

CURRENT TOPICS DISCUSSED BY VARIOUS WRITERS

NEEDED: A HOLIDAY FOR CONFESSING OUR SINS

But There Must Be Restitution in Full; Public, not Private Confession, and None by Proxy.

BY J. L. JONES

awful fate is in store for all of us as well as the railway magnates, and that he himself is not exempt. The human body is composed mainly of gas and the mind is even more attenuated. When we die and our bodies decompose only a small percentage of mineral matter returns to earth. The gassy part goes back to the atmosphere whence it came and is quickly absorbed by trees and plants. Even during life the human body is constantly eliminating gases that are absorbed by vegetation. The atoms that enter into the composition of our bodies in April may be hanging on the trees in June.

Some years ago Ambrose Bierce said the Southern Pacific Railroad magnates should be hanged on every limb of every tree on every acre of land in all creation. Or maybe it was in California; I don't remember which. Windsor Castle is a castle of wind, sir. Windsor Castle is a castle of wind, sir. Windsor Castle is a castle of wind, sir. We are all cannibals. We eat our own to the same thing, any
Then on confession day the sakes should be sprinkled on the ground ashes should be sprinkled on the ground consider that in the past year of the same thing, any
We are all cannibals. We eat our own to the same thing, any
We are all cannibals. We eat our own to the same thing, any
We are all cannibals. We eat our own to the same thing, any
We are all cannibals. We eat our own to the same thing, any
We are all cannibals. We eat our own to the same thing, any
We are all cannibals. We eat our own to the same thing, any
We are all cannibals. We eat our own to the same thing and consider that in the past we may have been cats or crawfish or pumpkins, we ought to be admonished to mortify our pride and be careful what we swallow either in the matter what we swallow either in the matter what we swallow either in the matter which. corn or cabbage without absorbing corn or cabbage without absorbing substances that have been constituent elements of our own bodies or those of other people, a month, a year, 10,000 or 10,000,000 years ago.

God surely made all nations of one blood, and blood is liquid gas, an evil mixture, brewed in witches caldrons. The only essential difference between a Calliny Senator and a Georgia nigger. a Ca'liny Senator and a Georgia nigger is in the pigment of the epidermis. Both are unregenerate, both at enmity with God, in the gall of bitterness and the hond of iniquity.

And sometimes there is mighty little difference in the epidermis. To condemn a negro merely because of his color is to cast a slur on every man After the leaves fall and become incorporated with the soil, they are con-, with dark complexion and every wom- | cumulated during the year should be | be for all the people to confess their be-what we swallow either in the matter of food or belief. The greatest need of our beloved counown words. We can't make a meal of try is not more laws or lawyers, more millionaires or free libraries. It is more national holidays, so that we can have time to enjoy our blessings and repent of our sins. Holiday means holy day. Our days are unholy. They are consumed in vanity and wasted in labor that profits

> What we need most is a National holiday to offset and balance up Thanksgiving day, a day of consolation to those who have nothing to give thanks for. There ought to be a day set apart for a general confession of sins. Everybody could share in this more or less cheerfully. It should occur about the end of the year and be observed with special religious consensation.

setting sins and temptations before the faces of their neighbors in the open congregation, and thus spare their neighbors from the ungrateful task of confessing them privately behind their backs. The trouble with the present system of onfession is that Mrs. Green confesses frs. Black's sins and shortcomings to Mrs. Brown when Mrs. Black is not there. This sort of confession is embar-rassing to all the parties and does not promises, forgotten resolutions, dreams that never came true and bills that are insure forgiveness at all. In fact, the sins are usually magnified instead of di-minished. They increase like balls of snow instead of melting away as they would do in the sunshine of candid con-fession. There is no assurance of forgiveness except to those who confess their own sins in public, unfelgnedly re-pent of them, and bring forth fruits meet for repentance.

