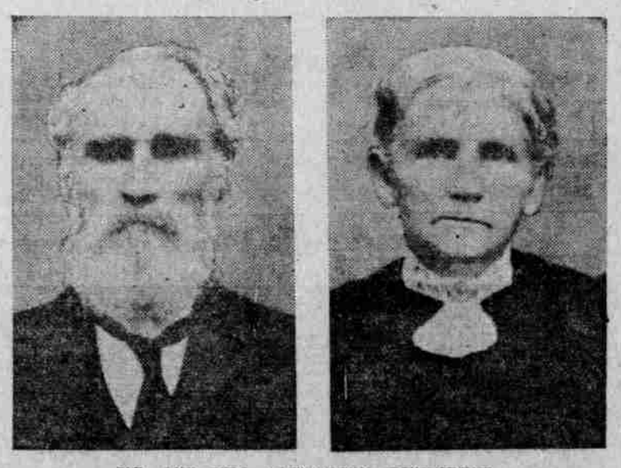
WEDDED IN LINN COUNTY HALF A CENTURY AGO



MR. AND MRS. PATTERSON DINWIDDIE.

ALBANY, Or., Jan. 18.—(Special.)—On New Year's day, 1858, the school at Union Point, a pioneer settlement near the present town of Brownsville, closed with exercises in the church and at the conclusion of the programme Patterson Dinwiddie and Martha Henderson were married. Last New Year's day they celebrated their golden wedding anniversary at their home near Brownsville.

The unique wedding scene in which Mr. and Mrs. Dinwiddie were married is remembered by many pioneers. The programme was one of those "grand exhibitions" characteristic of a school closing in those historic pioneer days. When it ended the bridal couple walked forward and Rev. Wilson Blain, the minister and schoolteacher, tied the knot which has stood for half a century.

During all of their married life Mr. and Mrs. Dinwiddie have lived in the immediate vicinity of Brownsville. They have six children—Mrs. Austria Rodgers, of Pilot Rock; Mrs. Maggie Austin, of Corvallis; Orville R. Dinwiddie, of Portland; Claud Dinwiddie, Elmer Dinwiddie and Miss Iris Dinwiddie, of Brownsville. They have 11 grandchildren, including two pairs of twins.

Mr. Dinwiddie is a native of Pennsylvania, 80 years old and is an Oregon pioneer of 1853. Mrs. Dinwiddie was born in Michigan in 1839 and crossed the plains in the same emigrant train in which her husband came West.
