brook which is to take place October 31, at 8 o'clock, followed by a reception from 8:30 to 10:30. Miss Lillie McKinnon entertains with bridge on Saturday afternoon for Miss Jeffery.

The musical department of the Women's Club was entertained by Mrs. E. M. Lane, 547 Hoyt street, Thursday. Under the leadership of Mrs. J. S. Hamilton, the members began work on "The Bridal Chorus" from "The Rose Maiden" of F. H. Cowen. The meeting was an enthusiastic one, and the work for the new year began with vim. Mrs. E. M. Lane has offered her home for the use of the department.

Mrs. Charles Adams entertained informally yesterday afternoon at tea.

entertained for him. The guests were Dr. and Mrs. Holt Wilson, Dr. and Mrs. A. A. Morrison, Mrs. Helen Ladd Corbett, Mrs. Harriet, Miss Montgomery and Miss May Failing and others. Mr. Curtis has recently commenced a work which has entailed 15 years of study. He is planning a series of lectures on the wonderful Indian pictures depicting the North American Indian's life in all its phases, with a vivid description of their lives and history. President Roosevelt is to write the introduction to this work, which will doubtless prove an unparalleled value to the scholastic world.

Mrs. George Burnside Story, one of the recent brides, was made the guest of honor at a large and fashionable tea on Wednesday afternoon, given by Mrs. William Jones, at her handsome residence on Flinders street. Bridesmaid roses and greens were effectively arranged in the drawing-rooms, chrysantheums and white roses in the library, and a profusion of bride roses as a centerpiece for the mahogany table in the dining-room, while chrysantheums in the latter room were artistically banked on the mantel. Mrs. W. B. Ayer and Mrs. W. H. Sken served iced and Mrs. Richard Koshler and Mrs. Etta Failing poured. Mrs. Sydney Mitchell, of New York, and Miss May Failing served punch in the library. Mrs. Jones, who was gowned in white, received with the bride, who wore a white chiffon frock and carried a shower bouquet of bride roses. A string orchestra, screened by palms, played during the afternoon. Assistants were: Miss Myrick, Miss Winnie Myrick; Mrs. Sam Mears, Mrs. William Brewster, Mrs. Hamilton, a sister of Mrs. Jones; Mrs. Robert E. Dana and Mrs. Robert Jones. A picture of Mrs. Story appears on today's page.

Miss Frances Wilson left on Friday morning for Europe. In New York she is to join several of her college friends, who attended the St. Margaret's School at Waterbury, Conn., and together with their chaperone, Mrs. Lewis, will visit many points of interest. Mrs. Solomon Hirsch chaperoned Miss Wilson on her trip across the continent.

A remarkably pretty and an unusually large reception was tendered Bishop Scadding, the newly-elected bishop of Oregon, and Mrs. Scadding, on Tuesday evening, by the Trinity parish, for all of the church people of Oregon. The affair was held in the Parish house and was attended by 400 of the exquisite families. The decorations were the source of much admiration, the entire walls and ceilings being completely hidden by brilliant Autumnal foliage. In the reception party were Bishop and Mrs. Scadding, Dr. and Mrs. A. A. Morrison, of Trinity, and Mr. Williams, the assistant rector, and his wife. Two splendid portraits of Bishop Scott, the first bishop of Oregon, and the late Bishop B. Wistar Morris, were draped with American flags and placed in a conspicuous position. Supper in the Parish house and Alpha clubrooms by a bevy of maids of the younger set. Bishop and Mrs. Scadding, who are guests of Mrs. C. H. Lewis, are to remain with Mrs. Lewis for another week.

S. B. Lintoleum returned from a trip to Europe on Thursday.

One of the smartest audiences of the season greeted Gogorza Monday evening at the Helleg. The gowns worn for the most part were of the exquisite kind. Mrs. Thomas, of Duluth, who will be remembered as the handsome Miss Gladys Jones, who formerly lived in Portland, was one of a large box party. She was beautifully gowned in a Parisian frock of pale blue panne velvet and an ermine stole. Quite the cynosure of all eyes was Lady Leng, who was a guest of Mrs. William MacMaster, who also entertained Miss Leng and Mrs. J. E. Young.

