Prospects for an active football season among the colleges and clubs of the Pacific Northwest were never brighter than they are this year, and as the various inthey are this year, and as the various in-stitutions of learning open their doors for instruction, the actual preliminary work begins. During the past three years the great college game has made big strides in this section of the United States, and although the modified rules have made radical changes in the style of play, there is a general feeling that the coming season will see Northwest football on a higher and better plane than ever before. There is considerable specuever before. There is considerable specu-lation as to the results of the various changes in the rules, but the general changes in the rules, but the general opinion seems ta be that a team with light, fast backs, strong ends and a good punter will have an advantage over an aggregation of beefy players. The "tenyard" rule will undoubtedly put a premtum on speed and trick plays, and other changes will produce more runting than changes will produce more punting than has ever been seen before. From a spec-tator's standpoint, the new game prom-ises to be more interesting, but whether ises to be more interesting, but whether or not the alleged brutality has been eliminated remains to be seen. The results of the coming season's work and the number of accidents, will, to a certain degree, determine the popularity of the changes that have been adopted by the rules committee. There was a general uprising against football at the close of the last season, but those who formulated and codified the new rules believe that the game as played this year will be free from any great amount of criticism.

From all parts of the country come reports that college faculties and even the ports that college faculties and even the players themselves, have taken a stand sgainst grafting and proselyting of ath-letes and although some of these declara-

Practice Work Has Begun.

Although the opening of the inter-col-legiate season is still some weeks distant, practice has commenced at Washington, Idaho, Whitman and the Oregon

The University of Idaho won the college championship of the Northwest last season, but did so on comparison of scores, without playing either Oregon or the Oregon Agricultural College, both of which aggregations were conceded to be as strong, if not stronger, than Idaho. Snow and Sheridan, two of Idaho's best men of last season, are not in the line-up again, and the coaches will have to develop men to fill these places. Among the old men who are trying out for the team are Larson, captain and tackle; Thomas, and Oakes, ends; C. Smith, halfback; Armstrong, halfback; Keys, fullback; H. Smith and Roosevelt, guards. Griffith is said to have a good second team and altogether a very promising squad of men. The first game of importance on Idaho's schedule is on October 25, when Oregon will appear at Oregon has suffered but one defeat in five years at the hands of a Northwest college team, but Griffith and his players expect to turn the trick this year. Another important game on Idaho's sear Another important game on tano's schedule is the Thanksgiving day match with the University of Washington in Seattle. The Moscow men defeated Washington by 8 to 0 last year, and the memory of that defeat will undoubtedly cause some hard training on the part of the Evergreen boys. Oregon Has Many Veterans.

Reports from Eugene indicate that the University of Oregon will have a fast team. Bezdek, the new coach, comes fresh from the University of Chicago, where he played under "Old Man" Stagg for four seasons. With the exception of Left Guard Moullen, Oregon's entire forward line will be in college again, but Latourette, the varsity quarterback, is the only regu-lar backfield man who will be in the game. Hurd, a substitute halfback, is on the list of candidates, and there are any number of promising freshmen, but as yet Bezdek has nobody to take the places of Kerron, Templeton and Friesell, Oregon's speedy backs of last season. Prospects Bright at Willamette. Willametre University will be in the field with another good team, and will make some of her neighbors hustle for championship honors. Willamette defeated Multnomah last season, and sgainst grafting and proselyting of athletes and although some of these declarations may not be made in good faith, there is evidently an intention on the part of a large number of colleges to play fair and to abandon the dishonorable methods of the past. The abuses and excesses incident to college sport have not been as marked in Oregon, Washington and Idaho as they have been in other parts of the country, but nevertheless there have been cases where men were induced to go to college for athletics only.

Be that as it may, there seems to be a better feeling at present—a wholesome desire to play fair, trusting the other fellow to do the same. The average collegian is beginning to realize that the future popularity of football, and in fact all branches of athletics, depends upon the spirit of fair play which is bound to Main will be a trying out for guarrier ck, will probably be shifted Gray, who once played at tackle. The season will close with a Thanksgiving game with Oregon Ag-ricultural College in Salem.

Norcross to Coach O. A. C.

Early reports from the Oregon Agricultural College Indicated that the football prospects were not encourag-ing, but the opening of college has brought an exceptionally fine bunch of freshman players, and Corvallisites are beginning to hope for a very creditable eleven. Another cause of rejoicing at Corvalits is the signing of Norcross, Michigan's famous quarterback, as head coach. Norcross has played behind the Michigan line for several years, and was captain of the Wolverness less search the course to Corpose to Corpose the Corpose to Corpose the Corpose to Corpo Agricultural College, The University of Agricultural College. The University of Oregon will open its doors this week, and Coach Beadek has issued an early call for candidates. By the end of the present week, all the leading teams of the Northwest will be settling down to hard practice. Despite the fact that such players as Tom McDonald, Pullen, Dowd, Cole, Babcock, Tilly and Shaw, are not in college, the Washington people are con-fident of turning out a winning team. Cap-tain Crim is trying for his old position at center, and other veterans who will again wear Washington colors are Bog-shaw, Smith and Bootz, halves; Winsor, quarter; Clark and Brinker, ends; Jarvis and Reeser, guards. The freshman class contains some of the finest football ma-terial ever seen at Washington, and there is a general feeling that the team of 1906 will cut a big figure when the champion-ship pie is sliced. Washington will play all the leading Northwest teams, the principal games being with Oregon, a Engene, on November 17, and the Thanks giving game with Idaho.