This means that they must stop com-mitting the sins and make restitution double, or fourfold, if necessary, accordcrow. The penitenis should not be expected to eat anything except, possibly, the fiesh of the crow. They must not crow over their schlevements, but croak and mourn for the things they have left undone. The great National sins of this ing to the damage done. Thus, if a mer-chant has sold a citizen a suit of shoddy fully. It should occur about the end of the year and be observed with special religious ceremonies.

All the ashes from clgars and pipes ac
But the chief purpose of the day should a banker or lawyer has robbed a citizen.

With the average preacher and professional Christian the seven deadly sins are sional Christian the seven deadly sins are either from God or the injured person. If a banker or lawyer has robbed a citizen cards, gonig to the theater, staying away who hold possessions which they have acquired legally, but not honestly, and which they do not need, must restore them to those who do need them and to whom by right they belong.

This is what is meant by bringing forth fruits meet for repentance. There is no genuine repentance without restitution and restoration, and no minister nor priest of any church is or even can be authorized to pronounce remission or absolution of sins on any other conditions than these. The penitent must first seek forgiveness from the person he has wronged before God can pay any attention to his prayers. There is no use pray-ing to God to condone sin. How can God forgive any one for injury done to another person, if he does not settle with the injured person? Sins are like debts-they must be paid off if the bills are al-lowed. But 50 per cent of the debts of the world are fraudulent, and 20 per cent of the sins fictitious. The real debts and sins must be sorted out and paid off and the fraudulent bills thrown ont. With the average preacher and profes-

of his estate by legal processes, he must from Sunday school, and putting buttons restore it and reimburse the costs. Those in the contribution-box. But accumulating wealth by legally defrauding their neighbors in business operations is not counted sin at all, though it is based on the love of money, which is the root of

Before instituting a day of confession President Roosevelt ought to appoint a commission to inquire into the nature of sin generally. There ought to be a commission of the constitutes sin, clearer definition of what constitutes sin, clearer definition of what constitutes sin, classified as the railroads classify freights, according to their degrees of enormity. A person should not be punished externally for the sin of chewing tobacco if he is allowed to steal railroads with impunity and keep the stolen goods, This is like straining at a gnat and swallowing an ocean steamship. 1 am aware, however, that there would be considerable difficulty in selecting a com-mission to inquire into the nature of sin The commissioners themselves would first have to be confessed and completely absolved before their report would be generally acceptable. There would have to be another commission appointed to inquire into the best methods of doing this,

THEORY VS. DARWIN'S NATURAL

Scientists Willing to Accept Experiments of De Vries as Substitute for Great Evolutionist's Theory

Corvallis, Or., Dec. 25.

BY FATHER O'HARA. and Physicians in 1901 three of their number were commissioned to report on the present status of the theory of descent. The committee consisted of the botanist, Hugo de Vries, of the University of Amsterdam; the palaeontologist, Koken, of Tuebingen, and the zoologist. Ziegler, of Jena-Haeckel's stronghold. In his report Ziegler, as became a disciple of Haeckel, insisted that science had transferred the idea of teleology to "the realm of mysticism," and was positive that the concept of creation was regarded as mysevery mind at all "aufge-All in all, Ziegler gave an interesting account of what is "of faith" in Haeckel's dogmatic system. For the teachings of science we must have

Professor Koken, of Tuebingen, confined himself to the positive results obtained in his own field of investigation—palaeontology—during the past 40 years. After a few preliminary remarks on Darwin's merit in arous-ing interest in the study of fossil re-of De Vries is that new species arise panoplied like Palias from the brain of recourse to the reports of his col-mains, he stated that "the purely from existing species by sudden and Zeus. The selection theory was ham-palaeontological method has separated permanent modifications or "muta- pered by its demand for an "inconceiv-T the annual meeting of the As-sociation of German Scientists us from Darwin to an extent that us from Darwin to an extent that could not have been considered possible during the first decades after his work appeared." Professor Koken then proceeded to cite facts witnessed by the geologic record, which indicate an abrupt transition between related organic species, and are incapable of explanation on the hypothesis of grad-ual transformation postulated by nat-ural selection. This point was taken up in the report of Professor de Vries and dealt with from the standpoint of

> The report prepared by Hugo de Vries possesses a double interest. It proclaims the failure of the selection theory and brings forth a substitute for that theory. In speaking of the for that theory. In speaking of the origin of a new species from a parent species, Professor de Vries asserted, as the result of his investigations: "For this transformation there is needed no series of generation, no struggle for existence, no elimination of the unfit, no selection."