The reception given on Monday last by Miss Hazel Dolph for Miss Ruth Smith was most delightful affair. Only the members of the unmarried set were asked, with the exception of Mrs. Bert Bull (Miss Charlotte Whalley) and Mrs. David Lewis (Miss Edith Honeyman), the year's brides, who poured tea. The affair was charmingly informal, the guests spending the entire afternoon with the attractive bride-elect and her hostess. Miss May Montgomery and Miss Grace Warren and the four bridesmaids, prettily attired, assisted in receiving. Miss Dolph's gown was a handsome one of pink liberty satin combined with French embroidery. Miss Failing wore a pale blue net frock. Miss Kate Woolsey a stylish gown of green and white. Miss Edith Honeyman, the brides-elect, assisted in the dining-room. Miss Claire Houghton and Miss Leslie Knapp, this year's debutantes, served frappe.

On Tuesday afternoon Bishop and Mrs. Scadding, Mrs. Clarke, of Philadelphia; Sir John and Lady Leng and Mrs. William MacMaster were invited by Mrs. J. B. Montgomery to meet Mr. Curtis and to view some of his wonderful Indian studies.

Mrs. C. F. Swigert has recently presented the Multnomah Amateur Athletic Club, of this city, with a beautiful statue of the Greek athlete, Hermes, which stands 5 feet 8 1/2 inches, the actual height of the original.

Mrs. Swigert, who has been traveling this last year with his family in Mr. and Mrs. Campbell throughout Europe, purchased this splendid piece of workmanship in Athens while attending the Olympian games held in that city last year. The statue is being constructed in New York.

Mrs. Joseph Grant, of San Francisco (Miss Edith Macleay), who is visiting her sister, Mrs. Thomas Kerr, during her

The last six days have elapsed in safety any period of the Autumn season. Commencing with the brilliant Gogorza concert on Monday, the succeeding days were filled with receptions, dinners, teas, bridge parties and luncheons, for the most part in honor of out-of-town guests, namely, Bishop and Mrs. Scadding, of Illinois; Mesdames Clark, of Philadelphia; Mr. Curtis, of Seattle; Mrs. Joseph Grant, of San Francisco; Miss Mabelle Brents, of Walla Walla, and Sir John and Lady Leng, of Scotland. The stellar event of the week, though was the Warren-Smith wedding on Thursday.

Mr. Robert Smith has returned from a several weeks' trip to California.

The wedding of Miss Ruth Smith, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Milton Smith, one of the most popular members of the younger set, and Frederick Leslie Warren, Jr., occurred on Thursday evening at 9 o'clock at the First Congregational Church. The ceremony was performed by Dr. House, assisted by Mr. Brock, of St. Matthew's Episcopal Church. Miss Fisher presided at the organ. The decorations, which consisted of palms, greens and stunning yellow chrysantheums, the handsome gowns of the guests and the quaint style and coloring of the costumes of the attendants made the event picturesque. The bridesmaids' gowns, which were decidedly the handsomest seen for many a day, were cut on the new semi-Empire lines and were composed of a yellow mesaline satin in a delicate apricot shade over chiffon, with long suede gloves and slippers to correspond. Soft knots of chiffon embellished in a gold thread fell in graceful lines from the shoulder. The maids, Miss Hazel Dolph, Miss Genevieve Thompson, Miss Rhoda Failing and Miss Kate Woolsey, of Tacoma, are all of a brunette type of beauty, to whom the shade of costume was vastly becoming. The effect was further enhanced by wreaths of gold leaves worn in the culture, and the bouquet of Pearl de Jardin roses which they carried in odd French holders, made of hand-painted yellow chiffer roses and yellow silk gauze. The ushers were Mr. Edward Failing, Mr. Higgins, of Astoria, and Mr. Gerald Beebe. The groom, who is a Princeton man, was attended by his brother, Mr. George Warren. The bride made a charming picture in her handsome Empire robe of imported satin over chiffon, with quantities of rose point lace, worn with a long and graceful veil, and a wreath of barricaded Miss Josephine Smith, sister of the bride, who returned this Summer from the National Park Seminary, at Washington, D. C., was most attractive in a gown of silk in the delicate shadow effect. She, too, wore a becoming wreath of the prettily carved gold leaves and carried a bouquet of Gold-En Gate roses.

