The number of replies that advertisers regularly receive from use of space in the classified columns of The Oregonian is a matter of surprise to patrons of this paper. There is no field in the United States of equal extent that is covered so well as The Oregonian covers the field embraced within the limits of the Pacific Northwestern States. The following letters, expressing appreciation of the value of The Oregonian as a classified medium, will prove of interest to advertisers who may have occasion to use the "want" columns of this paper.

Missoula, Montana, April 17, 1907.

THE OREGONIAN. Portland, Oregon. Gentlemen:

I hand you herewith our check for $8.75, being the amount due for advertising that has appeared in your colums. We are quite pleased with the results obtained, and will. doubtless, give you further business very shortly. Very truly yours.

Editor Oregonian, Portland, Ore. Dear Sir:

This is to certify that the "Oregonian" is in my opinion the best advertising medium in the city of Portland. In saying this I have in mind my advertising the sale of a typewriter. Within a few hours I had a satisfactory offer and had sold the machine before the close of the day on which the ad was published.
