Part of this only was true, it is stated. He was found to be intensely loyal to his mother, but he was found to be poor and had no rich or influential friends. When the case was laid before him, with Mr. Chandler's letter, he consented to act, but made one provision, illustrating, it is said, his firm intent to be both wise and just. The pian he proposed was that of just. The plan he proposed was that of at once seeing his mother and investi-gating her mental state before he finally committed himself to a move.
