RECRUITS SHOW PROMISE

Team Will Not Be Lacking in Veterans, While New Players Will Prove Source of Great Strength.

FIRST GAME OF FOOTBALL SEASON.

Portland's first football game of the season under the new rules will take place on Multnomah field, October 20, with 11 of Uncle Sam's fighting men from Fort Stevens. A great deal of interest will be taken in this game, not because it is the opening game of the season, but because it will give lovers of the gridiron game their first glimpse of the modified game. Since the rules were changed football cracks all over the country have been trying to determine what sort of a game the new rules will develop. The Fort Stevens team will be made up of some very clever men, and they, like other players, have been working out many new plays.

Football prospects at the Multnomah Amateur Athletic Club were never brighter than they are this year, and there is every reason to believe that Multnomah will maintain her enviable position among the teams of the Pacific Northwest. The changes in the rules and the elimination of mass plays have stimulated interest in football circles throughout the country, and those who love the great Autumn sport are anxiously awaiting the opening of the season. In order to see just how the modified game is going to work out, in local athletic circles, Multnomah is the center of attraction, and the candidates for gridiron honors are already at work.

These who keep in touch with the local football situation declare that Multnomah never had a better squad of candidates than at present, and predictions are freely made that another successful season is in store for the wearers of the "Winged M." At the close of last season, a number of Multnomah's veteran players announced their intention of leaving football, but a majority of these will be in the harness again. Had Multnomah defeated the team of the Seattle Athletic Club last New Year's day, many of the old players might have stuck by their determination to retire, but the pluck and spirit which has always characterized the Multnomah players has manifested itself, and several of the heroes of former days will be out again—just to get another chance at Seattle.

The old men who have signified their intention of playing again is Martin Pratt, the reliable tackle. Pratt has played on the gridiron since 1895, and is known far and wide as one of the best tackles on the gridiron. Marion Dolph, halfback on the famous teams of 1901, 1902 and 1903, is thinking of getting into the game again, as is Frank Lowrey, the halfback who distinguished himself in the memorable 11-30 game with the Oregon Agricultural College in 1905. Jordan, captain of last season's team and re-elected for the coming season, promises to play his customary spectacular game of last year, and the old rugger player, is trying out for the other end position. Owens and Austin, two recruits from the second team, are practicing for the end position. The new recruits are the palmy days of 1900, 1901 and 1902. Thomas, who for three seasons played on the crack team of the University of Idaho, has moved to Portland and may try for a position on the club eleven. Thomas is given credit for being the best end that ever donned a football suit in the city.

Butler and Burt, the big guards of last season, are out for honors again, and Manager Moran may decide to play a position on the club eleven. Burt has appeared to take Overfield's place as center, but Dow V. Walker, the famous center rush of the Oregon Agricultural College, is now living in the city and may decide to play a position on the Multnomah eleven. Walker is considered the best center on the Pacific Coast, and is also a tackle. Another old player, who distinguished himself two years ago, when Oregon and Corvallis were playing their annual game, by picking up a fumble and running 105 yards for a touchdown, which one of his team-mates failed to convert into a goal, leaving the score standing 5 to 5 in Oregon's favor. Should Walker decide to play, he should prove a great source of strength to the team.

There are plenty of candidates for the back field positions. James, the reliable fullback, is trying for his old place, and is also doing some one punting. Paul Rader, captain of the Puget Sound University team that made such an enviable record in 1905, is out for quarterback honors. Rader has put up a creditable game in most any position. Rader played a fine University of Colorado several years ago, and was regarded as one of the best players in the Rocky Mountain region. He is a brother of Ralph Rader, captain of the Willamette University team. Henderson, an old Eastern player, is also trying for quarterback, and Wilder has shown himself to be a good man for that position. There are a number of second-team men turning out regularly, and a second-team schedule will be arranged. George McMillan, the Nestor of the Multnomah gridiron and one of the star players of the Pacific Coast, is making his usual interest in football and will help out with the coaching. "Mac" says that he will do no more playing, but he may change his mind if he is needed for some of the hard games. McMillan is known far and wide as a mighty man of the gridiron, and it is no exaggeration to say that he has contributed more to any other man to Multnomah's success during past years. Manager Moran is busy with his schedule, and an interesting series of games is being arranged. The season will open on October 20, probably with the Fort Stevens eleven. Negotiations are pending for a game with Whitman College on October 27, and the Spokane Athletic Club will appear here on November 13. On November 17 Multnomah will meet the Willamette University aggregation, and on Thanksgiving Day comes the big annual game with Oregon. There will be a practice game of some kind on December 15, and on Christmas day, Multnomah will go to Seattle to try conclusions with the Seattle Athletic Club team. A return game between these teams will be played in this city on New Year's day. This is the game, above all others, that Multnomah wants to win and from pre-

