JAPANESE REVERENCE FOR THE HEROIC DEAD

Unceasing Devotion to the Memory of Brave Men Who Made Sacrifice.

Daily Worship at the Tombs of Those Who Gave Up Their Lives for Others.

YOKOHAMA, Japan, March 25—On April 19, two American students went to the gardens in Yokohama, Japan, to visit a shrine. They were about to enter the shrine when they were met by a man who said, "Who are you and what are you doing here?"

The students explained that they were American students on a tour of Japan and wished to visit the shrine to pay their respects. The man then led them into the shrine, where they were able to offer prayers and pay their respects.

This incident is just one example of the reverence that the Japanese people have for their ancestors and their sacrifices. The Japanese are known for their strong sense of duty and their willingness to make sacrifices for the greater good. This is especially true in the case of those who have fallen in battle or who have given their lives for their country.

In this shrine, the students were able to see the tombs of many brave men who had fought for their country and had given their lives in battle. The shrine was beautifully decorated with flowers and candles, and the sounds of music and prayers could be heard throughout.

The students were deeply moved by their visit to the shrine and left with a greater understanding and appreciation for the Japanese people and their culture. They were also reminded of the sacrifices that have been made by people in the past, and they felt a sense of respect and gratitude for those who have gone before them.

As the students left the shrine, they were met by a group of Japanese people who were also paying their respects. The students were able to speak with some of these people and learn more about their culture and their way of life.

Overall, the students felt a great sense of respect and admiration for the Japanese people and their culture. They were grateful for the opportunity to visit the shrine and to learn more about the sacrifices that have been made in the past.

They left with a greater understanding of the Japanese people and their culture, and they were reminded of the importance of respect and gratitude for those who have gone before us.
