

BRYAN SHELVES OWNERSHIP ISSUE

Says People Want to Try Railroad Regulation Thoroughly.

NOT PLAY RAILROAD'S GAME

Democratic Leader Doubts Success of Regulation, Urges Defense of State Rights and Recommends a Party Platform.

LINCOLN, Neb., July 20.—(Special.)—

In a statement made today, W. J. Bryan... "As the campaign approaches," he says, "it becomes more and more evident that of the economic questions, three—the trust question, the tariff question and the railroad question—will share public attention, and these three really present the same issue between the general public and the privileged classes: Shall the government be administered in the interest of the whole people, or in the interest of a few? This is the issue presented by the trust question, the tariff question and the railroad question.

Try Regulation First.

"Government ownership is not an immediate issue. A large majority of the people will not support government ownership of railroads, while they will not support ownership. While many Democrats believe, and I am one of the number, that public ownership offers the most complete solution of the problem, still those who believe that the public will finally, in self-defense, be driven to ownership, recognize that regulation must be tried under the most effective regulation which the government can make before the masses will be ready to try a more radical remedy. Regulation cannot be sufficiently tried within the next year, and there is no reason why the government ownership as an issue in 1908."

Has Been Ineffective So Far.

"So far the railroads have been successful in preventing effective Federal regulation and state regulation has as a rule been restrained and ineffectual in the courts. It is about 20 years since the Interstate Commerce Commission was created. It required about 10 years for the courts to find out that the power conferred upon it was insufficient and it took about ten years to secure an amendment. The railroads fought the amendment at every step and the President was finally forced to compromise with the railroad Republicans in the Senate in order to secure their support. Even that amendment, secured with tremendous effort, falls short of what it should be. It aims to stop abuses and regulate."

What Democracy Should Do.

"The Democratic party has in three National Conventions adopted three different forms, while the Republican platform has been silent on the subject. The Democratic party has partially adopted the Republican view on this subject, but so far the Republican leaders have resolutely opposed it. The President is trying to educate the people up to the new regulation, but the Democratic party, under its present leadership, is powerless to accomplish this or any other important reform."

Seattle Will Try to Bring ex-Official Back for Trial.

SEATTLE, Wash., July 20.—(Special.)—

City Treasurer George F. Russell has been instructed to locate ex-City Comptroller John Riplinger and, if possible, to bring him back here to answer for the embezzlement of $48,000 the experts' reports show he failed to account for. A contract with a detective agency for his return will probably be made, for the City Treasurer thinks he can be found. Riplinger is said to be 20 miles south of Iriona in Honduras, where a letter from his brother-in-law says he owns a 500-acre banana ranch, a general store and a small trading steamer. His brother-in-law says Riplinger employs between 75 and 90 natives on his ranch.

Two Men Arrested for Using Purse Seines in the Columbia.

ASTORIA, Or., July 16.—(Special.)—Complaints were filed in Justice Court today by Walter Balluff Settem, charging John Gunderson and Christ Jensen with using purse seines in the Columbia river with purse seines. Gunderson was arraigned this afternoon, pleaded not guilty and his trial was set for 2 o'clock Monday afternoon. This is the first arrest under the new Oregon state law, and Gunderson says he will fight the case to test the right of the officers to enforce the law on the Washington side of the river. The men were operating the seines under license secured from the State of Washington, which has no law prohibiting that class of gear.

PIONEER WOMAN WAS MOTHER OF ELEVEN CHILDREN

SPRINGFIELD, Or., July 19.—

(Special.)—Mrs. James Campbell, one of the state's earliest and best-known pioneers, died at her home on Camp Creek, Wednesday morning, July 17, after a short illness from paralysis. Mrs. Campbell, whose maiden name was Mary Jane Starr, was born in Belmont County, Ohio, December 10, 1820. When at the age of 8 years her parents moved to Van Buren County, Iowa, and it was in this state that she grew to womanhood. March 15, 1852, she was married to James Campbell. In 1858 with her husband she moved to Benton County, Oregon. At this place they resided for 14 years, and in 1872 moved to Lane County and settled about ten miles east of Springfield, on Camp Creek, where she has since resided. She was the mother of 11 children, seven of which are now living. She also leaves a husband and two brothers. Mrs. Campbell was one of the best-known women in Lane County. She has been very active in church work for many years and a constant member in the Methodist Church.

Though Mrs. Campbell was nearly 70 years old, she was very active and until a few hours before her death, had been enjoying the best of health. She had been working about the house during the morning and when her telephone rang she attempted to answer the call, but found that her power of speech had entirely left her. The doctor was at once sent for, but could give her no relief and death came at 12 o'clock. She was a noble woman and will be greatly missed in the community where she has for so many years made her home.