Sweet Marie, Great Trotting Mare, Again Breaks Record

Once more the name of Sweet Marie, the great California-bred trotting mare, who once raced at Salem, is on the tongues of men interested in the light harness world. At Syracuse, N. Y., September 12, this great daughter of that splendid sire, McKinney, 2:14 1/4, defeated Wentworth, 2:04 1/4, in the unprecedented time of 2:04 1/4. Her previous performance was completely record breaking and it was the fastest two-heat race ever trotted to a sulky. At Columbus, O., at a more recent date, she trotted two heats in 2:04 1/4 and 2:05 1/4. The previous record was held by Cresceus who in 1901 at Brighton Beach trotted two heats in 2:03 1/4 and 2:04 1/4. The previous two-heat record for mares was held by Sweet Marie herself. This record was made at Memphis in 1904 when she trotted to sulky two heats in 2:04 1/4 and 2:05 1/4. Sweet Marie's performance at Syracuse beats her own previous record and also that of Lou Dillon's of 2:04 1/4, 2:04 1/4, a wagon. The second heat in 2:04 1/4, not only broke the record for mares, but 2:04 1/4, established by Sweet Marie earlier in the season, but lowered the race record for a second heat, regardless of sex, for which she had been tied with the two geldings Tiverton and Wentworth.

Sweet Marie is now ten years old and is still as sound as the proverbial dollar. She has trotted with records of 2:05 or better in races and to the students of extreme speed in harness horses the following table will give some idea of Sweet Marie's wonderful performance.

ent indications, the local clubmen have more than an even chance of doing so.

Oregon Players Are at Work.

Word comes from Eugene that Coach Bezdek and his men are hard at work and that Oregon's prospects are most flattering. Bezdek expects to have a squad in this city that he likes the Oregon spirit and that his men are showing up well. Some of the varsity players are a little better than last year, and some of the old varsity players will have to hustle if they hope to maintain their coveted positions. Dudley Clark, fullback on the Portland academy team of last year and substitute on the Multnomah eleven, is one of Oregon's most promising freshmen. He is working for a position behind the line, and is being coached by Coach Bezdek. He expresses himself as highly pleased with Clark's work, and the young man's many talents are expected to lead him in Oregon's regular line-up. Frank Moran, an old Portland High School player, is trying for tackle, as are Scott and Storey, two big fellows. Moran is coaching the team of last season's team at the Baker City High School, and Dodson, of the same team, are trying for backfield positions and are being coached by Coach Bezdek. A gold medal offered by Henry Kahn, First and Morrison streets, will be presented to the captain of the winning team. Other prizes will be given the members of the aggregation which carries the day.

Tug-of-War Tournament.

It is expected that there will be a large turnout to the meet of the Portland Tug of War Association, which will be held this afternoon at the Tivoli Gardens, Twenty-third and Washington streets. Four teams have entered and besides their competition there will be several other athletic events. The fun will begin promptly at 2 o'clock in the afternoon. A gold medal offered by Henry Kahn, First and Morrison streets, will be presented to the captain of the winning team. Other prizes will be given the members of the aggregation which carries the day.

Bishop to Coach Willamette.

Although there has been no official announcement from Salem, it is said that Chauncey Bishop will coach Willamette during the coming season. Bishop has acted in a similar capacity for two years, and he has coached Willamette's work again, the Methodists are sure of a good team. Willamette is said to have some excellent freshman material, and the indications point to a successful season. Willamette outplayed and almost defeated Oregon last year, besides defeating Multnomah by 4 to 0. There is a large number of candidates at the Oregon Agricultural College, and Coach Norcross has arrived to begin his work. Most of the Corvallis players are new men, but some of them are recruits from the second eleven, and others have come in from high schools throughout the state. Altogether, the "Aggies" have a promising bunch, and Norcross should be able to turn out a fast team by the end of the season.

Bright Prospects at W. S. C.

If reports from the Washington State College are correct, this year's team will be one of the best ever turned out at Pullman. With the exception of Fullback Hardy, the Washington team has every member of last season's team. Captain Goldworthy is back in his accustomed position at end, and is confident of turning the tables on Pullman's old rivals—Whitman and Idaho. The Pullman team is being coached by "Johnnie" Blake, Nebraska's famous halfback. The University of Idaho players have settled down to hard work, and, with the assistance of two old Idaho players, Coach Griffith is drilling his men for the game with Oregon. Coach Burt is putting the Whitman eleven through a hard course of training, and hopes to have a good team out on the University of Oregon on October 20.

Centennial Celebration Closes.

