TEMPT TO DITCH ROSEBURG LOCAL

Obstruction Is Discovered in Time to Prevent Serious Wreck.

Believed to Have Sought Revenge Because of Being Put Off Train. Large Nut Found on the Truck Near Fair Grounds.

SALEM, Oregon, Jan. 4 .- (Special)-A daring attempt to wreck the afternoon Roseburg local passenger train was discovered today when the local track in-spector and his velocipeds were ditched near the Fair Grounds.

some one had placed a large nut on the rail, and but for the fact that the aspector went through on a speeder, the passenger train would in all probability inspector went through on a speeder, the passenger train would in all probability have been wrecked. The nut was a very large one, of the kind used on bridge belts. It had been placed on the rail after the noon freight went through and the northbound passenger was the next train due. When the inspector struck the obstruction he was going at an ordinary rate of speed and his machine was hurled into the ditch, bruising him, but causing no serious injury.

Southern Pacific detectives were immediately put on the case and reports have been received here that two young tramps, about 20 years of age, have been arrested at Woodhurn on suspicion of being guility of the offense. They will be brought to Salem. The theory is that the nut was put on the rail by some tramp who took this means of getting even for having been put off a train.

TWO MEN ARE UNDER ARREST

Suspected of Attempt to Wreck the Roseburg Local Near Salem.

Roseburg Local Near Salem.

WOODBURN, Or., Jan. 4.—(Special.)—
Two Roumanians were arrested here tonight by Detective Reilley, of the Southern Pacific, charged with placing a nut on the track near the Eairgrounds, with the evident intention of wrecking passenger train No. 12, due there at 2:45 P. M.

The nut was found at 1:20 by Foreman Newman, whose handcar was thrown from the track. He had passed the men an hour before. The same thing was done at Roseburg last week, where these men came from. Three others were arrested, but proved their innocence.

The arrested men are 19 and 20 years old, They had $27.50 in their possession and clippings from an anarchist newspaper printed in a foreign language. The men were taken to Salem tonight. It is supposed they wished to get even with the company for putting them off the train.

The Auditor refused to issue certain certificates on the ground that the claims were not properly made out as required by law. The Governor in his interview pointed out that it was necessary to avoid itemizing the bills as it would disclose the name of every screet agent working for the state in these cases. He also stated that this system was followed earlier in the case and acquiesced in by Bragaw.

The itemized bills for detective services were held in the Governor's office and a lump bill filed during the session of the Legislature. The former were filed with the Auditor with the understanding they were to be shown to the Legislative committee only. All this secret information, the Governor said, was immediately secured and pub-lished in the Miner's Magazine.

HITCH IN HOPMEN'S PLANS

Puyallup Growers Don't Like One of Men at Head of Union.

PUYALLUP Wash Jan 4 - (Spe cial.) — Puyallup Valley hopgrowers net here today and effected a partial organization, with the intention to become a part of the Pacific Coast Hopgrowers' Union when a proper agreement with it can be reached. A committee was appointed to draft a constitution and report at a meeting the last of this month.

The committee will consult with the committees appointed at the Yakima and Chehalis meetings for a similar purpose before anything definite will be done in the matter.

Herman Klaber and Isaac Pineus were present and said they were in favor of the project, but objected to several articles in the bylaws of the Pacific Coast Hopgrowers' Union, and especially to one of the men at the head.

ASSAILANT FORCES TABLET OF POISON BETWEEN HER LIPS.

Miss Anna E. Davis, of 282 Fourth Street, Victim of Strange Persecution-Italian Is Suspected.

Miss Anna E. Davis, living with her arents at 282 Fourth street, was murderously assaulted Friday night, and only her presence of mind in removing a tablet of poison that the fiend had forced into her mouth saved her life. The assault was committed by a man unknown to Miss Davis. She was about to enter her home by the rear door, when she was suddenly seized from behind. A hand was clasped over her mouth so that she could not cry out for help, and at the same time the tablet was thrust between her lips. It buffied her tongue so badly that she was unable to eat yesterday. terday.

This is not the first time that Miss-Davis has been attacked by an unknown stranger. Last Summer, while she was assisting her father, who was employed in the Swetland building, she was followed home by an Italian. On one occasion the man grasped her by the arm, just as she was about to enter the gate leading to her home. And another time an Italian was found in the basement of her home. The fellow was arrested and taken to the police station. Before Miss Davis and her family could appear at the Police Court against the fellow, to find out if he was the same Italian who had been following her, the police, in spite of being instructed not to allow the man, who gave his name as Taylor, to AUDITOR SUES THE GOVERNOR

Mr. Darrow then dictated the following message to George A. Pettibone:

Mr. Darrow then dictated the following message to George A. Pettibone:

"Congratulations, come here. I have flowers enough for two funerals."

Commenting further upon the result, Mr. Darrow said: "There was never anything to these cases but Orchard. He related a weird, fantastic, exciting story, but there was no corroboration of it that tended of itself to incriminate anybody. The country had seen in the Haywood trial what a monster or what a liar he was. It was not safe to take the life of any man on such testimeny. In the Pettibone trial the people had become accustomed to the story of Orchard and thoroughly discredited it. Very little attention was paid to it."

Referring to the logical result of the acquittal of both Haywood and Pettibone, Mr. Darrow said:

"I think the Western Federation of Miners has a large field of usefulness. The struggle in Colorado was characterized by many acts on both sides that would off layer done outside off a great message to George A. Pettibone:

The struggle in Colorado was characterized by many acts on both sides that would not have done outside of a great industrial war. It is necessary for both miners and mineowners to organize. They ought now to try to work together and build up the mining industry of the West. They can if they try. Certainly the acquittal of these men is the best thing that could possibly happen to all classes in the community. If these men had been hanged it would have resulted in greater bitterness and harred and ultimate disaster to both sides."
