VISITING WITH MRS. PLATT

Woman in Case Receives Boxes of

RATON, N. M., Aug. 24.—(Special.)—Lieutenant-Colonel William F. Tucker, U. S. A., who is the son-in-law of Mrs. John A. Logan, and whose mother's character is being probed by the War Department, and whose name has been linked by his wife with that of Mrs. Myrtle Platt in her suit for division of his property, is in Raton, where he has been a guest at the home of C. M. Frey, a brother of Mrs. Platt.

Mrs. Platt, who Mrs. Logan believes has won the case, is also visiting her brother. The concurrent visit of both Colonel Tucker and Mrs. Platt has quite naturally aroused a good deal of interest here, and Mrs. Grundy is busy. It develops that Mrs. Platt came here July 10, but her arrival was not announced. Colonel Tucker arrived August 18, and since then he and Mrs. Platt have been seen frequently together. Since her arrival here Mrs. Platt has been the recipient of many choice floral tributes. She has not developed. Shortly after her arrival in Raton, Mrs. Platt made arrangements to go to Denver with Colonel Tucker, but he failed to arrive when expected, and for this and other reasons the affair was definitely called off.

WOMEN HOLD HIGH OFFICE

One Keeps Diplomatic Secrets, Another Gives Legal Opinions.

OREGONIAN NEWS BUREAU, Washington, Aug. 24.—Four women of the thousands in the employ of the various departments of the Government stand forth pre-eminent and all four hold their own in every single essential with the men with whom they come in daily official contact. These are the ones called the "right-hand women." And they're all pretty and young—so full of vivacity as they are of tact.

There's Miss Hanna, for instance. Miss Hanna is known in Washington as the "only woman diplomat." She is a blonde—this attribute being derived from Scandinavian ancestry—and rather petite. The position which she ordinarily occupies in the Government service is that of nominal secretary to the Second Assistant Secretary of State, Alvey A. Adee. As a matter of fact, however, she is Mr. Adee's principal assistant in the management of all diplomatic affairs. All of the most important and confidential diplomatic letters and other documents pass under her eye. Many of them contain secrets which the Department of State would under no consideration permit to be divulged. Yet Miss Hanna, though a woman, is officially a sphinx.

Woman Who Keeps Secrets. It will be remembered by the way, that the original Sphinx of Egypt was a woman—a fact which in itself should serve as a refutation of the popular notion that a woman cannot keep a secret. But as Miss Hanna it should be further explained that the entire diplomatic business of the Department of State falls under the control of private before the United States is carried on, as one might say, through Miss Hanna. She, by the way, is the only woman delegate to the Hague, acting there as an official assistant to the representatives of our Government. Miss Hanna holds from Ann Arbor, Mich., and her salary is $1800 a year.

Equally remarkable in her way is another young woman who holds the post of law clerk to the United States Treasury. She is as young as Miss Hanna—blonde, pretty and slightly built. Her position is the only one of the kind in the Government service that was ever held by a woman. And no wonder, inasmuch as it is her duty to prepare all of the legal opinions for the department.

Uncle Sam's Female Lawyer. The name of this clever girl is Clara Graecen. Half a dozen years ago, when barely 17 years of age, she came to Washington from Kalkaska, Mich., determined to push her way into some sort of place in the Government service. She possessed no influence, no family, no considered well-nigh indispensable, even in these days of civil service reform—but for this lack she was compensated by the possession of a youth, good nature, a buoyant spirit and some experience as a stenographer, obtained in the town of her birth.

The stenography saves her the opportunity of everybody, and the astonishment of every body, report that the number of formal applications for it is a large number. Washington lawyers wanted the job. But, as the result of a competitive examination, the girl from Kalkaska came out a winner, and was duly appointed.

Since then Miss Graecen has prepared all the legal opinions for the Treasury, and they are said to be models of lucidity and accuracy. Her salary is $3000 a year.

Manager of Indian Schools. The highest salary paid to any woman in the Government service is drawn by Miss Estelle Reel, who holds a position of extraordinary responsibility. She is the Superintendent of all the Indian schools—the final authority to whom every question relating to their management is referred. Her official headquarters are at the Indian bureau in Washington, but most of her time is spent in traveling about the country, from one Indian school to another.

Miss Reel is a handsome brunette, still in her early thirties. Young as she is, it is said that the entire system of management of our Indian schools is practically her work. She originated and applied it—the main feature of it being practical instruction designed to fit Indian boys and girls for life as they will find it. Much of the teaching is in the way of manual training, the boys being taught to shoe horses, mend wagons and raise crops, while the girls acquire the gentler arts of the housewife.