A reception in which several hundred guests were invited followed at the residence of Mr. Smith, on Riverside drive. In the yellow drawing-room, with its handsome tapestries, a profusion of yellow chrysantheums and softly shaded lights made a pleasing foil for the costumes of the maids who received with the bride and groom Mr. and Mrs. Milton Smith.

Mrs. Smith was gowned in a handsome decollete robe of white net with panels of real lace. In the dining-room, done in green and white, were Mrs. Joseph Teal, in a beautiful decollete gown of white, embellished in silver; Mrs. Burpee, in white lace; Mrs. Cabell, in cream satin, and Mrs. Higgins, sister-in-law of the groom, in an attractive pink satin. Miss Nan Wood, in a beautiful white chiffon frock, and Mrs. David Lewis, in an imported lace gown, served punch in the library. The bride's bouquet was caught by Miss Clara Teal. A few of the noticeably well gowned were Mrs. C. A. Dolph, in a lavender satin brocade, trimmed with duchess lace; Miss Failing, in an imported gown of black, studded with silver sequins; Miss May Failing, in white and a handsome mantle; Miss de goblin blue; Mrs. Harriet K. McArthur, in a black spangled net; Miss Grace Warren was handsome in white; Mrs. George W. Wentworth, Jr., wore her wedding gown; Miss Hazel Crocker, in white chiffon, with a mandarin coat of cream silk brocade, embroidered in pale blue and gold; Miss Nan Robertson, in a becoming yellow crepe gown and a smart picture hat, and Mrs. Frank Hart, in becoming gown of pink satin, cut en princess.

Mrs. H. W. Goode, who has been ill the past week, is now convalescing. It was with considerable regret that Mrs. Goode, who is one of the most charming of hostesses, was thus unable to carry out her plans for several affairs in honor of the Mesdames Clark, of Philadelphia.

Miss Mabelle Brents, a charming Walla Walla girl, and her sister, Mrs. Stirling, have been guests this past week of Mrs. Joseph Teal. For the three weeks previous Miss Brents was a guest of Mrs. Walter Cooke, an excellent likeness of whom is given on today's page.

Cards are out for the wedding of Miss Edna Jeffery and Dr. William C. Hol-through Portland last week en route to California. Mrs. Benet is a cousin of the late L. B. Cox, of this city. As Miss Margaret Cox, she was decidedly a belle in Washington, D. C., where she spent several Winters during the time that the Dolphs were conspicuous in society at the capital.

Mrs. Frank Warren, Jr., leaves on Tuesday for a visit with her parents, Bishop and Mrs. Cranston, of Baltimore, Md. She will remain until Christmas.

The Oregon Federation of Women's Clubs is to be congratulated on prevailing upon Mrs. Sarah Platt Dekker, the National president of the Women's Club, to preside at the sixth biennial convention, which is to be held October 20, 31, and November 1, at the Women of Woodcraft's Hall. Mrs. Dekker is said to be a woman of charming personality and brilliant intellect. She is to be the guest of Mrs. J. B. Mann during her visit. A banquet is to be given October 30, at 8 o'clock, for Mrs. Dekker and the visiting delegates, at the Hotel Portland.

The Irvington young people are looking forward to a dancing party to be given by "The Oddicks Club" at the Irvington Club House, Twenty-first and Thompson streets, next Tuesday evening, October 23. Many cards have been sent out and a very pleasant evening is anticipated. The patronesses are Mrs. M. J. Della Hunt, Mrs. J. O'Brien and Mrs. T. J. King. Parsons' Orchestra has been engaged to furnish music for the evening.

The Bridge Whist, Study Club was entertained Wednesday, October 17, by Mrs. W. H. Mankin. As this was the first meeting of the new year, a part of the afternoon was given to the discussion of plans. Twelve hands of bridge were played. Mrs. John E. Povey making the highest score. Mrs. R. P. Graham, 74 Tillamook, will be the hostess Wednesday, October 23.

Mr. E. S. Curtis, of Seattle, the distinguished artist whose Indian pictures are famous, has been another guest of the week who has attracted attention. On Tuesday evening Mrs. J. B. Montgomery
