nw, where is the joy to come fro If Thomas is lucky enough to be elect-ed, he must obey this law. He must not even promise, in exchange for votes, any city office. Those who have studied the workings of the Civil Serv-les, well, know this fee well know this, although it is very evident that many of the Demo-cratic politicians and candidates do not. In the campaign of two years ago. a candidate for the Council wrote figo, a candidate for the Council wrote letters to city employes, saying that if he were elected he would see that their pay was increased. It was lucky for this candidate that he was defeated, for he might have found himself not only deprived of his office, but in scribus trouble as well. to be due not to an oversight, but to be the intention of the framers of the amendment. It is istended by those who are supporting the measure to change the method of raising money for bridge construction, as well as to radically revise the water system. The portion of section 114 of the charter, which provides for the levy-ing of a 2-mill tax for a bridge fund, is emitted from the free water bill. Therefore if this measure is emacted there will be no authorization for the building of bridges by general taxa-tion. tion. This is in accordance with the intention of the man who drew up the bill, as they regard the present method as uncatisfactory. We do not believe that a general tax is the proper means of raising money for bridge building," said Mr. Wagnon last night. "By this method people who are in no way benefited are taxed just as much for the con-struction of a bridge as those whom the bridge will serve. We consider this feature of the charter bad and have drawn our bill to eliminate it. "It would be borne by the property bene-fited. People who live at Sellwood, for instance, would not have to pay for bridges in South Fortland Az a general rule the land most benefited by the bridging of guicnes through-ut the city is owned by rich people. Under the present system they bear far leas than their iust pronoution of a bridge as through-

Under the present system they bear far less than their just proportion of the burden."
