

THE COMMANDER OF DEPARTMENT OF THE COLUMBIA; OFFICER WITH A SPLENDID RECORD

GENERAL A. W. GREELY HAS WON RENOWN AS FIGHTER, SCIENTIST AND ARCTIC EXPLORER. AUTHOR OF TECHNICAL WORKS.

GENERAL A. W. GREELY, who will soon assume command of the Department of the Columbia, is one of the most renowned military officers of the present day, and has probably been of more actual service to the Government in a general way than any man now living.

It is probably through his Arctic explorations that General Greely, then a Lieutenant, became most widely known, and the rescue of his party from Cape Sabine in 1854 by Commander W. E. Schley was an event in which the whole world was interested.

The return south was begun in August of 1853, and the only Civil War veteran who has reached the rank of Brigadier-General in the Regular Army, and in addition to being a splendid all around military man and officer, has been of inestimable service to his country through his Arctic explorations, as a meteorologist, as a Signal service officer, and as the author of many valuable books and documents.

GENERAL A. W. GREELY, NEW COMMANDER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF THE COLUMBIA.

He has built 1600 miles of telegraph, in Cuba 300 miles, in China 250 miles, and in the Philippines 10,500 miles of lines and cables. He installed a system of 2000 miles of telegraph lines, submarine cables and wireless in Alaska between 1899 and 1904, the wireless section of 107 miles from Nome to St. Michael being the first successful long-distance wireless operated regularly as part of the commercial system.

General Greely was a member of the board to regulate wireless telegraphy in the United States in 1894, member of the board to report on coast defenses of the United States in 1895, United States delegate to the International Telegraph Conference in London, 1893; of the International Wireless Telegraph Conference at Berlin in 1895 and 1896. As an author he has a number of books and documents to his credit, many of them being of greatest value to the various Government departments as records. Among the books he has written the best known in-

NOW HE IS A CLUB MEMBER

The large picture shows the same family as the small one, the latter being a reduction of the one printed a week ago.

The father has joined one of Eilers Co-operative Clubs, during the past week, and is realizing some of life's pleasures.

This family is typical of a great many families that are represented in the piano sales that have been made in the week just passed at

EILERS PIANO HOUSE

It is really remarkable to note the difference in the countenances; in the general bearing and disposition of a family before and after buying a piano. A musicless home is a desolate spot. Where once the father read the evening paper and then went to bed; where the mother finished the dishes and retired; where the boy and girl romped with worn-out toys and pet kittens until tired, and then were "tucked away"; all these things are changed as in the "twinkling of an eye."

WHY NOT AVAIL YOURSELF OF THIS OPPORTUNITY AND JOIN ONE OF

THERE IS NOT A SINGLE REASON WHY EVERY FAMILY IN PORTLAND SHOULD NOT HAVE A PIANO. THIS PLAN OF PURCHASE HAS BEEN MADE SO SIMPLE AND EASY THAT NOBODY COULD POSSIBLY FEEL THE SLIGHTEST INCONVENIENCE IN MAKING THE VERY SMALL FIRST PAYMENT THAT IS REQUIRED, AND THE EQUALLY EASY WEEKLY PAYMENTS THAT HAVE BEEN PROVIDED FOR.

through the reformation and medieval days to the primitive church, and to the Apostles. It is to show how this tracing back is done that these lectures have been arranged. The subject of the first lecture was "From the Roman Conquest to the Mission of St. Augustine," from B. C. 55 to A. D. 657. Beginning with the worship of the Druids and the Roman conquest of Britain the bishop passed on to the birthday of the church at Pentecost in Jerusalem. He discussed various Christian legends. The Anglo-Saxon invasion was also dealt with and by means of a clever diagram the bishop illustrated how the Jutes, the Angles, and the Saxons came over to defend the British against their Northmen enemies, and then liked the country so well that they stayed, and overran the country, introduced their pagan religion and their savage practices and drove the early British church into Wales, Cornwall and Ireland. On the island of Iona the early British thrived and developed a strong missionary spirit. The founder of early missionary died there in 597 the very year in which the Italian mission under St. Augustine landed at Canterbury. After showing how the rude Anglo-Saxons were converted to Christianity by the British missionaries working down from Iona, and the Italian missionaries working up from Kent, the bishop closed his lecture with an interesting description of characteristics of Saxon architecture. These lantern lectures are free, and the general public is cordially invited.

Plan to Annex St. Johns to Portland. It was reported in St. Johns yesterday that a movement had been started to annex that place to Portland, and that petitions were now being prepared for circulation. Opponents of the present city government of St. Johns are said to be at the bottom of the movement. There has been considerable dissatisfaction over affairs there for some time. Will Speak Today. A. F. Fliegel, of the Portland Methodist Laymen's Association, will deliver an address in Fraternity Hall, Estacada, day at 7:30 P. M.