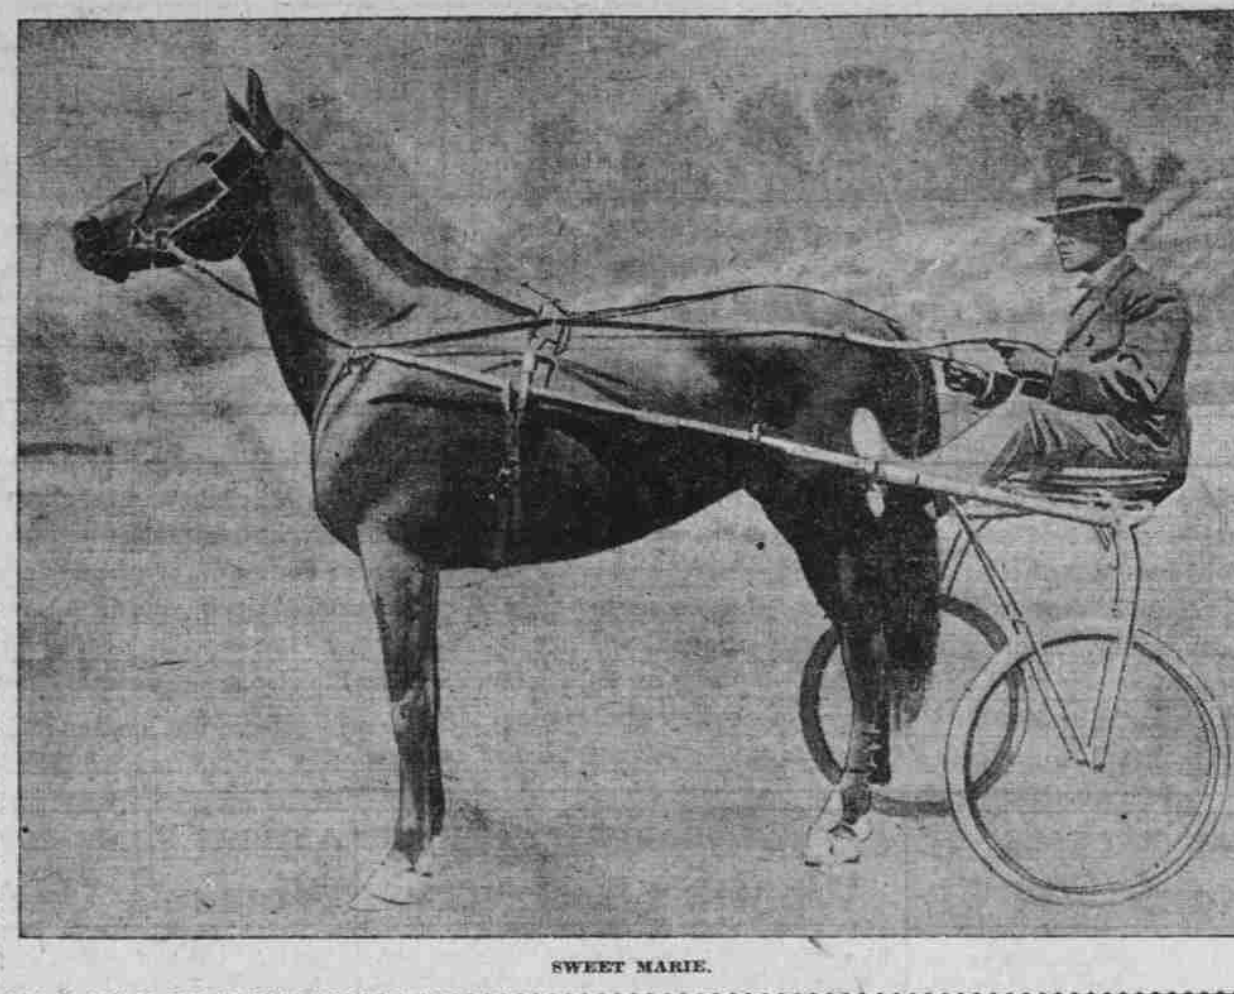

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo., Sept. 22.—The Pike Centennial celebration closed tonight, after a week replete with interest and enjoyment to thousands of visitors from Colorado and neighboring states. A garrison review by Governor McDonald and distinguished guests at Camp Pike was held at 10 o'clock this morning, a large crowd being in attendance. The troops, Indians and cowboys broke camp this afternoon, and by their presence added picturesqueness to the state carnival of fun and frolic, which took place on the downtown streets tonight, which was the grand finale of the week's festivities.

Knocked Down by Street-Car.

