Prophets Who Predicted a Big Vote Badly Fooled.

LITTLE INTEREST TAKEN

Apathy in Some Precincts, Especially Among Democrats, Almost Criminal—Campaign Slanders Are Sprung at Eleventh Hour.

THOMAS LOYAL TO LANE. The issues of this campaign, as to candidates, terminated at the primaries yesterday and resulted in the nomination of Dr. Harry Lane for Mayor on the Democratic ticket. At this time I wish to state, in harmony with my previous declaration, that I shall support Dr. Lane if he accepts the nomination; and as chairman of the Democratic County and City Central Committee, I shall do all in my power, not only to re-elect Mayor Lane, but every other candidate on the Democratic ticket. I shall urge the committee to the utmost diligence in gathering together the Democratic forces of this city and thoroughly organizing them for the purpose of making the most vigorous and insistent Democratic campaign for strictly Democratic principles and Democratic candidates that this city has ever known. My purpose is that the citizens of this city shall be so imbued with the necessity for embodying Democratic ideals in our institutions and government, local, state and National, that in the future no Democrat in this city or state need be ashamed of the fact that he is a Democrat or feel the necessity for apologizing therefor. Fellow Democrats, let us in this campaign seek to build up the strongest possible minority party. Let's have done with fusion and be Democrats on principle. The greatest safeguard of a people's rights is the ability of the citizens to shift the power. Such a minority party will hold the dominant party in check and so enable the citizens to shift it. My appreciation of the support given me at the polls today is complete and I thank those who voted for me for that support. GEORGE H. THOMAS.

QUIET DAY FOR THE POLICE

Three Saloonkeepers Arrested for Selling Liquor. The net result of police activity yesterday, with all members of the force on duty throughout the day, was the arrest of three saloonkeepers for violating the ordinance which requires that drinking places shall be kept closed on election days. There were no arrests for disturbances of the peace at any of the polling places, or for any other cause, and the day passed very quietly. The first arrest made was that of Henry Hoffman, who conducts a saloon at 424 Hawthorne avenue. He was taken into custody by Detective Sergeant Jones and Acting Detective "Florenor," and was released upon depositing $50 bail. John Crocker, of 41 North Sixth street, was the second arrested. He deposited bail and was released. The third

City Auditor's office as a deputy, and in 1900 was elected to that office. He has held the office continuously since then, having been elected for three successive terms.

George J. Cameron, Judge of the Municipal Court, who was yesterday renominated by the Republicans, was born in Scotland in 1858. He came to Portland 17 years ago from Michigan, opened a law office and engaged in the practice of that profession until he was elevated to the bench. He was a member of the Council about ten years ago under Mayor Mason. He has been Municipal Judge for the past two years.

Allen G. Rushlight, who secured the Republican nomination for Councilman from the Seventh Ward, has been a member of the City Legislature for two years and is owner of one of the largest plumbing establishments in Portland. He was born in Golden City, Colo., in 1874 and four years later came to Portland with his parents. After attaining his majority he engaged in the plumbing business, but for the past few years has been dealing in real estate, in which he has been unusually successful.

John Annand, who secured the Republican nomination for Councilman from the Fourth Ward, has been a member of the Council for the past two years. He was born near Toronto, Canada, in 1864. In Canada he learned telegraphy and after working in Montana as a train-dispatcher for the Northern Pacific came to Portland in 1888. He was for several years employed by the Western Union as an operator, but for the past few years has been connected with the Postal Telegraph & Cable Company, of which he is now the Portland manager.

John E. Welch, who was yesterday nominated by the Republicans for his fourth term as City Treasurer of Portland, was born in New Orleans, La., in 1867. He came to Portland in 1887 and worked as a surveyor and as an expert accountant. For seven years he has been City Treasurer. For about eight years before his first term he was a deputy in the City Treasurer's office.

DEVILIN NOT SURPRISED.

I am satisfied in every respect. I knew I would be nominated, but my majority was larger than I had expected. I thoroughly appreciate the loyalty of my friends, and I also feel that my friends and faithful public service has been rewarded. I feel grateful to my opponents, who conducted clean and honest campaigns and I personally hold them in the highest regard and believe them to be loyal Republicans. My friends are largely responsible for my success. I have friends in all parts of the city and when I sought their aid they gave their services and their sole motive was personal friendship for me. THOMAS C. DEVILIN.

