IMMENSE OUTPUT OF THE FORESTS

In 1906 It Was 40,000,000,000 Feet Worth $700,000,000.

WASHINGTON LEADS ALL

Has Outstripped Wisconsin as the Banner Lumber State—Oregon Advances to Tenth—Coast Is Now the Leading Producer.

OREGONIAN NEWS BUREAU, Washington, Jan. 11.—The lumber cut of the United States for the calendar year, 1906, is estimated to have been 40,000,000,000 feet, representing a total value of approximately $700,000,000. These figures are not absolutely correct, but represent the closest estimate that can be made by the government authorities, after gathering data from 22,228 mills and securing additional data from lumber manufacturers' associations. A report on the lumber cut of 1906 has been issued by the Department of Agriculture, though much of the data was gathered by the Census Office and Forest Service. The above figures include not only the cut of mills which reported, but the estimated cut of mills from which no returns could be obtained. The reported cut of the 22,228 mills was 32,550,788,000 feet, with a mill value of $621,157,288, the largest fraction of the reported for single year, and by far the greatest value. In addition there were manufactured 11,858,300,000 shingles valued at $24,154,555, and 2,812,507,000 laths, valued at $11,490,570.

Yellow Pine Still Leads.

From the report it is seen that yellow pine is still far in the lead as a lumber producer, as it has been for many years. White pine, which was second until a year or two ago, is now third, and has been supplanted by Douglas fir, which was fifth in 1899. Oak has dropped from third to fifth place. Spruce remains sixth. The following table gives the interesting figures regarding the principal grades of lumber cut both in 1906 and in 1899:

	1899.	1906.
Yellow pine	9,936,922	11,661,077
Douglas fir	1,724,207	4,969,845
White pine	1,442,291	2,796,332
Hemlock	3,420,473	3,837,329
Western white pine	4,448,927	2,820,987
Spruce	1,448,927	1,844,987
Western pine	944,185	1,386,717

Washington in First Place.

Since 1899, the first year for which detailed figures upon the cut of individual species are available, there have been decided changes in the rank of the most important lumber-producing species. In that same period there has been a great change in the position of lumber-producing states. Seven years ago Wisconsin led, in 1901, first place had been captured by Washington, Oregon, which is now tenth place, was down in twenty-third place in 1906. There has been a greater growth in the lumber industry in Washington than in any other state, a gain of 201 per cent in the past seven years. In Oregon the gain has been 115 per cent, and in Idaho, where the aggregate output is comparatively small, the percentage of gain since 1899 amounts to 341 per cent. The following table gives the percentage cut of the leading states in thousands of feet in 1899 and 1906:

	1899.	1906.
Washington	1,428,205	4,203,023
Wisconsin	1,111,222	2,796,332
Michigan	1,051,942	2,331,303
Minnesota	1,012,807	2,094,279
Illinois	1,002,224	1,251,230
Arkansas	1,000,000	1,830,558
Mississippi	2,241,619	1,294,144
Texas	2,221,284	1,620,881
Pennsylvania	2,221,284	1,620,881
Oregon	734,232	1,248,539
California	63,221	438,944

Pacific Coast Comes to Front.

In 1899 Washington furnished only 6.9 per cent of the lumber production of the United States, and in 1906 11.5 per cent. Oregon in 1899 furnished 4.3 per cent of the total lumber supply of the country, and Idaho 1.1 per cent. The great lumber-producing centers moved first from the pine and spruce forests of New England westward through New York and Pennsylvania to the white pine region of the Lake States, and swung southward to the yellow pine belt. Now, however, the Pacific Northwest is rapidly assuming

PLACE FOR SCHOOL

Trades to Be Taught in Atkinson Building.

BEGIN COURSE NEXT FALL

Board of Education Selects Location in the Factory District Where Regular Attendance is Rapidly Diminishing.

The Atkinson School building, at Eleventh and Couch streets, has been selected as the location of the proposed trades school. It is expected that the Board of Education at its regular meeting tomorrow afternoon will confirm this choice. Other features in connection with the new industrial institution will be discussed, and it is believed that much will be accomplished toward outlining the details for the enterprise.

Another feature in connection with the trades school is that it is practically certain that it cannot be opened until next fall. City Superintendent Rigger is authorized for this statement, and gives as a reason the fact that it takes a long time to properly equip such an institution.

