BOTHA AND JAMESON THERE

Leaders From All Quarters of the Globe Will Plan Imperial Defense and a Fuller Measure of Preferential Trade.

LONDON, April 6.—The fourth colonial conference, which will assemble here April 15, promises to be the most important yet held, although the absence of Leeph Chamberlain, the ex-Colonial Section whose imperialistic enthusiasm whose imperialistic enthusiasm that, if there is a general strike, it will not occur May 1, but on a date will not occur May 1, but on a date retary, whose imperialistic enthusiasm gave the movement its greatest impetus, and the death of his personal antithesis, the bluff and picturesque Richard Seddon, the Premier of New Zealand, will be greatly felt.

Popular interest is enhanced by the participation of Dr. Jameson, the Transvaal raider, who is now Premier of Cape Colony, and General Louis Boths, Premier of the reconstructed Transvaal. Alfred or the reconstructed Transvan. Alrea Dealdin, the Australian Premier; Sir Jo-seph G. Ward, Premier of New Zealand: Frederick B. Moore, Premier of Natal, and Dr. Jameson have already arrived in Lon-don. Sir Wilfrid Laurier, of Canada; Sir Robert Bond, of Newfoundland, and Gen-convincing Great Britain of the loyalty of her Dutch subjects. He will be given a hearty official welcome on his arrival at Southampton. The most important questions slated for Chafe at Free Trade.

Preferential trade looms up as the largest subject in the preliminary talk. While he colonists are anxious to give the mother country advantages, they chafe under the one-sided arrangements which yield them no returns. Premiers Laurier and Deakin have already gone on record to this effect, and the tendency of colonial opinion seems to be voiced by the following resolution, which Premier Jameson varies to the introduced.

Kingdom, desires to impress puon His Majesty's government the opinion that the continuance of such preferential treat-ment to British producers and manufac-turers is largely dependent on the grant-ing of some reciprocal provisions to the colonias."

This means a step away from free trade. The government desires to evade that di-

The inherent difficulty of the problem will be to draw the distinc-tion between Great Britain's position as a European power and as the mother country of a great colonial empire Thus Great Britain could not expec Great Britain could not expec-colonies to bind themselves to as sist her in any European war in which they were not concerned, though any colony could embroil Great Britain in war without incurring any but the moral obligation to come to her assist-

Dr. Jameson intends to propose a plan whereby contributions from each colony should be equably fixed, that the condition of the colonies be presented before the Imperial Council, at which questions concerning the peace of the Empire shall be discussed.

On Aslatic Exclusion.

Australia is determined to bring up the Asiatic exclusion question, and Premier Ward declared, on being inter-viewed, that New Zealand was against the admission of Chinese and Japa-nese, between whom and New Zea-landers he sees the inevitable struggle for supremacy. The Premier said:
"We object to bing bound by treaties in which we have no voice, to admit Asiatics freely." The government has reserved 50 rooms in the Hotel Cecil for the enter-taliment of the Premiers and their staffs and families. The visitors will be banqueted extensively, and will be given the freedom of several cities.

CONCEALS POWER OF HER NAVY

Eastern ally.

When the battleship Dreadnaught was launched the naval attaches did assertian some of the details of her construction, but that was Great Britain's first attempt to prevent foreigners gaining information regarding her new ships. A second and more successful attempt is being made in connection with the three giant cruisers, invincible inflexible and indomitable. The first two are under construction and the Indomitable was launched recently at Glasgow.

As a customary on such occasions, all the naval attaches were invited to the faunching of the Indomitable. They expected that before the general public arrived they would be given an opportunity to inspect the ship. Instead they were placed under the guidance of an officer who kept them inspecting the baller-shop while they were all eager, but too polite to suggest, visiting the Indomitable before the hour fixed for the launching.

But on the Indomitable the spaces were filled with planking so there was no means of even guessing at the thickness of the armor. The attaches say they have learned make doubly certain that no information regarding the new navy reaches foreign powers, the Admiralty has issued orders that henceforth the same secrecy be maintained regarding all new ships, and that the staff intrusted with the carry-ing out of all details of construction he placed upon oath not to divuige the PARIS. April 6.—The commanders of the troops composing the garrison of Paris are said to have received secret instructions this afternoon, in view of the possibility of a general strike being called, to hold themselves subject to orders of the commissaries of police.
