severed in this city by the police detecmen on the force are at work on the case. Two arrests have been made and many more are expected to result from the investigation. According to the evidence in possession of the officers the society has been in existence for a year or more, but so timid are its members that those who have been levied upon for blackmail have paid up and refrained from complaining The fact that the society exists was disclosed by the arrest today of George Maz-arakl, a candymaker, and Gus Krisibos, a butcher, who appear to be the leaders of the organization. Achelle Gogos, a restau-rant-keeper, is the man who furnished the evidence on which the detectives are working. He is not anxious to talk, but has told enough to show that the members of the gang have threatened the life of at least one of their countrymen and that they are bent on ruining Gogos.

In some manner the detectives were apprised of the fact that a Greek had been palming himself off as a detective and Mazaraki's arrest followed. The suspect declared that he had evidence that Gogor was selling liquor without license and the detective took him to the place. Ma-zaraki falsed to substantiate his assertions, but was discovered hiding two botties of gin behind a trunk in the Gogos

The officers expect to prove that women Greeks have been forced to submit to indignities at the hands of the gang in fear of death of themselves or their fathers, brothers or husbands.

IN TAXATION OREGON

An Official Letter to the National Tax Association.

PENDLETON, Or., Nov. 15 - (To the Editor.)—In response to a request from the president of the National Tax Con ference to prepare a letter to be printed in the report of the conference meeting, and in the event that I could not attend, I submitted one, a copy of which follows: I notice that an association of people in Portland is preparing some bills along this line to be submitted to the people over. next June.

To President Alien R. Foote and members of the National Tax Association, Columbus, O.:

as fit subjects for exclusive state taxation.

But I think Oregon views with distrust any scheme locking toward a complete separation of the subjects of taxation between the state and the countles within it. Owing to the unequal distribution among the states of any possible subject or class of subjects of taxation, it seems to me impossible for all the states, under such a method, to select the same subjects, or to depend exclusively upon selected subjects at all.

Suppose, for illustration, that the states agree to select corporations as their exclusive and only subjects of taxation, leaving te local governments all other property. The state having the largest relative amount of corporate wealth would attract an undue increase of such property through low tax rates. It would also be difficult to preserve a just balance of equities within the state, between the subjects of the state and those of local governments.

Specific taxes based upon receipts, in-or equities within the state, our couple of local governments.

Specific taxes based upon receipts, inheritances or fees of any kind, lack flexibility. They fluctuate with the tide of business and are likely to be lowest when state expenses are highest. An advalorem tax upon selected subjects would be flexible, but it would be likely to upset the equilibrium among the states upon such subjects by bearing heavier or lighter upon them in one state than in another.

The general average of taxation is quite uniform throughout the states of the Union, while the relative distribution of any class of property or group of classes is not. Hence an advalorem tax should be levied upon the same subjects within a state by both state and local governments. And the same rate of specific taxes should prevail in all the states upon the same class of subjects if competitive.

It will be seen that this would afford petitive.

It will be seen that this would afford uniformity and flexibility allowing industry to pursue economic channels in its progress among the states.

Such a policy will strengthen our industries, multiply the general rosperity, intensify and broaden our National spirit.

GREAT THEFTS OF GOLD

Australian Mining Companies Lose $5,000,000 Each Year.

MELBOURNE, Nov. 9 .- Unpleasant ravelations have been made as to the extent to which the stealing of gold by the miner is carried on in Australia.

Some authorities estimate that as much as £1,000,000 worth of gold ($5,000,000) is lost every year by the Australian mining companies in this way. Most of the min-ing centers are haunted by a shady class of nominal 'gold buyers," who are really the accomplices of the dishonest miners, the "fences," in criminal slang.

Representatives of the mining companies in Bendles, where a record number of cases of gold stealing has recently oc-curred, have met in conference to con-sider the best means of dealing with the evil. All agreed that "an immense amount of illicit traffic in gold was going on."
As one way of checking the evil it was

It was thought that, owing to the high figure paid this year for Western fruit, it would be difficult for buyers to place it at a profit on account of the shortage of cash and the fact also that a scarcity of care is giving districts nearer the big markets an opportunity to place inferior stock on sale in advance of Western fruit. It is stated, however, by authorities here on the apple situation, that, notwithstanding these handicaps, the demands for Western fruit was never better. As a convincing argument they point to the fact that the shortage shown by the lat-est returns practically leaves New York and the Middle West as the only sections to market apples in any quantity, and that there will be needed to supply the home markets, leaving the export trade, which is the most profitatile, almost en-tirely to Western apples. Realizing this, Eastern apple-handlers are said to be already buying and storing Eastern fruit for late Winter use in the home markets, while at the same time endeavoring to get

Oregon and Washington apples to send abroad. In this connection a well-known apple man said today: "There is going to be a shortage of apples for late Winter use, and in my opin-ion instead of lower values on even com-mon varieties higher prices will obtain. Apples are short and there is no fruit that can take the place of the apple. For a time consumers may desert the apple for the orange, if they can get the latter cheaper, but I have noticed that they soon come back to it. There has been consid-erable buying of long-keeping apples in the Eastern markets for the past ten days, notwithstanding the financial trouble, and I am informed that if apple-buyers could have got credit at the banks they would have bought far more heav-