The positive theory which the Dutch professor expounds is antithetic to the selection hypothesis in almost every tions"-whence the name, "Mutation Theory." This is diametrically opposed to Darwin's concept of gradual modification. Darwin regarded fluctuating variations as the first steps in the formation of species. De Vries denies that common flucuating variability can ever lead, even by the most persistent selection, to any real trans-gression of the limits of a species. Darwin denied the stability of species; De Vries affirms that species are "like invariable unities." It is evident that there is no important point upon which the rival theories of selection and mutation are not mutually exclusive.

Before passing to consider the recep tion which the new theory has met among men of science, we may call attention to the fact that it escapes the most serious objections that have the most serious objections that have been urged against the selection theory. The facts revealed by the geologic rec-ord, though fatai to an hypothesis which postulates gradual transforma-tion, causes de Vries no concern what-ever. On his theory no "missing links" need be sought for. He tells us that there were no links; that the new ably long time" for the process of specific transformation. The new theory has no difficulty on that score. The strength of the mutation theory of course consists in this, that it is based on facts scientifically observed and verified. In his work, "Die Descendenz-theorie" de Vries describes his experiments with the evening primrose in the course of which he witnessed the origin of a new species. Another distinguished investigator, Father Wassmann, S. J., in a recent work records his observations concerning the beetle genus Dinarda. He, too, saw the rise of a new species from the parent species without intermediate forms.

In the annual report of the Smithsonian Institution for 1901 there appeared a paper on the mutation theory by the palaeontologist, Charles A. Wijte. Dr. White considered that the theory was destined to modify in an important manner the views of biologists on the method of evolution because of its eminently scientific presentation. In this regard the new theory contrasts favorably with the se-lection hypothesis, which Dr. White goes on to say "has necessarily always remained purely a theory, unsupported by any practical demonstration or ex-rests, Dr. White continues: 'De Vries supports all his statements with the most minute account of his experiments, the results of which he also discusses fully. These facts and dis-cussions are of such a character that it seems difficult to see how one can avoid accepting his conclusions with-out denying his facts. Furthermore, by out denying his facts. Furthermore, by accepting that theory and admitting the facts upon which it is based, one must necessarily regard the question of the origin of species as removed thereby from an undemonstrable hypothesis, i. e., natural selection, to a series of concrete propositions and practical demonstrations."

perimental observations." After giving the mutation theory from the pen of the an exposition of the experimental distinguished scientist and professor at grounds on which the mutation theory the Sorbonne in Paris, M. A. Datsre. In reference to natural selection, Professor Dastre has this to say: "It may be noted that natural selection is not a single hypothesis; it is a linking together of three hypotheses. If we separate the links of this chain we can show that not one of them will stand the test. The first hypothesis is that of the advantage in the struggle for existence which is given to an animal by the possession of small adaptive variations; the second is that of a preservation, by transmission, of this acquired character; the third is the progress, always in the same direction, of these profitable variations, which, accumulation for the same direction of the same direction. mulating, finally create a specific charac-ter. None of these hypotheses will stand > goes on to show wherein these supposi-tions are opposed to facts. Again, after distinguishing carefully be-tween the doctrine of evolution and that of natural selection, Professor Dastre con-

a searching examination."

present time who attribute to natural selection any role whatever in the filla-tion of species. A Dutch naturalist, Hu-go de Vries, who has a wide reputation among the botanists of our time, has just given the finishing stroke to the theory of natural selection, already much shaken, and has proposed in place of it another hypothesis, which he calls the 'theory of mutation.' The doctrine is founded on observations and experiments which, by the sagacity, long and patient effort, and careful criticism of their author deserve to be ranked with the ad-mirable observation of Darwin." Pro-fessor Dastre then reviews the evidence in favor of the mutation theory, and after recounting the experimnts of D Vris, concludes: 'The care devoted to these ex periments gives them a value which must attract the attention of naturalists. Their result furnishes a new and pow erful argument in favor of the theory of mutation.

