Following the current programme at the Grand, this theater will present another all-feature vaudeville entertainment this week, starting with the matines tomorrow. The acts have been booked by Sullivan & Considine in their New York and Chicago offices and each one has had years of experience.

The Casettas have a dancing act which will be a novelty. It is of the whitiwind variety and was a prominent attraction in the theaters on the continent before coming to America. Emily Nice sings songs of the catchy kind and her selections are new. Archie Boyd is a character actor who has deserted the legitimate stage for vaudeville. For many years past he has been with such attractions as "Way Down fast," "The County Fair," "Shore Acres," "The Old Homestead," "The Village Postmaster" and other rural dramas. It is in portraying the farmer that Boyd is at his best and in his sketch, "After Many Years," he will do some of the finest artistic character sketching that has been undertaken locally in vaudeville.

Edmunds, Emerson and Emmonds will appear in "Only a Joke." These three people, it will be remembered, were on the programme at the Grand more than a year ago and they were a distinct success. The Three Flying Valentines have a casting act in black art. The stage is draped in black and these people dress in white, so that the contrast is striking and gives the turn an air of originality. There will be the usual Sunday performances today, which will close the engagement of J. Bernard Dyllyn, the singing comedian; Lavine and Leonard, the automobilists; Rawls and Von Kaufman, in "Mush," and the rest of the attractive bill.

Week.

Have you taken the children to see the Markonettes at Pantages this week?

If not there is time yet. A few more performances remain. It will give the little ones something to laugh and talk about for many a day. And the older person will enjoy the antics of these little papier-mache people quite as much as do the children. There is a whole bunkel of good vandeville acts in addition. Everyone has been laughing themselves hearse this week. The bill will affect you the same way. The new week has been most suitably provided for. Now, in the first pince you will like Ben Mears and his company in a bright new comedy sketch. Ben came all the way from Chicago this last week just to entertain the people with his un-to-date and spontaneous fun. He made Chicago laugh. He expects to tickle Portland. And if he deem't it won't be the fault of Ben or his company. They have the original corner on the fun market.

And something more for the children. That week it will be the comedy dogs, Professor Horne's educated pets. These little fellows are smart enough to pass a High School examination and outclass all the other educated dogs in dogdom.

Bicycle Bill, too, will be on hand. Bill was due three weeks ago, but was delayed by sickness. When it comes to lasse work, juggling and trick blike riding. Bloycle Bill leaves them all miles behind.

Too much praise cannot be given those who are making it possible to educate the young musician, particularly Mrs. Alma A. Rodgers and Messrs. Wheelwright, Hoyt and Wessinger. They have absolute confidence in the future of their protege and believe that he will soon become one of the world's great music masters. Portland will watch Francis Richter's career with great interest in the hope that he may justify the expectations of his friends and reflect credit upon them and the city of his adoption.
