in honor of Mrs. W. H. Boyer. The table decorations were quantities of pink sweet peas.

A Newport chronicler of social events at the recent horse show in describing the costumes of the women, which were especially remarked for their smartness, adds that small dogs to match the costumes are a fad of the hour. Mrs. James Brown Potter's toilette is described in something like the following manner: "The stunning Mrs. Potter was quite the cynosure of all eyes in an attractive Hingerie Princess gown and hat, an exquisite necklace of pearls, a Directoire parasol, and a tiny matted poodle, carried under the arm complete the chic effect. The facetious writer adds that if the crane continues a well-assorted stable of assorted dogs will doubtless be considered a necessary feature of the fashionable ménage."

Mrs. Levi Hexter is a guest of her daughter, Mrs. Samuel Galland, of Spokane. Mrs. Galland will be remembered as the charming Miss Edith Hexter, whose wedding was one of the fashionable events of the summer season.

Mr. and Mrs. Lefe Pence leave tomorrow for a month's trip to New York, where Mr. Pence was unexpectedly called by business. Since the close of the Lewis and Clark Exposition they have resided in the California building, which is said to be a most beautiful home with its exquisite tapestries, objets d'art, etc.

Mrs. Harry Coleman, who has been sojourning at Long Beach, was forced to return home on account of a severe case of ptomaine poisoning. While still confined to her bed, Mrs. Coleman is rapidly improving.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Crutcher entertained at dinner at the Hobart-Curtis last week Mrs. C. A. Dolph, Miss Genevieve Thompson and Douglas Crane.

Mrs. George W. Hason has returned from a visit of three months to Pittsburgh, Detroit, Atchison and other Eastern cities.

After an absence of three months, Mr. and Mrs. James Steel have returned to Elton Court.

Mrs. Anne Beatrice Sheldon and little daughter Margaret have returned from Victoria, B. C. En route they were entertained for a few days in Seattle. Mrs. Sheldon returns to British Columbia September 13, where she is to sing at the opening of the new opera-house, Duncan's.

Mrs. Oskar Huber is rapidly recovering from a severe attack of rheumatic fever.

Mrs. W. A. Meats is visiting in Los Angeles, a guest of General and Mrs. C. Hatley, U. S. A. Mrs. Meats was also the guest of honor in that city at a large reception and bridge party given by Dr. and Mrs. W. H. Graves.

Mrs. C. E. S. Wood spent a few days in town last week, but returned yesterday to Gearhart Park.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Skinner entertained Thursday evening in honor of their guest, Miss Block, of St. Louis, and Miss Alice Benson, who has lately returned from an extended visit to the Hawaiian Islands. The evening was devoted to music, a number of Portland's notable musicians being present.

Miss Nan Robertson is a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Bens, of the Eastern and Western Lumber Company, at their logging camp at Stella, Or.

The Misses Camille and Lillian Dosch are to entertain this evening at dinner with L. Douglas Crane, of New York, as honor guest.

Among the well-known Portland women who will represent the board of the Young Women's Christian Association, at the Northwest Conference being held at Gearhart Park, are Mrs. James Felling, Mrs. A. E. Rockey, Mrs. Frank M. Warren, Mrs. W. H. Beharrel, Mrs. W. J. Honeyman, Mrs. W. S. Kinney and Mrs. H. W. Stone. Mrs. Fletcher Linn is to sing at this important event, and will have charge of all vocal music in connection with the conference.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles I. Boss left Friday to spend a few days at Rusticana cottage, the guests of Mr. and Mrs. James P. Moffett.

A number of Eastern Oregon guests for the West-Bartholomew wedding, which occurs at the First Christian Church tomorrow night are in town, and more are expected today.

Miss Sallie Lewis spent a few days in town last week.

The Irvington tennis enthusiasts have had a gala week during the recent tournament, which was a remarkably smooth and successful event. The clubhouse has been the scene of numerous luncheons and dinners since the opening day, and the grandstands have been filled daily with prettily gowned women from both sides of the river.