It would be easy to multiply testimonies to the same effect, for the general cur-rent of scientific opinion is flowing in the direction indicated by the remark of Pro-fessor Loeb: "It seems to me that the work of Mendel and de Vries and their rs mark the beginning of a real Portland, Or., December 26.

MR. LORD ANSWERS HIS CRITICS

Ouotations From New Testament That Preachers Should Work Six Days and Preach One Day

honest Bible student would quote them in support of the present church system of begging. Besides, it is not possible that one could cover all such texts in one letter. However, only one has felt it her duty to reply, and that a lady. I give her credit for the same. But for fear the public may agree with her that I am both ignorant and abusive if I should remain dumb, I will make a brief reply. The very text she referred me to is a sorry one for defense of the church begging practice. The text, Acts vi:2-4, shows that it was the strict business of the disciples to attend to the word of God. If any one will read Acts vi:1, he will there find that it was the Hellenists who were converts from the foreign tribes who complained that their widows were neglected in the daily service, and by reading Acts ix:29, w there find that this very same people undertook to kill Paul. It was this class of hungry, selfish wolves that Paul in Second Cor. xi:26, says he was in danger of.

Now the idea is this: the church was increasing in numbers, and false brethren, with selfish ideas, were getting among them, and of course they were interested in the money affairs. Therefore of course it was not proper for the disciples to stop preaching the gospel and go to settling disputes. Surely no one has any objection to ministers preaching the gospel if they will attend to that, but I honestly be-lieve that if the money proposition were cut off from them we would see most every church without a pastor. Very few of them would be willing to Very few of them would be willing to toil all day and preach at night. The Salvation Army comes the nearest to living the doctrine of preach and work for the glory of God.

Please allow me to qualify my position by calling attention to a few facts as they then existed in Christ's and shortly after. First, in repl; to One Cor. ix:14, which reads: "Thus also the Lord has appointed to those who publish the glad tidings to live by the glad tidings." Sure, but why and who? Let us see. And please read carefully, or else you may not see the point. Matt. x:1 says: "And having summoned his 12 disciples, he gave them authority to expel impure spirits and to cure diseases and maladies of every kind." Verse 5 says: "These 12 Jesus commissioned instructing them. saying, 'Go not away to the Gentiles, and enter not any city of the Samaritans." Does that apply to any of the ministers of this day? I think not. They claim the first verse does, but their inability to do the cures proves they are mistaken. I will ask the read-er to note carefully Matt. x:9-10, which says: "Provide neither gold nor silver nor copper in your girdles; carry no traveling bag, no spare clothes, shoes or staff, for the workman is worthy of his maintenance." Verse 16: "Besend you forth as sheep among

Now these and 79 others are who First Cor. Ix:14 applies to, and why? Because Jesus called them from their dally labors for the home and made them fishers of men. And in order to accomplish his mission quickly he did not wish his servants burdened with not wish his worldly comforts. It was necessary for him to provide for them, since he took them from their all. Now I defy any class of ministers to apply this lan-guage to themselves. It is evident that disciples leaving all as they did long robes, and for them that make long prayers and desire the chief seats in the churches. Since we do not find this class among the nonconfessors, we must look to the churches for them. I do not mean of religion to preach and practice. There are many of them like Saul, or like 'Matthew or Zaccheous, who are good men, but need their cyes opened. xxii:35-36, we have the following: "And he said to them, when I sent you out without a purse and bag and candals, did you want anything?

