

SCENE AT FIRST DRESS REHEARSAL OF "AS YOU LIKE IT"

WEATHER permitting, on Tuesday evening, by early twilight, the Oregon Branch of the Collegiate Alumnae will present its annual out-of-door play, which this year will be "As You Like It."

taining a university education, but without the means to do so. The cause is a worthy one, and has always successfully appeared in Portland, as liberal sums have been realized from the previous dramatic efforts of the local branch.

Ralph Wilbur, the fame of whose "Portlandia" at Radcliffe College has reached Portland, and who also won laurels as "Malvolio" at her Alma Mater, Margaret Niles, who appeared in several plays at Smith College, is cast for the part of Celia. Carlotta Parker, who has been seen in amateur dramatic work several times locally, is cast for Phoebe. Gertrude Bomgardner, a Friar Tuck of several successful appearances, will take the part of Audrey. Mrs. Edward Taggart, a King Richard of some fame, will take the part of the Duke. Emma Griebel is cast as Frederick. Ethel Lytle and Helen Silver, both of experience in high school productions, will be the Amiens and Jacques. Audrey Brown, who has participated in several Greek plays at Stanford University, is cast for the part of the First Lord, attending on the banished Duke, and Ada Bechtel, of "College Widow" experience, will be Le Beau. Charles will fall to Mrs. Albert Madgwick, and Alma Delaney, Ada Bechtel and Frank Towle, all of dramatic experience, will have the roles of Oliver, Jacques and Orlando. Lenore Williams was prominent in several Stanford productions. It is cast for the role of Adam, Edna Jacques, who has played in Colorado farcical productions, will be Touchstone. Edith Gaddis and Maude Cleveland, prominent in high school dramatic efforts, will be shepherds. The scholarship committee of the Oregon Branch of the Association of Collegiate Alumnae has awarded the scholarship at the University of Oregon for 1907-1908, to Miss Olive Donnell, a graduate of the Portland High School, February, 1907.

PORTLAND SOCIAL EVENTS

Little Helen Catron was the dainty flower-maiden, strewing blossoms in the path of the bridal party. The bride's gown was of white mesaline with real lace, her only ornament being a splendid crescent of diamond, the gift of the groom. Her veil was caught up with lilacs of the valley, and she carried bride roses. The bridesmaid wore a frock of pink silk organdie and carried pink La France roses. The Craig home was profusely decorated. In the reception-room Oregon grape, ferns, palms and marigolds were used, and Mrs. Craig's dining-room was in white and green, the centerpiece for the table being of white sweet peas, and white roses were lavishly used also. On the receiving line were Mr. and Mrs. John P. Finley, Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Craig, assisted by Miss Anna L. Finley, Miss Eugenie Craig, Misses Anna Mix and Jessie Farrell, Mrs. Luther Stell, and Mrs. H. M. Sittie. In the dining-room were: Mrs. W. L. Finley and Mrs. E. W. Clodfelter. Punch was served by Mrs. Ruff Finley and Miss Jessie Farrell. The newly-married couple took the 11:30 train for California, where they will spend their honeymoon.