Miss Reel's salary is $3000 a year, plus expenses. The latter are a very considerable item, inasmuch as she is obliged to do so much traveling. In the more remote parts of the country she sometimes covers hundreds of miles on horseback, no other means of transportation being available.

Translator Into French. Miss Marie MacNaughton is another Michigan girl. She comes from Grand Rapids. Half a dozen years ago she entered a competitive examination for a $2400 position in the Bureau of American Republics and won it. The reason for making the pay so high was that the work required was extremely difficult—that of translating English into French. Plenty of people can translate French into good English, but to do the other thing with accuracy is a rare accomplishment.

The bureau publishes a monthly magazine in which the articles are printed in French, English and Spanish—the same articles, that is to say. The most important part of Miss MacNaughton's work is done for this publication. She is a brunette, slender and with beautiful dark eyes.

These are the four most notable women in Uncle Sam's employ at the present time. It is to be noted that all of them are young and pretty and that three out of the four come from the State of Michigan.

She charged him with improper conduct with a woman whose name was never disclosed. The case was tried in private before Judge Robert B. Hasbrouck and record in the suit cannot be seen.

The decree authorizes Mrs. Mizner to resume her name of Yerkes. It contains a provision permitting her to marry again, as though Mr. Mizner was actually dead, but forbids Mr. Mizner to marry any other woman during the life of the wealthy widow who has just divorced him.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24.—Inquiry at the War Department on the report from Japan that the authorities plan to increase the troops in the Philippines by the addition of 12 regiments of natives, shows that the story originated in the recommendation of General Mills, of the Department of Visayas, that the scout force be increased to 50 companies. The recommendation is due to a desire to reduce expenses, natives costing less than American soldiers.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24.—(Special.)—Rate regulation under the present interstate commerce law will be a year old next Wednesday and some interesting facts are to be told on the eve of its first anniversary. During the year there have been filed with the Interstate Commerce Commission 353 formal complaints.

A great majority of these alleged unjust rates, the remainder sought to do away with switching charges and alleged discriminations. Ninety-one actual decisions have been rendered on complaints during the year. In 47 cases charges have been sustained and forty two have been dismissed and two set for rehearing. Most of the cases had to do with rates between certain points or charges on certain shipments or classification of freight. In most of the cases where the complaints were not dismissed, therefore, "just and reasonable maximum rates" were established. It would be impossible to give figures on the actual far-reaching effect of the maximums thus fixed.

Idaho Regents Get $28,000 Reduc-

MOSCOW, Ida., Aug. 24.—(Special.)—The Board of Regents of the University of Idaho, at their session this morning, let the contract for the construction of the central section of the new administration building to A. D. Whiteway, of Boise, for the sum of $16,817. This is $28,482 below Mr. Whiteway's first bid for the same work, and $28,088 below the lowest bid of the Campbell Building Company, of Salt Lake, for the same work. The successful contractor was given 20 days in which to file the required bond and 30 days to begin the work.

This is considered a very fortunate outcome of what apparently was a tangled mess. The bids first submitted were considered excessively high. There were certain incidents connected with the bids which indicated a probable combination among the bidders and the other contractors in rejecting all the bids and notifying the contractor that bids would be received anew.

CORTELYOU ACTING WISELY

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24.—Controller of the Currency Ridgely stated regarding Cortelyou's plan to relieve a possible stringency through the distribution of $100,000,000 to National banks, that it was "wise and timely." Ridgely said:

"Cortelyou's plan of depositing money when and where needed will enable us to apply it for relief wherever it will do the most good to commercial and manufacturing business with less reference to the speculative situation. While the situation is one requiring cool and deliberate action, especially by bankers, there is no reason why the demand for liquidation should so spread as to produce anything like a panic or crisis. The banking condition is unusually sound, more so on account of the readjustment of stock values.

"These are tremendous demands, but no greater than have been in the aggregate. The banks have resources to supply this credit, and, while it may be necessary for them to curtail new operations and discourage expansion among customers, they should have no difficulty in taking care of current business. There is absolutely no doubt that banks will be able to take care of things this Fall. We have raised between $5,000,000,000 and $5,000,000,000 worth of grain, cotton, cattle, hogs and other farm products, besides coal, metals and other wealth, but this is not a situation to get frightened about or make necessary the call on everybody to suddenly pay their debts. It should rather encourage the banks to take care of customers and make loans conservatively wherever there is a proper basis for credit. Our country's elements for recuperation in this vast production of wealth never were so great or available. Prosperity is proverbially hard to stand, but there is no sense in letting such evidences scare us to death."