While some of them had apparently given up all hope which had centered in Jesus and while toiling hard with the net in the lake, Jesus assisted them in providing food in the usual way, and actually prepared a meal and in vited them to dine with him. We fin by this that the ministers are all bad, vited them to dine with him. We find but I do mean that it is a bad system that after this, though some had power not to work, yet as a rule they all worked and commanded that others should do the same. Paul labored at own.

BY JAMES M. LEVEL.

Twould indeed be a sad blunder on my part, after making the assertions as found in The Oregonian of December 16, if I could not make good my position. I was well acquainted with the texts Mrs. Reynolds calls my attention to, but I did not think any according to the destruction of Jerusalem and knew that the destruction of Jerusalem and knew that the destruction of Jerusalem and knew that the manuer a bag, and in like manuer a bag, and he who has no sword, let him sell his mantle and buy one." Now this ended Jesus' labor, and his special protection of his disciples, and in keeping with this idea we find that the distribution to, but I did not think any attention to be a sad blunder that the existing Mossic condition of him take it, and in like manuer a bag, and he who has a purse, let him take it, and in like manuer a bag, and he who has no sword, let him sell his mantle and buy one." Now this ended Jesus' labor, and his special protection of his disciples, and in keeping with this idea we find that the destruction of Jerusalem and knew that it was in like manuer a bag, and he who has a purse, let him take it, and in like manuer a bag, and he who has a purse, let him take it, and in like manuer a bag, and he who has a purse, let him take it, and in like manuer a bag, and he who has a purse, let him take it, and in like manuer a bag, and he who has a purse, let him take it, and in like manuer a bag, and he who has a purse, let him take it, and in like manuer a bag, and he who has a purse, let him take it, and in like manuer a bag, and he who has a purse, let him take it, and in like manuer a bag, and he who has a purse, let him take it, and in like manuer a bag, and he who has a purse, let him take it, and in like manuer a bag, and he who has a purse, let him take it, and in like manuer a bag, and he who has a purse, let him take it, and in like manuer a bag, and he who has a purse, l ing me every day." Surely, if any on-had a right to live off the public i was Paul, but he was not of that tired, sleepy kind, that actually make their hearers tired and sleepy to listen to them. He had no time for vacations, neither did he lack for something to interest his congregations with. And I venture the assertion that if the most popular minister of Portland would step out and desert his flock and preach tent making during the week and the real gospel with dead earnestness preached every Sabbath. No rest for he would attract larger crowds and do In conclusion I wish to call attention to Second Cor. xi:24-29, and any man December 26, 1906.

as he should will meet with the same treatment as Paul did, viz: in prisons, in scourges, in deaths (I suppose he means he was exposed to death in many ways. See First Cor. xv:31-32, footnote): "Three times I was beaten with rods, stoned, shipwrecked, during frequent journeys in danger from rivers.

LET US REMODEL OUR JUDICIARY

Five Supreme Judges at $6000 a Year, and Abolition of the Office of County Judge

BY. C. A. SEHLBREDE. HAVE noted with interest the discussion of the question of increasing the number of Judges of the Supreme Court, as published in The Oregonian. Like Mr. U'Ren, I do not see how the suggestions of Mr. Pogue could be made practical. I believe that the old structure has served its purpose; it was all right in its ime, but conditions have changed very materially in Oregon within the last 49 years, since the adoption of our present enstitution, and in many respects that time-honored (?) instrument is out of date, and no amount of patching or "superseding" can now make it what it should be.

any part of the constitution except that relating to our judiciary, and upon that subject will say that it should be amend-ed, and in amending, it should be broadened to meet the present and future con-ditions of our growing state. We should have five Judges for the Supreme Court, to be selected from that number of Supreme Court divisions. Their salaries should be $8000. The regu-

The whole Circuit Court plan should be remodeled and placed upon a plan similar to that of Washington and California, making a circuit of each county, such court to have the same jurisdiction as now, except that the probate business now handled by the County Court should be transferred to the Circuit Court, and the office of County Judge should be abolished. The salary of the Circuit abolished. The salary of the Circu Judge should be fixed at $4000 per annur

A District Attorney should be provided for each county, whose compensation should be fixed by the Legislature. For the transaction of the county busi ness, three Commissioners should be pro-vided for, with pay at $6 per day for time actually devoted to the performance of official duty.

