QUARREL OVER RENT—After reaching the age of 76 years without having been arrested for any kind of crime, D. J. Espler, a retired steamboat engineer, was taken into custody at noon yesterday on a charge of assault. A similar charge was lodged against his wife. The police believe the charges are unfounded. The complaint in the case was signed by Mrs. E. B. Stark, who had been rooming with the Esplers, at Second and Clay streets.

Mrs. Stark was moving because Mrs. Espler had objected to the conduct of her children, and a dispute arose as to the amount of rent due. The Esplers took forcible possession of a package to hold for the rent due. At the time Espler had a hatchet in his hand. Mrs. Stark says the old man seized the hatchet and flourished it at her. Espler says he had the hatchet in his hand while engaged in repairing a screen, and had no thought of striking the woman. Espler's version of the affair is the one credited by the police. He was released on bail pending trial today. Mrs. Espler, too, was required to leave bail.

INDIAN WORK ON EXHIBITION—The teachers and children of the schools of Portland are invited to the exhibition of Indian work at the Museum of Arts, on Fifth and Taylor streets. This display of work by the Aborigines possesses a fine educational value, and is well worth a visit. The exhibition of Indian work has been on the coast. The afternoon on which the museum will be open to the teachers and pupils is Thursday and Saturday. The exhibition closes October 1.

GILMAN'S BODY FOUND—The body of J. H. Gilman, night foreman at the Portland Lumbering mill, was taken from the Willamette river early yesterday morning. It was found at the bottom of the river near the barge upon which Gilman was working at the time of his disappearance. Nobody saw the accident, but it was believed Gilman was drowned from the fact that his hat was left on the barge, where he had been working. The body was taken to the morgue.

WOMAN PREACHER WELCOMED—Mrs. Clara G. Eason, who recently arrived from Ashland, was welcomed to the church of the Rodney Avenue Christian Church, was tendered a public reception at that church Friday night. She was welcomed by the Sunday school, Young People's Society, and all departments of the church. She is a graduate of the Divinity School of Eugene. She will assist the pastor, Rev. E. E. Robinson, in all departments of the church.

PORTLAND GIVEN STALL POSITION—It is a matter of disappointment to the commercial bodies of the city that in maps descriptive of the Pacific Northwest, Portland is frequently not indicated. An exception to this irritating omission has occurred in the map of territory near the National boundary just published by the Department of Industries and Publicity of the Canadian Government. Oregon's metropolis is the only Western Coast city indicated.

ADDS TO PERMANENT EXHIBIT—Colonel Henry E. Dosch, who made a trip to Salem for the purpose of obtaining a display for the permanent exhibit, succeeded in securing a large number of samples of grasses and grains in the wheat, which will be brought to Portland at the conclusion of the fair and stored until the alterations in the Chamber of Commerce rooms are completed, when they will form part of the permanent exhibit.

POLICE THINK IT BLUE—William Siedow, 306 Hood street, was arrested early yesterday morning for being drunk and disorderly. He had been flourishing a revolver and declaring he was going to kill his entire family including himself. F. E. Smith, a neighbor, relieved him of the weapon and sent for the police. After Siedow had sobered up he was released on bail in the sum of $25. His threats to kill are not taken seriously by the police.

DARK PAVEMENTS BEST—Frank J. Perkins says that dark pavements, even in this part of the country, are the best. He explains that it is not intended that the pavements shall be black, but simply colored enough to do away with the white glare, and says that if the ordinance passed requires two pounds of lampblack to a barrel of cement, it provides for altogether too much lampblack, and ought to be amended. However, he insists that a general system of dark pavements should be adopted in Portland, "for the eyes of the children and others are worth more than the cost of a little lampblack." Mr. Perkins says that a little lampblack does not injure the concrete in the least, if properly mixed and spread. Mr. Perkins some time ago advocated dark colored pavements before the Initiative One Hundred, and favors them as strongly as ever.

HOME WAS IN MILWAUKEE—The body of Hans Swenson, who was killed or drowned off the jetty at the mouth of the Columbia River, near Fort Stevens, some time ago, and recovered 40 miles distant, arrived in this city yesterday. The funeral will be held from the family home in Milwaukee at 2 o'clock this afternoon under the auspices of Milwaukee Grange, patronus, Father Peter Paquet, pastor, who visited Fort Stevens several days ago, reports that Swenson was killed by being caught between two piles and knocked into the water. Swenson leaves a wife, a son and a daughter living at Milwaukee, where Mr. Swenson was highly respected. Milwaukee Grange adopted resolutions expressing regret at his death and sympathy for the family. It was ordered that the charter be draped in black for 30 days.

CHANGE FOR GREAT WEALTH

MRS. G. E. STEWART, OF THIS CITY, MAY BECOME HEIRESS.

One of Her Ancestors Leaves Vast Estate in England and Chances Are Good for Obtaining Part.

Born an heir to a $22,000,000 estate in England, all of which is on deposit in various banks in Great Britain, Mrs. G. E. Stewart, wife of an employee of the Security Savings and Trust Company, residing in her little home at 206 Twelfth street, is daily expecting a message that will give to her a fortune of $200,000.

The vast amount of money in this estate has been on deposit in the various banks of England for the past 34 years, and has been involved in litigation for nearly a century. The estate was originally the property of Robert Payne, an East India trader of the early part of the nineteenth century. At the time of his death in 1823, his will, in which all his estate was given to a favored son, was contested by another son. For years the case was argued in the courts of England, the contestants died, and the fight was carried on by their children.

At this time, one of the grandsons of Robert Payne, the founder of the estate, left England, came to America, and settled in Tennessee. He invested in land, and was known as one of the most wealthy citizens of the state. Then in turn, his family branched out, and one son left Tennessee and came to Oregon. He settled in the southern part of the state.

The Oregon branch of the family spread, and Mrs. Stewart is a granddaughter of the pioneer. Her mother was the mother of a family of six children. For years the Oregon and Tennessee branches of the family lost track of the immense fortune to which they were heirs. But a few years ago Isaac Larrance, an old man, found papers which it is believed will settle the whole case.

Mr. Larrance recently left his home in Danville, Ill., going to England for the purpose of investigating his claims. In a letter to his relatives in this country, Mr. Larrance said that he thought his claim was perfect, and that the whole matter would be settled in a few months. Larrance has made a life work of the fight for the fortune, and has traced the family records back to the early part of the seventeenth century. Of the 40 claims before the court in which the matter is being tried, 29 were rejected, and Larrance was declared strongest.

Mrs. Stewart did not think much about the matter until Larrance's recent trip to England, but now she thinks that the whole affair will come out satisfactorily. Her mother, who was fourth in line from the original Robert Payne, would come in for over a million and a half dollars of the estate, and this divided among her six children would give each $250,000.
