LIVESTOCK SHOW AND FAIR IN FALL

Plan on Foot to Hold Oregon Exposition in Portland After State Fair.

USE CENTENNIAL GROUNDS

Lewis and Clark Buildings to Be Utilized for Exhibits—Project Receives General Support Among Business Men.

Oregon is to have an exposition and livestock show in Portland the coming fall if the business men of the city will carry through the project that has been outlined. The movement to hold an annual exposition together with a livestock show fully as large if not larger than the one held with the Lewis and Clark Fair has been revived, and has been given such impetus that it is not believed anything will stop it until it is assured that the event will become an annual occurrence.

Business men are discussing plans for the fair and livestock show and it is probable that a meeting will be called of those who regard the movement with favor to take the first steps to start the enterprise. Last Spring a committee of business men was organized to arrange for an exposition and livestock show to be held the succeeding fall, but nothing was done, owing to the limited time. Considerable enthusiasm and interest were aroused and are now in process of being revived. If the business men get together they will have plenty of time to make all arrangements for the exhibition.

It is planned to secure the co-operation of every commercial organization in the state, and the persons most interested think that it can be had. The purpose of the exposition is to exploit and "boost" Oregon by supplementing the great work achieved by the Lewis and Clark Exposition. The opinion is general that the Northwest did itself a great good through the Exposition and that the benefits derived from widespread and effective exploitation ought not to be allowed to die from neglect.

tion of Eastern people it is thought that the enterprise will be of incalculable benefit to Oregon. It is the sentiment that an exposition of almost any character will be productive of good which will increase with each succeeding year as the fair grows in size and scope.

The enthusiasm over the proposal to hold a livestock show is perhaps greater than that aroused over the plan to arrange for an exposition, but the consensus of opinion is that the two events ought to be held together. Stockmen all over the Pacific Coast and many in the East are looking to Portland to hold a show.

It is thought arrangements would be made for the use of several of the largest buildings which are still standing at the Lewis and Clark Fair grounds. It is proposed to run the exposition for several weeks and to hold the livestock show not less than one week. If the movement bears fruit the state will hold a show.

Among those who are talking exposition and livestock show is Dan McAllen, who believes that the projects can be made grand successes. He is satisfied that the people throughout the state will lend a helping hand and declares that practically every prominent business man in Portland looks upon the movement with favor.

"The people Oregon are looking to Portland to make the first move, and it is up to us to do something," declared Mr. McAllen yesterday afternoon. "Nothing can do the state of Oregon more good than a combination of an exposition and a livestock show. It ought to be held in Portland because this city is the largest in size and is the natural gathering point. We want to advertise our resources; show to the world what we have and to bring more people here. The exposition will do all that and more, too."

"I am ready and willing to support the movement for an exposition and a livestock show if other of the business men of the city will fall in line," said W. P. Olds yesterday. "By all means we ought to have a livestock show. The exhibition at the Lewis and Clark Fair was a revelation to me and thousands of others. Interest in a livestock show will not wane from year to year, and I believe that the livestock industry of Oregon and the Northwest will be immensely benefited."

was demonstrated at the show at the Lewis and Clark Fair when our stockmen carried off more premiums than did the Eastern exhibitors. I have had dozens of letters from Washington and California stockmen urging that a show be held, and the Eastern exhibitors are equally anxious. It is up to the people of Portland."

C. E. Ladd yesterday said that he was willing to support a movement for a livestock show and that he believed Portland was the place to hold it. He expressed considerable enthusiasm when told how general interest in the proposed show was becoming.

E. M. Brannick, vice-president of Studebaker Bros. Company, and David M. Dunne are among the boosters for the exposition and livestock show, and there are dozens of others who are arousing and creating public sentiment, which it is generally believed will develop into something material.

TALKS TO DUFUR FARMERS

Experts From Corvallis College Hold Successful Institute.

Dr. James Withycombe and Professor C. E. Bradley, director and chemist, respectively, of the Agricultural College at Corvallis; E. T. Judd, of Turner, and William Schumierick, of Hillsboro, were in the city yesterday on their return from Dufur, where they held a successful Farmers' Institute. At the two days' meeting Dr. Withycombe discussed "General Agriculture"; the subjects covered by the other members of the party being as follows: "Soils and Plant Food," Professor Bradley; "Draft Horses," Mr. Judd; "Dairying," Mr. Schumierick, who is a practical dairyman of Washington County. This quartet of instructors was accompanied by C. I. Mason, a successful fruitgrower of Hood River, who told the Wasco County farmers about apple growing.

The party was scheduled for another institute at Milton, but an irregular train service prevented the party from reaching that point.

WILL IMPROVE CITY PARK

Board Decides Upon Important Changes.

At the meeting of the Park Board yesterday morning it was decided to make various improvements in the City Park during the coming year. The most important change will be in the construction of new quarters for the animals kept on exhibit at the park. There will also be a rearrangement of the system of hot-houses.

Dr. Dav Rafferty and Professor J. R. Wilson reported to the board that $10,000 is a reasonable price for Hawthorne Park, an option for which is held at that figure by the city. It was the sentiment of the board that the park should be bought.

WILL TRY TO SELL STOCK IN ONE DAY

John F. Cordray Sanguine of Success in East Side Theater Project.

PAYING VENTURE, HE SAYS

Manager Declares All Conditions Favor Enterprise—Will House Stock Company and Eastern Independent Attractions.

