

INTERCOLLEGIATE RECORDS BROKEN

Six New Marks Set at Interesting Field Meet at Berkeley.

STANFORD WINS 65 TO 57

Lanagan Within Seven-Eighths of an Inch of World's Pole-Vault Championship—Accident in the Relay Race.

Berkeley, Cal., April 20.—Six new intercollegiate records were established at the annual field meet between California and Stanford Universities.

Fred Lanagan, of Stanford, after winning the pole vault at 11 feet 11.8 inches, tried for the world's record, clearing the bar at 12 feet 4 inches.

Crowley, of California, established a new record in the high hurdles, when he cleared the tape in 13.4 seconds.

Nash, of Stanford, knocked 10.5 seconds from the intercollegiate records for two miles. Time, 19 minutes 19.25 seconds.

Channing Hall, University of California, cleared the bar in the high jump at 5 feet 4.5 inches, which established a new record.

The mile relay was the most exciting event of the day. The California team led until the last lap, when Captain Wilcox, of California, broke a ligament in his leg and was overtaken and beaten by Captain MacFarland, of Stanford.

Kiesberger and Crossfield, both University of California, tied for first place in the 100-yard dash. Time, 9:10.5.

P. Q. Stanton, California, had been picked for a winner in the 440-yard dash, but Davis of Stanford, in a wonderful sprint at the finish, broke the tape several inches ahead of the California man.

Johns, of California, took first place in the 220-yard dash, with Reed and Heaman, both of Stanford, second and third.

MacFarland came within one-fifth of a second of tying the intercollegiate record in the 220-yard dash. Time, 9:22.45.

Greag and Hallsley, both Stanford men, took the next places in this event. Miller, of Stanford, proved an easy winner in the 880-yard run. Time, 2:22.

The hammer-throw was won by Glazier, of California, at 135 feet 11.4 inches, with Halsey, of California, second, and Edwards, of Stanford, third.

Crawford, of Stanford, won the shot put. Distance, 43 feet 7 inches. The broad jump was won by Vandervert, of Stanford.

Railroad Gouging Deep Way Across Willamette—Columbia Peninsula

EXCAVATING RAILROAD CUT ACROSS PENINSULA WITH HYDRAULIC GIANTS.

PORTLAND'S most modern railroad, the Portland & Seattle, is being built by the most modern methods in a substantial way, at a cost that would have staggered railroad builders of a decade ago.

pressure against the bank that is being cut down, breaks down the hillside, and the water carries the dirt down to the Willamette River, where it is used in building up an embankment leading to the Portland & Seattle Bridge across the river near St. Johns.

workmen, and the dirt, which is sandy and yields readily to such treatment, is washed down into a flume, where a running stream carries it out to the river. Owing to the depth of the cut, this method is believed to be more practical than the use of steam shovels.

bridges over the Willamette and Columbia rivers. From the other end a powerful steam shovel is cutting out the trench toward the Willamette River. Two large locomotives are employed constantly handling the long dump trains that are quickly graded and run back to the north end of the cut, there to be used to build an embankment across Columbia Slough. The right of way is 300 feet wide.
