GRESHAM FAIR OFFICIALS ACQUITTED.

J. H. Caswell, superintendent of concessions of the County Fair held at Gresham, City Marshal Henry Gulakson and Deputy A. M. Adams, charged with assault on H. J. Cummings, were tried yesterday afternoon before Justice Fred O. Olson, of the East Side Court.

Cummings testified that he made arrangements with Superintendent Caswell for space for a shooting gallery on the fairgrounds and he paid Secretary E. L. Thorpe $15 for the concession.

After Cummings had put up his stand, Superintendent Caswell ordered the stand moved off the ground.

Marshal Gulakson and his deputies executed the order, moving the stand 20 feet.

Cummings said his stand was upset and he was struck on the head with a timber. The testimony of Marshal Gulakson, Deputies A. M. Johnson, A. Hazen, S. Alexander, William Robinson, George W. Howitt, E. M. Thomas and L. G. Merrill was to the effect that the order was carried out, and no more, and denied that Cummings was assaulted in any way.

Justice Olson held that the officers were discharging their duty, and that the case was more of a civil than a criminal case. He discharged the defendants.

Cummings has started a civil action to recover damages from the directors of the Gresham fair in the Circuit Court.

O'KEEFE UNABLE TO RAISE BAIL—J. J. O'Keefe, alleged medical fakir, arrested Friday night on a charge of practicing medicine without a license, is still in jail, having been unable to raise the $1000 necessary for his release pending trial.

His case was called in the Municipal Court yesterday forenoon and went over to Monday.

O'Keefe was allowed to emerge from his cell long enough to plead not guilty, and ask for a reduction of bail. This was promptly refused, as more serious charges may be lodged against the man later.

An investigation is being made with the end in view of charging him with manslaughter, in connection with the death of J. E. Lamborn, several days ago.

O'Keefe was treating Lamborn for cancer when the latter died. It is known that O'Keefe extracted $300 from Lamborn in return for cancer "medicine."

In view of this fact, the court declined to make a reduction of bail. The body of Lamborn is being held at the morgue pending further developments.
