SEELWOOD LIBRARY OPEN.—The Seelwood branch library at 512 Unadilla avenue, now under the charge and control of the Portland Library Association, is open to the public. Miss Mary C. Voorhees, formerly of the reference department of the public library, is in charge of this branch, and the room is open daily from 2 to 5 and from 7 until 9:30 P. M. The room has been refitted and lights have been arranged both for day and night. Books are provided both for adult and juvenile reading, and there are some reference books. On the tables will also be found the printed catalogues of the Portland library for the past three years, and from these books may be secured by special request. This arrangement brings the benefits of the central public library to the people of Seelwood. The effort to secure a library for permanent building will next be undertaken.

PORTLAND HEIGHTS IMPROVEMENTS.—At a meeting of the Portland Heights Improvement Club held last evening the property-owners voted to improve all the streets on the Heights with hard-surface pavement. Sixteen thousand dollars was recently appropriated for fire protection on the Heights, the engine-house to be located at Twentieth and Spring streets. Many beautiful homes are being erected in that section and better fire protection is badly needed. E. L. Thompson is erecting an $800 residence at Twenty-first and Carter streets. Work is well under way on the home of J. W. Cook at Twentieth street and Terrace road, to cost $10,000. Plans are being drawn for a $2500 house for Dan J. Maloney, to be located on one of the highest points. Grade stakes are being set for the excavations for residences for Dr. H. S. and C. L. Nichols at Twentieth and Jackson. Much other building is in progress, and the Heights is rapidly becoming a beautiful residence section.

Beachside and Elk Creek lots. Lots fronting the ocean and slightly at Ocean side, $150. Julius Kraemer, 54 Fourth street.

THE EIA EXERCISES of the Oregon Trust & Savings Bank came out in splendid green last night in honor of St. Patrick. By reason of its large size and unique character this sign has heretofore attracted much attention, even when dressed in the ordinary white electric bulbs, but when the 264 lamps required to operate it are of Irish green, as it appeared last evening, the effect is magnificent and striking. It will run in green again tonight and return to its usual colors Monday evening.

NEW PUBLICATION ISSUED.—The first number of the Spectator, a new weekly newspaper, was issued yesterday. It is published by Hugh Hume and J. S. Taylor, both prominent Portland newspaper men. Mr. Hume is editor and Taylor is manager. The magazine covers a wide field, embracing society, art, politics, sports and finance, and the first issue is highly creditable to the management.

I HAVE BEEN thinking it over and have concluded to invite all parties desiring to buy, sell or exchange real estate to call at my office, and make known their wants. I have thousands of buyers in city and town properties in Oregon, Washington, Idaho, Montana, California and Nevada.—R. L. Cate, Portland Or., 225 Stark street, phone Ex. 70.

PROSECUTOR GOES TO JAIL.—J. A. Miller was sent to the County Jail to serve time to the extent of $150 by Justice Reid yesterday because in a case against William Kidd, charged with larceny, Miller failed to prove his case. The costs reached $150, as Constable Wagner went to Pendleton to make the ardent. Miller could not pay the amount.

ATTACKS BRUIN'S REPORT.—I. Savransky, of the firm of Savransky & Son, flatly denies a statement made by Police Inspector Bruin to the effect that a fire in a stove in the Savransky second-hand store caused a blaze. About 5 o'clock Friday night the proprietor of a lodging-house at the corner of Front and Yamhill came to the police station and told Captain Bruin he thought some one was attempting to set his place on fire. Captain Bruin went to the place to investigate. The stove in which the rage was burning had been purchased in the afternoon and had been standing on the sidewalk for three hours. It was warm when purchased, but the proprietors of the store thought the fire was out when they took it inside. In his report Captain Bruin stated that the fire in the stove was blazing and had threatened to spread. He also stated that he extinguished the fire with a few buckets of water, while the proprietor stood on opening the store this morning that a small drinking cup had been broken. Bruin also stated that the building was a flimsy wooden structure, whereas it is a substantial brick building. Mr. Savransky brands the whole report as sensational and misleading.

SLIGHT WOUND CAUSES DEATH.—George Galloway, aged 25 years, died from lockjaw at St. Vincent's Hospital yesterday morning. The indirect cause of his death was a cut in one of his fingers, received while working at the Willamette Iron Works. He took no precautions and blood poisoning set in. The first symptoms of the fatal disease were noticed early yesterday morning, when Galloway rushed from his room in his night clothing, frothing at the mouth. The police took charge of him and conveyed him to the hospital, where he died. Coroner Finley caused an autopsy to be held, which disclosed the facts. Galloway's mother lives at St. Johns. She is aged 65 and has not been apprised of her son's death.

TO LOT-BUYERS.—Persons contemplating the purchase of one or more residence lots should inspect the new addition in Irvington lying between East Seventh and East Thirteenth and Thompson and Brazee streets. Thompson street is to be paved with bitulithic pavement; all other streets macadamized; cement walks, park benches, shade trees, sewer, gas and water pipes to each lot, and reasonable building restrictions. This is not a mere promise, but is being done now. Think it over. Why buy out in the country when lots in this desirable and close-in addition are selling for such low prices and easy terms? For which call on or address Charles K. Henry & Son, 122 Third street, Portland, Or.

STREETCAR INSPECTORS NAMED.—A new department has been created by the Portland Railway, Light & Power Company, that of inspectors in the streetcar service. They are required to superintend the operation of the different city streetcar lines and see that the rules are carried out. They report the failure of car crews to run their cars on time and may be appealed to by the public at any time for information regarding the service. The work now performed by inspectors was formerly done by the assistant division superintendents. Five inspectors have just been put on, and badges on their caps make their position known to the public.

PORTLAND EDITION OF "THE VAGABOND."—One week from today the much-talked-of Portland edition of "The Vagabond" will be issued. Mr. Lloyd's idea of a tramp magazine—one number published in each great city of the world—is a clever one, and his reception in Portland has been flattering. The Portland number will represent Portland and its pictures and articles touching up many local celebrities in an amusing manner.

ADMEN'S LEAGUE DINNER.—The annual dinner of the Admen's League, which is attracting much attention, even when dressed in the ordinary white electric bulbs, but when the 264 lamps required to operate it are of Irish green, as it appeared last evening, the effect is magnificent and striking. It will run in green again tonight and return to its usual colors Monday evening.

Good salary and fine positions. Come ready to go to work. Emporium Department Store, Apply Monday between 11 and 11 A. M. at room 47, Lumber Exchange building, Second and Stark streets, city. SAVED FROM PATRICK'S GRAVE.—Grant Thompson, familiarly known as "Blind Tom," who committed suicide at the county hospital Friday morning because of despondency, will not be buried in the potter's field. He will be laid to rest tomorrow in Rose City Cemetery, as he left a small sum of money, and Coroner Finley decided to pay the funeral expenses with it.

VICTIMIZING PUBLIC.—Warning to the public was issued at police headquarters yesterday against two men who were said to be robbing a harvest by swindling people in the vicinity of East Seventh and Belmont streets by collecting $1.50 in each instance for a "free-water and drainage" campaign. The men are impostors and fakers and the police are searching for them.
