WILL DEMAND GROOVED RAILS.—Announcement that the electric railway company would use "T" rails on Grand avenue, between East Oak and East Everett streets, and grooved rails between East Stark and Belmont street, has brought out a protest from property owners between Oak and Everett streets. E. H. Virgill, who has been urging the paving of the street, said yesterday that the property owners are prepared to pay for a first-class pavement, and will object to the "T" rails for the reason they are not suitable for the hard surface pavement. Councilman Kellner will take the matter up with a view to requiring the used of grooved rails for the entire improvement on Grand avenue.

GIANT HALIBUT IS KILLED IN ALASKA.—George T. Myers, Jr., son of G. T. Myers, of Seattle, the well-known salmon hunter, holds the record for halibut fishing on the Pacific Coast, says the Seattle Times. He is at Chatham, Alaska, and recently caught a 36-pound halibut, playing the big fish until it was so tired that it could be landed. For more than half an hour the young man battled with the monster before it was landed. The fish was only way they were able to land the halibut was by getting a fish net around it and holding it aboard a tug. Young Myers is in charge of his father's property at Chatham, and they have prepared 50,000 cases of cans for this season's pack.

WAREHOUSES AND FACTORY SITES.—We have a number of factory or factory sites with railroad facilities on Fifteenth street where the new railroad line is to be built, and on which street Marshall, Wells & Company's new building will be erected. Have some corner lots, quarter blocks and half blocks, as may be wanted. Have several fine sites on the new electric line to which switch facilities will be guaranteed. Having procured the right of way for the Salem Electric line, can give advice as to the most reasonable prices on their line, as well as on the Fifteenth Street line. If you want a warehouse site or factory location, be sure and call upon Charles K. Henry & Son, 122 Third street, Portland, Oregon.

SECURE QUARTERS FOR LABORATORY.—The pure food laboratory to be established in Portland by the Agriculture Department will be located in the Worcester building. Quarters have been secured for the working force of chemists. The rooms selected are situated on the top floor of the Worcester building. Professor Pulmer, of the Washington State Agricultural College, at Pullman, has been in Portland making final arrangements and has decided to locate the laboratory in the above quarters. He left yesterday for his home.

MAYOR LANE ANSWERS.—Secretary Biglow, of the East Side Business Men's Club, yesterday received a reply from Mayor Lane to the resolutions passed by the club asking that he appoint an East Side business man a member of the executive board. He says in his answer that he will take the request into consideration. During the coming week a committee from this club will call on the Mayor and explain further why the club has asked for the appointment of an East Side business man on the executive board.

JONAS-COOLEY WEDDING.—R. H. Jonas, editor of the Wallawa Sun, and Miss May Cooley, also of Wallawa, were married Friday at the residence of Rev. H. A. Harden, who officiated. After a visit in Southern Oregon and Portland, Mr. and Mrs. Jonas will return to their home in Wallawa.

GRADUATES FROM LADD SCHOOL.—Hazel Ralston was one of the graduates from the Ladd School last week. Her name was inadvertently omitted from the list, handed to the Oregonian for publication. Miss Ralston was one of the first honor pupils of her class.

BURIED IN LANDSLIDE.—Oliver Kenowith, a 3-year-old boy, was buried under a landslide yesterday afternoon at the corner of East Eighth and Burnside streets, where the basement for the Masonic building is being excavated. The basement is deep. The boys were standing on the south side on the edge of the bank, where the men were at work moving the dirt, when suddenly the loose sand and dirt carrying the boy and covering him completely. Fortunately one of the men saw the boy carried down by the slide, and the entire force started to dig him out. He was brought out in about five minutes unconscious, but breathing. He was taken to his home at 27 East Ninth street, where Dr. Fish called. The boy revived from the shock, and was resting fairly well last night. There appeared to have been some internal injuries, and he continued to breathe with a labored effort and with a rattling noise, but he was quite cheerful last night. Unless some unforeseen complications arise he will recover. His mother is Mrs. S. Kenowith, and is a widow.

The sale of two whole blocks on Fifteenth street to Marshall, Wells & Co. for use in their business, in addition to a number of other sales made in the past few days by Charles K. Henry & Son, amounting to over $300,000, should not be surprising to those who have talked "slump" or "hard times." The fact is that the city was never in so healthful and promising a condition as right now. Those who have talked about "slump" and coming "hard times," should bear in mind that Oregon is growing in every direction, and Portland with all of its suburbs is being expanded, by the aid of new electric lines, on every possible hand. Business of all kinds is increasing and enlarging until the railroad and transportation companies claim that they have not sufficient equipment, terminal facilities or rolling stock for doing all the business that is offering. Every able-bodied person who wants to work is employed at big wages. The city is forging ahead. It is time for knockers to throw away their hammers, and shout for the growth and prosperity of each land. If you have properties you want sold, and really mean to sell them place them with us. Give us a contract for a reasonable length of time, and we will make you see us for business in the real estate line. If you wish factory sites, warehouse sites or inside business property for use or investment, it will be our pleasure to call upon Charles K. Henry & Son, 122 Third street, Portland, Or.

SOMETHING NEW IN APARTMENTS.—Wellington Court, at 15th and Everett streets, has brought out a protest from property owners between Oak and Everett streets. E. H. Virgill, who has been urging the paving of the street, said yesterday that the property owners are prepared to pay for a first-class pavement, and will object to the "T" rails for the reason they are not suitable for the hard surface pavement. Councilman Kellner will take the matter up with a view to requiring the used of grooved rails for the entire improvement on Grand avenue.

BROOKLYN PULPIT ORATOR HERE.—The pulpit of the First Congregational Church of this city will be filled at both the morning and evening services today by Rev. Luther R. Dwyot, pastor of the United Congregational Church of Brooklyn, N. Y. A committee from the church in that city. A committee from the First Congregational Church for several months has been endeavoring to secure a pastor to fill the pulpit vacant by the resignation of Rev. Edwin L. House, who is now pastor of the Westminster Congregational Church of Spokane. Whether or not Dr. Dwyot will be invited to take the place could not be learned last night, but it is known that he recently intimated to his Brooklyn congregation that he might take up pastoral work in the West. Dr. Dwyot will preach here today by special invitation.

MISSING BOY RETURNS.—Owen Wells, the 8-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Wells, of 73 East Seventh street, north, who disappeared from home about 30 days ago, returned to his parents yesterday. He was successfully aided in search of both police and friends of the family and in explaining his absence said that he had had a good time and managed to live by splitting wood at nights the little fellow slept in unfinished buildings. He said that after the first night spent away from home he was afraid to return as he feared the anger of his parents.
