"there are reasons"—and many of them—why we are enabled to make this most convincing offer—there are more Buck's ranges in American homes today than any other make—they are recommended by these thousands of satisfied users—they are built on the "Buck's system"—perfected through more than sixty years experience in stove building—they embody many special features—a construction unlike any other range—a ventilated and sanitary oven with white enameled rack and door—top and bottom being constructed so as to be practically non-warping—always smooth and level—enables baking to be done ideally—the range body is built of one piece of heavy-grade polished blue steel and backed by heavy asbestos lining which retains heat in range, and all joints are made air-tight—firebox is practically "everlasting"—has duplex grate for wood or coal—extra large draft construction and fingered grate extends the entire length of fire-box—assure an even distribution of heat on the top of range and around the range—and gives a complete combustion of fuel.
