SAUSALITO, Cal., April 27 .- A steady west wind, freshening as the afternoon advanced, put a disastrous end to the eight-oared 'warsity race among Wash-ington, California and Stanford, the first of its kind to be attempted on the Pa-cific Coast. All three of the boats were swamped in a choppy sea within from one-half to three-quarters of a mile from the finish, and the race had to be aban-doned. The four-oared freshman race between Stanford and University of California, announced to start at 1:35, was declared off because of the roughness of the water, and shortly after 2 o'clock the University of Washington eight got away from the Sun Francisco Yacht Club house and started for Manzanita point. Stanford followed after a de-lay caused by late arrival, and California got off last. Washington and Stanford made the

Washington and Stanford made the point without accident, though the spray thrown up constantly by their oars showed the difficulties they were against. Berkeley was less fortunate. Half way up to the starting point and half a mile off shore her boat was swamped and sank in five feet of water. Undaunted by the mishap, the big Californians righted their boat and waded ashore with it. There they spent an hour or more setting. There they spent an hour or more getting the water out of the shell and drying it as best they could. Shoving off again they rowed to Point Manzanita, reaching the starting point shortly before 4 o'clock, considerably fatigued, soaking wet and chattering with cold.

Washington caught the water first and led, Berkeley and Stanford following in the order named, California led Stanford for a quarter of a mile with Washington ahead by a length. Then California, taking a gallon of water with every stroke, began to fill and shortly dropped abreast of Stanford. They rowed together for a dozen lengths, Berkeley continuing to ship water and gradually settling until between half and three-quarters of a mile from the finish and within full view of the crowds on land and water, she sank.

The official launch-which had stuck in the mud at the start—came tooling along to the rescue, and presently a score of other craft that had been lying at the finish flag joined in a speedy procession to the place of disaster. The shivering, half-submerged oursmen and coxswains were helped over the sides of the launches and the water-logged racing shells were taken in tow. The California and Stan-ford crews were landed at the San Francisco Yacht Club and the Washington crew and its boat put on board the steamer Puebla, which had been lying by all afternoon, waiting to sail with the Northerners for Seattle. Mr. Garrett, coach of the Berkeley crew, said that the California boat was swamped on the way to the starting point by the swell from a gasoline launch that persisted in nosing the racer's stern after repeated protests.

Shaking and Numb With Cold.

"There were officials on this launch. oo." said Garrett. He added that California's hard luck was increased by Tuller's losing his oar from the rowlock three times right after the start. "My men," said the coach, "were shaking and numb with cold when the start was made. They were badly handicapped."

When California's boat was put on the landing, it was seen that a hole had been puched in her bottom.

CLUBMEN BEAT SALEMITES

FAIR PERFORMANCE LIVENED BY HITTING.

Multnomah's Stick Work Offset by Some Sharp Fielding by High School Lads.

In a close and exciting baseball game, Multnomah Club defeated the Salem High School by the score of 5 to 2 yesterday afternoon on Multnomah field. Both teams put up fair ball, and the performance was livened by plenty of hitting. The Salem team is composed of mere boys, yet in several instances they put to shame the big club men.

It was Multnomah's game, for the big fellows were handy with the willow and sent the ball to the four corners of the lot. But the Salem young-sters were there in fielding, and con-tinued to scoop up nearly everything that came their way. Most of the that came their way. Most of the youngsters managed to connect, but they could not lift the sphere out of the infield. For Mulinomah Ringer, Campbell and Hinkle did star work with the stick. For the Salem bunch Roberts at short and Farman on second did great fielding.

There were a number of changes in Multnomah's lineup yesterday, and it was a far better team than faced Oregon lost Saturday. Robert L. Ringer, Multnomah's new catcher, made his debut, and more than made good. He rapped out two singles in three times Multnomah's new catcher, made his debut, and more than made good. He rapped out two singles in three times up, and in fielding had five putouts and one assist, with no error.

Chet Murphy did not appear, and Cass Campbell took his place on third, while Stockton held down second. Sperry took Sinnott's place on first, and played a very good game. Houston was placed in center field, and Newman took charge of everything that came around the right garden.

Multnomah made a run in the first inning. Hinkle reached first on an error by Gabrielson, and while the first baseman was recovering the ball reached second. Campbell went out. Roberts to Gabrielson, and Hinkle reached third. Stockton bit a slow one down to Roberts and while the shortstop was sending it to first, Hinkle scored. Again in the third the club men added more runs. Gray reached first on an error by Perkins, went to third on Hinkle's two-bagger, and both scored on Campbell's hit. Campbell went to second while Stockton was being thrown out at first, and scored on an error by Kay. In the fifth Gray ing thrown out at first, and scored an error by Kay. In the fifth Gray reached first on a pass, stole second and scored on Campbell's hit.

Salem's two runs came in in fifth, Gabrielson reached first on an error by Morris, was advanced to sec-ond by Roberts. Jones bit safely, and both men scored on an error by Hous-

The game was one of the fastest ever played here. Neither side scored until the fourth inning, when two errors and clever base-maning gave Whitman 2. The ning, when two errors and clever base-running gave Whitman 3. The other 3 scores were made in the eighth. Marquis, for Whitman, twirled a clever game, striking out nine and giving the Oregonians not one safe hit. Clifford, the little Oregon man, was touched for three safeties, one of which was a home run. He struck out five. Clark, the Oregon shortstop, made two errors which cost the visitors dearly, while Houston fell down on a drive which he fumbled. The outfield played an errorless game.

The Oregonians were uncertain at the bat, and failed to get next to Whitman's southpaw twirler and his speed. They never got a man to third until the eighth inning, when they bunched a couple of hits and played chance ball. The batter-ies were: Oregon. Clifford and Johnson: Whitman, Marquis and Brown. Umpire.