All Judges and Commissioners above nentioned should be elected for a term of six years, except that in the case of County Commissioners elected at the first election under this provision, one should tal, but a term should be held by at least , the shortest term to serve to be chair-

three of the members of the court once and year at Pendleton, as now, and at Grant's Pass, thus giving to Eastern and Southern Oregon the benefit of such term.

The shortest term to serve to be chair man of the board.

The shortest term to serve to be chair man of the board.

The shortest term to serve to be chair man of the board.

The shortest term to serve to be chair man of the board.

The shortest term to serve to be chair man of the board. as now, or duties performed in other counties if required by the Governor in case of special emergency.

Many of the details should be provided by law, as now, and the Legislature should be given a very wide latitude in this regard, so as to obviate the necessity of a further change in the constitution each change in the conditions of

In my opinion, this subject could be discussed with much profit by the legal fraternity of the state through your valunble paper. I do not mean by this that the lawyers are the ones to be especially benefited by this movement, or that they alone should engage in the discussion they are perhaps best qualified to lead in a discussion of this character.

I am satisfied that there is a strong sentiment among the lawyers of the state that some changes in our judiciary system is very much needed, and by cussion in this way we will be able to arrive at that which is the right and Their salaries should be $6000. The regular sessions of this court should be at the state capi-

CITY'S FIFTY-SIXTH ANNIVERSARY

Well-Known Pioneer Proposes a Celebration of Portland's First City Election

BY GEORGE, H. HIMES niversary celebration, and what date could be more appropriate than the 56th anniversary of the first city election which will occur on Tuesday, April 7, 1907? Hugh D, O'Bryant was the first Mayor, and Robert Thompson, Shubrick Norris, Geo. A. Barnes, T. G. Robinson and L. B. Hastings composed the first Board of Aldermen, and W. S. Caldwell was the first Recorder. Of these men the only one now known to be living is George A. Barnes

at Olympia, Wash,
As to the programme of exercises, that could be easily arranged by assigning to different speakers the task of giving a review of the growth of Portland in pe-riods of ten years, beginning in 1845, the

T seems to me that it is time for this of great interest to all classes of people, city to make preparations for an anhave just come to make their homes among us, would stimulate civic pride and besides would be a most admirable advertisement for the city. Surely there ought to be public spirit enough in this city to undertake such a movement and carry it to a successful conclusion.

All the institutions in the city should be called upon to co-operate in a move-ment of this kind-churches, schools, fraternal organizations, the Fire and Polic Departments, transportation, mercantile and manufacturing enterprises. The city in its municipal capacity, ought to lend a hand in such a celebration; and some one in close touch with its munici-pal life should prepare a paper covering its growth by decades

Rustrations as can be secured would be its indefatigable manager, Tom Rich

I have selected the date above noted because that is the first date about which anything is positively known in connection with public matters. It is known, positively, that Portland was named some time in 1845, and a cabin built on the original townsite that year. There is good authority for saying that there was a cabin built on what was a part of the Irving tract as long ago as 1829; and it is known that William Johnson had a cabin in the southern part of the city as early as 1843. But in all these cases there is uncertainty about the exact date. If the suggestions here made appeal to the people, there is time enough to pre-pare for a rousing celebration.

Milwaukie Country Club.

the disciples leaving all as they were worthy of their hire. I propose to show that these conditions changed and that Jesus told these very same disciples to go to work. He foretoid a series of reviews, accompanied by such practical demonstrations. "I have," continues Dr. White, "in my palaeontological studies been often confronted with facts with relation to both animal and vegetable fossil forms that seem to be quite inconsistent with the theory of their origin by the slow process of natural selection." Dr. White concludes by manufactured. concludes by mentioning "a few of the many palaeontological facts which are incompatible with the hypothesis of tinues: 'Now it appears that while Darwin succeeded in establishing the idea of the continuity of living forms by means of generation, he was much less successful as regards the means which he natural selection but support the mutation theory."

On July 1, 1903, there appeared in the Revue des Deux Mondes an article on There are but few naturalists at the

The writer

WOMEN AND HOME, UNDER CAPITALISM

How the Conditions of Both Cannot Help but be Improved Under Socialism means not only a transformation in industry, but as well in all those its own.

The foul "sweat shop," the crowded things having their roots in economic conditions—art, education, ethics and politics. It means not alone a revolution of trade, and the shops all today make the position of the laboring man, but a a profit from underpaid female labor. complete change for woman, economically socially, intellectually and morally, To understand fully the economic state of woman today we must go back in history and even into pre-historic times and trace, briefly, the changes through which she has passed. It is to woman in the state of savagery that we must look to find the beginning of all industry. She gathered the material and built the shelter. She sewed the skins and wove the fibers that clothed the family. With clay she shaped the first rude bowls, laying the foundation of our pres ent great pottery making. She loosened the soll with a clam shell or a pointed stick, planted the grain, and thus became the earliest of the agriculturists. In this stage of society, woman was strong, physically, but as the human race advanced into barbarism, and herds and flocks were kept, tended by the mer her work became almost wholly confine to the home, and thus savagery and bar barism gave birth to and slowly devel oped her economic dependence. Civiliza tion brought this to full growth, and since her life in the open air was gone she was no longer man's physical equal. Through the years of the Middle Ages history refers only incidentally to woman. This was the time when her secluded life continuing for long periods, made her the narrow, inferior being she is today. It was with the opening of the indus trial revolution brought about by the introduction of steam power that her pure momie value became utilized.

Heretofore the clumsy tools had been too heavy for her to use, and lack of physical strength had thus barred her competing extensively in the labor power of steam, required only a guiding, and this could be furnished quite as well by women as by men. Thus the labor power of one woman under the new system equaled that of many men working after the old methods. The present century has, in this way, pnomic dependence from husband or father to employer, and made her lem more nearly the laboring man. identical with that of Today 5,000,000 women, not including the susands of wives employed in home work, are actively engaged in industry, the number of women is not of vast importance as their wages. Capitalism, that finds a source of strength in the great body of unemployed men whom they play against those employed, has reached out to the women to yet further increase this struggle, and has found in them an extremely valuable economic factor from the fact that they can be compelled to accept a lower ninimum wage than man.

Woman, whether true or not, is looked upon as having no dependents on her work, and is marked down as the lowest of the laborers-the "downmost man. Woman's average wage in the United States is less than $5 per week, while many receive but $1 or $1.50. This is not a living wage, and many women are forced to choose between existence and a life of prostitution

Industry under capitalism, knows nor age, but chooses the labor embodied in man, woman or child which is the cheapest in relation to the degree of efficiency. Frequently the father looks for work while the mother is forced into the labor market, and the child competes against both. Thus we find in many New England towns the father caring for the home and small children while the mother and small children while the mother and older children become the bread-

No.

Nor is it necessary to go back to the

HE Socialist movement of today horrors of early factory days in Eng- work at 15 years and the average age means not only a transformation in land. Present society has horrors of of all was less than 23. At present 13

"speeding up" of machienry, are strain under which the laboring class is fast deteriorating physically.

Of the vast number of working wom en in the United States, it is found according to the report of the Com-missioner of Labor, that one out of every three are living in houses that are classed as "very poor," while one out of every ten are working in shops lesignated as "neglected and unhealth

Until recently the working women have been entitled to be called the i "working girls." The majority began out of every 100 women in the labor world are women of families. In but one place is there being an intelligent effort made to secure equal rights for women and men. That is in the Socialist movement. This movethe Socialist movement. classes on an economic basis cannot exist. It does not demand especial privileges for the laborer—only equal op-portunity for all and that all shall be required to work for what they re-Today, "Riches are the portion of the fdle, poverty the reward of the Already the laboring men, conscious of their interests, are organizing them-selves in the Socialist movement. The time is ripe for the laboring women to unite with the laboring men in this struggle for economic freedom.

Legal Interpretation of New Acts

Woodstock, Or.

How English Courts Are in Advance of the United States, Not Being Hampered by Precedent

BY GEORGE E. HARGREAVE. N AN article, "Lynching and the Criminal Law," page 751 of the current number of Review of Reviews, deploring the general lawlessness of the country, it is stated that only about one mur-derer in 74 suffers capital punishment. The late Justice Brown, of the Supreme Court, is quoted as saying: "In our administration of criminal law we are generations behind England." The Reviewer claims, "There is a general feeling that the jury has been exalted at the expense of the Judge" by requiring a unantmous vote of the jury and apparently the restoration of the powers of an English Judge will be required for a unanimous vote on jury cases.

In the very next paragraph we are told "Too often the American Judges exalt. matters of precedence over matters of substance," causing delay if not the utter abortion of justice. Delayed justice is often the greatest of injustice.

Justice is delayed because our Judges have not only to interpret the statutes, ascertain the facts of their infringement and administer the prescribed punish ment, which is all that is required of an must decide what is good and bad law, whether the law is honored more in the breach than its observance, or, in other words, whether it is constitutional. If not constitutional, it must not be admin

To be certain of giving a verdict in touch with other eminent Judges, all the records of the court proceedings in all the states of the Union on any similar case must be hunted up and read to the Judge (pro and con) by both sides. This is the meaning of the great stacks of books, sometimes nearly a wagon load, and for single cases often a wheel-barrow load, piled up on the courtroom table. A clever, conscientious Judge, with all thousand decisions who is right?), he is liable to have his verdict set aside. Four out of five of our Circuit Court verdicts have been recently reversed by the state

All this leads to halting habits of pro-cedure, causing delay, which, under pres-ent conditions, cannot be avoided. And then we have to consider the immense cost of it all. What an army of lawyers before the great doors of Notre Dame-before the great doors of Notre Dame-she was gowned in white brocade, with a cision has been made, and then some little technicality or irregularity the most trivial may knock out the plainest rendering of the statutes.

become too much enslaved, making of it fetch as bad as the Joss a fetch as bad as the Joss of the China-man. Our young are taught to look on the Constitution as a set of immaculate principles, inherent to good government, rather than its being just as much of a compromise in matters of procedure.

The Lord Chief Justice, with a few clerks, manages things much better in England. In the promulgation of a new is antagonized, but the new law once on the statute books must stand whatever it abrogates, so that all law is constitutionally good in England, and has only to be If in the multitude of counsel there is vision, our legislators should be the est, and, therefore, the only interpreters f good law.

To elect our Senators and Representa-tives, both state and Federal, and provide all the machinery of government for lawmaking at an immense cost, and then to elect a class of academic Judges, with power to thwart, delay or abrogate their laws, seems farcical to an Englishman.

When the majority of the states control the election of their Senators by the vote of the people, as in Oregon, we shall not require such strenuous effort to get one or two laws for the general good; there will be so much to do and so much to undo that the present dual method will be superseded. As your leading article will be reduced to a minimum when the business of government is placed in the hands of the people, where it belongs." Clackamas, Or., Dec. 27.

The Bride's White Gown.

Church Eclectic It is interesting to note that the choice of white for wedding dresses is comparatively a modern fashion. The Roman brides were yellow, and in the most his acumen, is liable not to decide aright, or, if right (and who can tell amongst a During the middle ages the Renaissance brides were crimson, and most of our Plantagenet and Tudor queens were married in this vivid hue which is still not is usually dressed in crimson brocade.

train of pale blue Persian velvet six yards in length. This innovation caused quite a stir in the fashionable world at that time. It was not, however, ering of the statutes.

All this results from such a veneration that pure white—the color hitherto worn of the Constitution, which was devised to by royal French widows—became popular serve the people, but to which we have for bridal garments in England.