S. R. Porter was knocked down by an "S" car, at Thirteenth and Gileas streets, early this morning, and received several gashes on his head. He was unconscious for 20 minutes. On recovery he was taken home to 618 Overton street in a car. His injuries were not serious.

Academic Teams Are Active.

Although there will be a number of good teams among the local academic and high schools, the withdrawal of the Portland Academy from football has put something of a damper on academic football in Portland. There are still a number of good teams in the field, and practice has already begun. Seth Kerron, Oregon's crack fullback, is coaching the Hill Military Academy, and Henderson is at work with the combined an achievement which is of such surpassing greatness that no words of praise can make it appear greater. It is indeed, not so much her speed, wonderful in 2:05 or better in races and to the students of extreme speed in harness horses the following table will give some idea of Sweet Marie's wonderful performance.

approaches him. Of the 12 trotters in the 2:05 list, only one other has ever, after entering it, been able to reduce his or her record in a subsequent season. That one is Cresceus, who trotted in 2:04 1/4 in 1900 and in 2:02 1/4 in 1901. Sweet Marie has done so not once, but twice. In 1904 she trotted in 2:04 1/4; in 1905 in 2:04 1/4; and now she has trotted in 2:04 1/4.

Much speculation has been indulged in as to Sweet Marie's limit. We can only conjecture it, but it may be stated confidently that a mare capable of trotting eight heats in from 2:05 to 2:06 1/4 should be able to trot one, if her supreme effort is put forth upon some auspicious occasion, considerably faster. Critical opinion is unanimous that she should at least reach 2:03; and, very possibly, excel it.

KILLS WIFE IN HER SLEEP

YOUNG SON ESCAPES BY HIDING BEHIND A TRUNK.

Because Charles Brewer, of Fresno, Had to Go to Hospital, He Tried to Exterminate Family.

FRESNO, Cal., Sept. 29.—Because his devoted affection for his wife would not permit him to leave her to go to the hospital for treatment for fatal lung hemorrhage, Charles Brewer shot his sleeping wife and then killed himself at 8 o'clock this morning at their home here. Brewer was to have been taken to the hospital today, and he had frequently said that if his illness was fatal that he would have to go to a hospital, he would kill his family. His 9-year-old child, Bart, escaped death by hiding.

Oregon Cadets Help Celebrate.

NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—The Washington class of 1885 of the United States Naval Academy held its annual banquet last night at the New Willard Hotel to celebrate the return of its members from their vacations. Toasts and songs were the order of the evening. The following Oregonians are members of this class: Wynne Coe, of Baker City, and James Dennis Moore, of Ashland.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 29.—(Special.)—Portland made it four without a break from the Seals this afternoon by again rapping the ball hard when men were on bases. Each team came through with a run in the first, and the deadlock reigned till the fifth, when Henderson's single, followed by Sweeney's double and Meisle's long drive, broke the tie.

In the ninth, Carson tore off a two-base hit to center, and Lister brought him around with a triple to the right-field fence. Lister was thrown out while trying to stretch the hit into a home run. CLOSE FINISHES AT SPOKANE

Mal Lowry and Legal Form Sprint Under the Whip.

SPOKANE, Wash., Sept. 29.—(Special.)—Two whipping finishes in the running events and extra heats in the harness races gave a crowd of 700 plenty of excitement this afternoon. The talent picked the winners until the last race, when a good deal of the public gains went back into the pool-boxes.

Mal Lowry had a struggle to conquer Bruchner in the running event. In the mile race Legal Form nipped Peter J., who had led all the way at the wire. The weight was too much for Golden Light. LIPTON MAY TRY AGAIN.

NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—(Special.)—Sir Thomas Lipton arrived from Liverpool today and granted an audience to an army of reporters who were waiting for him. The Irish baronet was in fine fettle. He greeted his old friends in and about his hotel. Asked if he was of a mind to challenge with another Shamrock for the America's cup, he smiled and declared that he was here on business connected with his financial interests, but he also admitted that he was willing to arrange another race if he could succeed in securing some slight modifications of the rules governing the contest. He has an engagement to dine with friends tomorrow, among whom are some of the leaders of the New York Yacht Club, and it was plain from his manner that he expected to convey another challenge to the Atlantic with his steam yacht Erin next year.

Before he retired for the night he stated that he intended to make a formal statement later that would effectively define his position.

Dubois Attacks the Mormons.

LEWISTON, Idaho, Sept. 29.—(Special.)—Senator Fred Dubois addressed the people of Lewiston tonight, speaking solely in denunciation of the Mormons and using the report of the Smoot inquiry as authority for the statement that W. E. Borah, the Republican candidate for United States Senator, is counsel for Senator Smoot. His audience, while quite large, was not enthusiastic.