Prospects for a winning team at Whit-man were never better than they are this season, and Captain Frank J. Spagle is enthusiastic over the material on hand. The Missionaries have had a good team for several years, but if sports from Walla Walla are correct, the team of 1906 will be the strongest in Whitman's history. Nearly every member of the team that defeated Pullman last season is in college, and hard practice has been going on for several days. Whitman's new coach, J. H. Baird, is a veteran player, having been a member of the Northwestern team for three seasons. His position is fullback, and he is a crack punter. Baird has done considerable coaching throughout the Middle West. During the season of 1995 he coached Carleton college, and turned out a team will be the strongest in Whitman's his-

Some of the Multnomah's veteran players will not be in the lineup this season, but there will be a good bunch of candidates, and those who follow the fortunes of the local clubmen will undoubtedly see them playing a high quality of football. Beavers look easily to be the pennant winners, yot the games should prove highly interesting, for the Seais do not think they are out of the race and will make a strong bid to take the northerners into camp. Walter McCredie will have some new faces on the team and the local fans will want to see how they stack up. Gum, Carsons and Kane will all be new men to this end of the circult and they will come in for a big share of the watching.

The unfortunate mishap to Roy Hitt will cost J. Cal. Ewing a bunch of money and will deprive one of the major league teams of the services of a valuable man, Several months ago the Philadelphia Nationals offered Ewing a good, round sum of money for Hitt, but the owner of the Seais would not sell him, saying that the fans were entitled to Roy for the balance of the year. It is understood, however, that Hitt was to go into the big brush next year. The injury to his arm will not be fixed up for some time and Hitt will have to wait for another year before he crosses the mountains.

Tommy Burns, who sported around a little cheap advertising out of his challenge to "Philadelphia" Jack O'Brien, but that is all it appears to have amounted to. Burns four-flushed along and managed to have Lucky Baldwin make a $25,000 offer for a finish fight at Arcadia. Baldwin failed to come through with the check, although O'Brien wated over a steamer to see what would come of the affair. I don't think that Burns wanted O'Brien, but thought that Jack had so far committed himself that he would go on to Australia and then Tommy would put up a big talk about the Philadelphian running away.

There is now more trouble between Graney and Jimmy Coffroth than ever before. Eddie offered $15,009 for a fight between Sam Berger and Jack O'Brien. Then Coffroth stepped in and agreed to give the fighters two-thirds of the house and the same share of the moving pictures to box at Colma. Graney is sore. He is not saying much, but he feels that Coffroth overreached himself to bid on the contest.

closed the season at nome, but the eyes of the loyal fans will continue to anxlously scan the newspaper reports of the games. Another six weeks will close the Pacific Coast League season and it is during the play in the South that the race for the pennant will be decided. By winning this afternoon's double-header Portland would go South with a lead little short of impossible for San Francisco to overcome. McCrodie's men will be compelled to stand on their toes while they are playing away from home, for not every team in the league will be able to knock the Seals down as the Siwashes have been doing the past week. Should the Seals meet another team that will take them straight down the line, Portland could win the pennant and still lose half of their games played, while the Seals could not take the bunting should they suddenly take a brace and win all of the games during the last five weeks of play.

Another reason why all the old-time fans should be on hand is to say fareon the contest.

As for the contest itself, it ought to be a good one for 15 rounds. Personally, I believe that O'Brien is far too shifty, but Berger will have the advantage of weight and that may count for something. He has had more experience than did Kauffman, the boy, who was put up to the sacrifice by Billy Delaney, and his six-round go, when he did good work in Philadelphia, will be an encouragement to him.

At this writing the men are not matched, but it is expected that the articles will be signed at almost any time. When O'Brien and Nat Berger, the control of the contr a brother of the boxer, met for the purpose of discussing the situation, there came a tangle. In Chicago, while the two agreed to box straight fans should be on hand is to say fare-well to Mike Mitchell. According to the Cincinnati Inquirer, though the local manager has not heard the news. Mitchmanager has not heard the news, Mitchell will make up the Red Infield next year. According to the Ohio scribe the coast league has been called upon for the entire Red outfield. It will be made up of Mike Mitchell, Wolters, of Fresno, and Arthur Kruger, of the Oakiand team. The scout who trailed Kruger to his lair will send Kruger back to the Red with a gilt-edged paper and what he has said of Kruger is true. The same thing said of Kruger is true. The same thing can be said of Mike Mitchell, for they said of Kruger is true. The same thing can be said of Mike Mitchell, for they don't make 'em in the outfield or at the poling station better than our own quiet for a boxer, and has had nothing to say. That the match will ultimately be consummated there is no doubt. Both men see a big house, and are not anxious to drop the financial chance.