Who Some of Nominees of Two Parties Are. Thomas C. Devlin, the Republican nominee for Mayor, was born in Little Falls, N. Y., in 1858. He was educated in private schools until he was 12 years of age, when he went to Missouri, where he worked on a farm. When a little older he left the farm and made his way through the preparatory schools and then college. He obtained money to complete his education by teaching school. In 1888 he was

George L. Baker, who was nominated by the Republicans of the Fourth Ward for Councilman, is a native son of Oregon. He was born at The Dalles, Or., in 1868, and has been in the theatrical business ever since he was 16 years of age. Mr. Baker has resided in Portland for 18 years. At present he is general manager of the Oregon Theater Company. Mr. Baker was a member of the

Those wise prophets who had counted upon a heavy primary vote will revise their thinking machine when they glance at the actual number of qualified electors who exercised their right of choice yesterday. The vote cast, in spite of the fine weather, was almost criminally small. In precinct 8 in the Third Ward, for example, where the registration was about 400, less than 300 votes were cast. It was the same in almost every precinct in the city and the candidates for those in the Mayor's race down to those for the Council, were keenly disappointed for they had counted upon running up such majorities that they would discourage any ambitious office-seeker from jumping into the game as an independent candidate. In no political campaign in recent years has the public at large shown such apathy as was displayed at the primaries yesterday. There were no serious attempts abroad to involve the workers in friendly arguments, not to mention fist fights. The only thing that caused a stir all day was the yellow dodger that Thomas C. Devlin posted up in all the voting precincts. Some of the billous posters were actually pinned to the voting tents or tacked to the sides of the polling booths. When the workers for the other candidates caught sight of the posters, they sent up a howl, claiming that such an act was clearly in violation of the law. In spite of this, however, the yellow dodger remained "with the daylight."

NOTICE TO VOTERS.

I have made no combinations with any other candidates and I am not responsible for tickets distributed. I want every voter to choose his ticket and I have no candidate to recommend or criticize. At a number of the voting places pictures of various candidates were prominently displayed and the Devlin followers contended that if the putting up of the yellow posters were contrary to the law, the displaying of the pictures was also. At the headquarters of the Republican City Central Committee, Secretary J. W. Sherwood said that he was of the opinion that nothing illegal had been done by Devlin and that his interpretation of the law was that it was intended for those who were working for the various candidates. At any rate, Secretary Sherwood said the Central Committee would not make up the matter. Like the voting, betting on the results was very light. About noon Devlin followers with money were willing to bet 2 to 1 that he would receive the nomination. Most of the betting, however, was done on Kellaher and Coffey. Coffey's friends were betting even money that he would beat Kellaher. One man offered to bet $100 to $200 that Coffey would be second in the race and found no takers. The fellow who delights in playing dirty politics was abroad bright and early. It is an open question whether he slept at all for "with the daylight" he was "out with his hammer." Like the colored man, he thought he was saving the best for the last and he must have worked several job-printing establishments overtime in order to have his campaign slanders out in time to reach the voters. As usual the circulars were without signatures, the person or person responsible being too cowardly to stand sponsor for the villainous slanders.

Dan Kellaher Is Attacked.

Dan Kellaher, who until yesterday morning had passed through the campaign without being made a target for mudslingers, was the object of a scurrilous attack. When Devlin, Coffey and Zimmerman heard of the circular, they disclaimed any knowledge of the matter and heartily condemned the person, or persons, guilty of such a low political trick. J. Silvestone, candidate for Municipal Judge, also came in for a "knock" just before the polls opened. The story that the Blasler brothers were financing Silvestone's campaign had been goosiped about for weeks, but some one started the rumor yesterday morning that Jean Blasler had made the rounds of all the downtown cigar stores the day before, telling the proprietors that if Silvestone received the nomination, the slot machines would be allowed to come back. Silvestone branded the story as false. One of the things which kept the vote down in nearly all the precincts was the fact that the Democratic judges appointed failed to appear. In precinct nine it was So impressed with the kidnaping theory did Governor Lee, of Delaware, become that he declared it mattered not what was the cost he would ferret out the crime and if Delaware did not pay the bill, he had plenty to do it with. The whole police machinery of the state of Delaware was put to work on the case, in addition to the best private detectives that could be procured. The clues led all over the country. Then reports of his capture in other cities began to come in.