John F. Cordray, who recently submitted to East Side "push clubs" a proposition to build a first-class theater on Grand avenue, has been subjected to many facetious remarks from his friends concerning this enterprise. He has been asked why he happened to locate in such an out-of-the-way place, but Mr. Cordray has always answered with his usual good humor, "Wait and see the outcome."

Mr. Cordray says that he has not gone into the East Side Opera-House project without careful investigation and thought. He admits that he was not favorable to the East Side at first, and cast the idea aside, but talking it up again formed a more favorable opinion of the location on Grand avenue. It was not, however, until he had found that it would cost upwards of $500,000 to secure a location and build a playhouse for the "Independents" on the West Side that he seriously took up the East Side proposition.

The proposal made by the Hawthorne estate of the free rent for 10 years of a quarter block on Grand avenue and East Salmon street, midway between Hawthorne avenue and East Morrison street, and on a street reached by every street carline in the city, opened the way for something definite. The committee of business men, W. L. Boise, J. M. Healy, Thomas Hislop, H. H. Prouty and H. H. Newhall, who, with Mr. Cordray, spent much time in visiting the various "push clubs," received a hearty welcome, and the indorsement of the opera-house project received was given unanimously. These men told the clubs what it meant for the East Side. Mr. Cordray also told what he proposed to do, and then pointed out what a theater always does for a neighborhood and illustrated this by referring to the Baker on Third street.

estimated between $0,000 and $0,000; location on Grand avenue being accessible to all portions of the city. West Side and East Side, all carlines centering there; Grand avenue a wide street and is to be improved with hard pavement and lighted with electric lights; an all East Side carline on Grand avenue; practically free rent of theater. Mr. Cordray found that it would cost $15,000 rent for a first-class playhouse on the West Side. On the East Side this will be cut off. The theater buildings will cover the entire half-block, but of course the theater itself will not occupy the whole building, and there will be room on Grand avenue for two or four storerooms whose rental will be high. Mr. Cordray guarantees 6 per cent interest on the stock of the concern, the capital stock being all the way from $60,000 to $100,000, but the income from rents will cover this, or nearly so. Mr. Cordray is to take the completed opera-house, with a seating capacity of 2200, from the corporation that builds, furnishes and equips it. At the end of the 10 years the corporation may take another lease of the ground for another 10 years at a rental not to exceed interest of 5 per cent on the appraised value of the land.

Plan to Raise Money in a Day

The incorporation papers are being drawn up. It is proposed to place the value of the shares at $10 and then try to place one or more shares in 1000 East Side homes. It is proposed to raise the money by the middle of the month, and have the theater completed for opening by September. W. L. Boise, who is drawing up the incorporation papers, will make the presidents of the clubs that have taken part in the incorporators. The plan is to do the work of raising the money in one day through a series of active committees appointed for every locality. The men pushing the project say it shall not fail, which means something, when it is considered that some of these men are able singly to finance the enterprise.

An enormous direct and incidental benefit is expected. It is conceded that a first-class playhouse is a business getter for the whole district. At the meeting to be held next Wednesday night it is hoped to complete every detail of the preliminaries for raising the money.

There has been some discussion of the plans for the proposed opera-house. Tentative plans are being drawn up. The building will be modern and as nearly fireproof as it can be made. Mr. Cordray has built several opera-houses and is familiar with the best designs.

As to the class of attractions, it may be said that Mr. Cordray represents the "Independents," who do not send attractions to Portland at present, but who have desired a playhouse here. Mr. Cordray has frequently outlined a general way his plan, which is to maintain a first-class stock company and play the best of the "Independents' shows."

Chinese Lottery Agent Arrested. Lee Wong, a Chinese lottery agent, was arrested at Second and Oak streets last night by Acting Detective Price, who caught him with the lottery tickets in his possession. The Chinaman had been watched for some time by the officer and last evening he was taken into custody. When he was searched he offered con-

GIBSON HAS TWO WIVES

Man Arrested for Impersonating an Officer Is a Bigamist.

Wives, as well as other forms of trouble, are beginning to pile up on Harry C. Gibson, the young man who was arrested two weeks ago at Walla Walla for impersonating a Government official. The arrest was made by a Portland secret service agent, and Gibson was lodged in the local county jail for safe-keeping. He told of having a wife in Walla Walla County, a statement which was substantiated by the authorities.

Now a second wife has appeared on the scene. She comes from Vancouver, Wash., and does not want her husband, but does want their 3-year-old boy, Ralph Gibson. She accuses Gibson of having abducted the child from his mother-in-law in Washington, transferring the child to the newest wife, in Walla Walla County. When confronted by the woman, Gibson admitted he had been married to her four years ago near Woodburn. He tried to get a divorce, but was not able to complete the records of their marriage in so doing, and accordingly married a Miss Thompson, at Elgin, Or., ten months ago.

W. H. TAFT TO BE ARRAIGNED

Real Estate Dealer Will Answer Charges of Shady Transactions.

W. H. Taft, a real estate dealer, who levanted some months ago, leaving behind ugly charges of shady transactions, to answer which he was subsequently returned to Portland, will be arraigned in the circuit court tomorrow forenoon on a charge of forgery. Just what plea Taft will enter is not positively known, but it is reported on good authority that he will not fight the charge. It is said he has revealed the names of others alleged to be implicated in the wrong-doings attributed to him, but thus far no additional arrests have been made.

Rushing Sweetland Building. Work upon the Sweetland building is being rushed and it is expected that the offices will be ready for occupancy in less than one week. Elevators will be installed during the next week and many of the tenants will move in immediately.