There are a great many things to be considered in the installation of the trades school, a feature which is entirely new in Portland. The trades that are to be taught, how best to teach them and the selection of teachers are among the most important items. It is likely that printing, plumbing, plastering, bricklaying and a few of the other trades will be taught, and while it is thought probable that the teachers for these trades may be secured in Portland, it is likely that the principal of the school will be engaged from some other city.

It is said that the electrical workers' trade is becoming very popular and that this will be one of the branches taught in the school. All of the industrial schools are said to have developed the fact that there is a great need for this comparatively new feature, as it is said by many that the apprentice system, so long in vogue in the various trades, does not produce sufficient skilled workmen to supply the demand. The teaching of these trades in special schools, therefore, is regarded by educators as one of the greatest advances in modern times, and in Portland is expected to be of great benefit.

The history of trades schools is such as to show that it is practically necessary to have a day and night session. Many who work at night, attend the day session, and many whose work occupies their time during the day make use of the night school, so that both sessions are crowded.

One of the first items to be attended to in the selection of supplies that will be required for the teaching of the various trades. These will have to be ordered as quickly as possible and then the work of installing them and of equipping the rooms will be in order.

CENTRALIA, Wash., Jan. 11.—(Special.)—Mrs. Elizabeth Hash, nee Elizabeth Edwards, died January 2 at the home of her daughter, Mrs. S. J. Huston, at Rochester, this state. Deceased was born in Graceland County, Virginia, December 24, 1821. In 1836 she married Allen Hash and with this union were born nine children, of whom three are still living. She was a member of the Methodist church and was a devoted mother.

Attachment Against Bank. Attachment papers were served yesterday by the Sheriff of Clackamas County on W. A. Heylman's Bank of Estacada, a private institution in that town. The writ was issued at the request of James Anderson. Anderson held a check against the bank for $300 and sought to collect it. The bank declined to pay and the attachment followed. The bank is a small institution and is not incorporated. Its embarrassment can have no effect on any other bank.

Charge Based on Spite. So Say Jurors Who Would Disqualify Market Inspector. As an aftermath to the suit brought by the City of Portland against the Frank L. Smith Meat Company, which was tried before a jury in the State Circuit Court on Thursday, it is rumored that a petition will be prepared and presented to the city authorities urging the disqualification of the city market inspector. The jury, after being out less than ten minutes, found the defendant not guilty of selling diseased meat on the first ballot.

The Dalles Out-Debates Hood River. HOOD RIVER, Or., Jan. 11.—(Special.)—In a special train provided by The Dalles business men the High School pupils of that place invaded Hood River last night and for the purpose of witnessing a debate between the High School of the former place and Hood River. The question debated was, "Resolved, That the Government Should Own and Operate the Railroads," and was decided in favor of The Dalles team, who took the affirmative side. The names of the successful team are Harry Nitschke, Jeanne Mullikin and Roy Harper. Hood River was represented by Burleigh Cash, Merrill Geselling and Carl Onthank. The visitors were accompanied by a band and the affair was enticed by High School songs, yells and music. An audience was present that filled the hall to overflowing.

Check Up Steel's Bond. Governor Chamberlain Will Announce Findings This Week. Governor Chamberlain expects early this week to report on the sufficiency of State Treasurer Steel's new bond for $500,000. Since the filing of the bond by Treasurer Steel, Governor Chamberlain has been examining into the financial standing of the different sureties and the result of that examination will not be known until the list can be checked over. Although Treasurer Steel was required to furnish surety aggregating $500,000, the amount of the bonds submitted was $65,000.

While admitting that the amount of the bond that would be rejected as unsatisfactory was small, Governor Chamberlain would not intimate that the total would exceed the excess of $35,000 in the surety that has been furnished. Treasurer Steel is fully prepared to replace any part of the bond that may be considered insufficient, and will do so within a few days following the announcement of the Governor to that effect.

Mr. and Mrs. Hash crossed the plains in 1852, the ox train being composed of 52 wagons. Several times the train was attacked by Indians, and many times while cooking the next day's provisions Mrs. Hash protected what she had cooked from the wolves by throwing chunks of fire at them.