The Late Mrs. James Campbell, of Springfield.

work in Wisconsin, now attending the State University at Eugene, was elected a teacher in the Salem High School at a salary of $70 per month, and Miss Susie Thrall, of Albany, a primary teacher at $40 per month. There is a vacancy in the principalship of Lincoln school, but, although there were six applicants for the position, none were considered well enough qualified, and the election was postponed.

FIRE IN GROCERY STORE

Blaze on East Twenty-first Street Causes Heavy Loss.

Fire of unknown origin at 1 o'clock this morning practically ruined the grocery store of H. A. Denmore at East Twenty-first and Tibbett streets. The contents of a rooming-house on the second story of the building were also seriously damaged by fire and water. The damage is estimated at from $500 to $750. The fire department was handicapped in its work by a scarcity of hydrants and a low water pressure.

bles started in Northern Idaho the leaders of the Western Federation of Miners thought he would be found on their side. But Steunenberg thought more of law and order, and his firm course in stamping out the lawless aroused the enmity of the miners' organization. If there is one class of men the leaders of an organization like this is seen to despise above all others, it is those who have once been friendly but who turn against them because of their misdeeds.

Why Was Simpkins There?

When it came to the taking off of Steunenberg Mr. Hawley said it was not natural that Orchard should be selected. He had attained the distinction of being the "boss" of the leaders of the Western Federation of Miners; his exploits had eclipsed even those of Steve Adams, "Kid" Minister and others who had enjoyed the conally every detail; from General Gene Engley, an ex-Attorney-General of Colorado, "one of those misfit politicians who floated into office when 'Bloody' Bridger Waite was placed in the Governor's chair, the 4th person who came here and discoursed on scientific anarchy and philosophical socialism and would have been talking yet if his own counsel had not stopped him; from Dave Coates, who, when he believed Harry Orchard was about to turn and would have been talking yet if his own counsel had not stopped him; from Harry Orchard, who, when he believed Harry Orchard was about to turn and would have been talking yet if his own counsel had not stopped him; and from various others whose testimony the attorney characterized as unworthy."

"It seems that all these threats were made by Orchard to casual acquaintances. The defense failed utterly to show that he talked to anyone of his friends about his grievance against Steunenberg. He said nothing to Paulsen, his old partner, who, as they themselves have testified, or to Pettibone, so far as we know. Orchard had sold out his interest in the Steunenberg case a year before Governor Steunenberg ran him or anybody else out of Northern Idaho."

Mr. Hawley declared it was time the leaders of the Western Federation of Miners were brought to the bar of justice and shown that there is a higher law in this land than their own desires.

It is time for us to show them that here in Idaho we are a law-abiding, God-fearing people who intend to do our duty to the law. The Western Federation of Miners or some lowly tramp just blown into the state and charged with some minor offense. The jury are impressed with a firm desire to do your duty as you see it. All that the prosecution asks is your best judgment, your honest judgment."

"The labor organization side we will bear much of capital waging war on labor unions. Nothing could be more untrue in this case. All that is asked is that the jury should be more true to the law, and that we know are not in criminal hands and are not criminal in intent and purpose. Neither are the rank and file of the Western Federation, but the organization has fallen into sinister hands."

Labor Union Perverted to Crime.

"As to the part I took as counsel in the organization of the Western Federation of Miners, I have no apologies to make. If my advice and counsel had been given to the organization would have been a powerful factor for good in the development of the West instead of an engine of oppression. In my opinion, the organization is due to the arrogance of its leaders in seeking to control the politics and society of the communities where it operates."

"I tell you in all earnestness that the Western Federation of Miners, as represented by its leaders, is not an American institution, but is trying to subvert the law of the land. It is in harmony with our constitution and our laws."

"Gentlemen of the jury, I have omitted many of the hundreds of incidents that have come up in the evidence of this case because of the length of time that would be required and the fatigue it would cause you. I have no desire, however, to leave the jury with the impression of an innocent man dangling at my girdle. I would not have an innocent man convicted through a single word of mine. I would not have the jury feel that they are being deceived by the testimony in this case with the innocence of this defendant. But I can reach but one conclusion—that he is not only responsible for the murder charged upon him, but for scores of other grave crimes. But my opinion is nothing, the opinion of the opposing counsel is nothing, you with the evidence before you are the judges, and I for one will be satisfied, whatever your verdict may be."
