CAUSE OF IRISH WAR ON GRAZING

Human Beings Driven to Starvation to Make Room for Cattle.

CATTLE INDUSTRY FAILS

Two-Thirds of Farmers Occupy Only Half Land. While the Rest is Given to Small Number of Cattle-Growers.

DUBLIN, Feb. 1.—(Special).—The war against the grazing system—the ranching system, as it is called—is not an agitation against a system that is merely continuing, but against one that is on the increase. The latest publication of the Agricultural Department shows that 45 new holdings of over 200 acres had been created in 1906, the area of land used for this purpose being 19,000 acres. This means that a number of small holdings, as a result of evictions, had been consolidated within the year, and 50,000 acres of land previously devoted to mixed farming turned into grass.

The effect of this year's change in the agricultural conditions will be better appreciated by considering the question of "uneconomic holdings," for the necessary enlargement of which it is sought to acquire and divide so much of the grass lands as would be required to make them economic. Mr. Bailey, the Chief States Commissioner, has defined an uneconomic holding as a farm of land area, in extent and so poor in quality as to be unable to support the tenant without other aids to subsistence. The Agricultural Department experts estimate the minimum area of an economic holding at "about 50 statute acres of average quality, exclusive of bog and land that cannot be cultivated or reclaimed. If two farms combine in the joint use of machinery and labor in working adjoining farms, this might reduce the economic area to 30 acres, or even if the soil be of exceptional fertility and markets good, to 25 acres.

Cattle Supplanting Men.

The number of holdings over one acre in the country was, in 1906, 215,651, and the number of these under 20 acres in extent was 251,615. The Agricultural Department calculates that the combined area of these holdings is only 5,000,000 acres, or less than one-fourth of the total area of Ireland. Thus two-thirds of the farmers occupy less than one-fourth of the land. On the other hand, farms of over 200 acres, which may be assumed to be grazing farms, are in the hands of 9600 occupiers and cover an area of 4,500,000 acres.

Thus there are two great divisions of the land of Ireland, nearly equal in extent—one occupied by two-thirds of the farmers whose holdings average 14 acres each and do not in any case exceed 20 acres, and the other occupied by only one-fifth of the holders of land, the holdings averaging 500 acres each and the minimum holding exceeding 200 acres.

George Wyndham, M. P., Chief Secretary for Ireland under the last government, stated that "untenanted land of the best, or even of good, quality is being created by the market except at a price which is almost prohibitive, if it is to be used for agricultural purposes. It is well known, of course, that the best land of the country is the grazing land, and that the land in the occupation of the 350,000 farmers whose holdings average only 14 acres is the worst. Mr. Wyndham's evidence is quoted as official testimony to what is common knowledge in Ireland. This is briefly the state of affairs as between the grazing system, with huge farms of the prime land, and the claims of the bulk of the farmers for holdings of moderate size, with mixed farming, which will afford the means of subsistence to the tenants.

Increase of Grazing Farms.

The increase, year after year, of the large or grazing farms adds to the difficulty and renders the situation more acute. The 50,000 acres added in 1906 to the large grazing farms represents at least 1000 economic holdings. This newly created grass area would suffice to enlarge 2500 uneconomic holdings to economic holdings.

The statement is sometimes made that the division of the grass lands would injure the Irish cattle trade. There is no foundation whatever for such statements. Mixed farming produces more cattle than a purely grazing system, and fattens the cattle to the finish, which, except in a few places, the grazing does not and cannot do. The portion remaining perfectly normal. The patient, therefore, does not feel the pain of operation at all. In the present case, when half the operation had been gone through the patient asked: "When will you begin, doctor?" He was smoking a cigarette all the time. This method is specially suitable in operations where the patient has a weak heart and chloroform is dangerous.

JUMPS FROM GREAT ARCH

French Suicide May Be a Member of Nobility.

PARIS, Feb. 1.—(Special).—For some time past persons who intended to commit suicide by throwing themselves from a great height had avoided the Arc de Triomphe, which was at one time their favorite resort. This apparent neglect has now been made up by a well-dressed man, who succeeded in climbing to the top and throwing himself down over one of the sides before the guard was aware of anything.

He was, of course, instantly killed, but what excited curiosity was the fact that his underclothes contained traces of having been marked with a ducal coronet. There was absolutely nothing to indicate his identity. The police think that he may have been a person reduced to poverty who had accepted the clothes he wore as a charitable gift and that this accounts for the attempt to remove the marks.

ROOSEVELT MAY GO TO ENGLAND

Expected That He Will Visit London at End of His Administration.

TRIP PURELY PRIVATE ONE

American Colony Greatly Pleased With Decision of King Edward to Become Guest at Residence of Ambassador Reid.

LONDON, Feb. 1.—(Special).—There is every probability that President Roosevelt will pass some weeks in England in the Spring of next year, when his term of office will have expired. The President of the United States has been anxious to visit this country for some years past, but, of course, this was impossible so long as the reins of office were in his hands.

The last ex-President of the United States to visit this country was General Grant, when a semi-official welcome was accorded him. It is understood, however, that nothing in this nature will take place on this occasion, the visit being regarded as purely a private one.

The American colony in London is loudly proclaiming its satisfaction at the announcement that the King is to visit their Ambassador at West Park, the country seat which Mr. Whitelaw Reid rents from Lord Lucas. The news was immediately communicated to President Roosevelt, and it is understood that he has since replied in terms which leave no doubt as to his own great pleasure at learning of the signal honor conferred on the representative of the United States in England.

GIVE PLAYS ON TRAINS

Theater Next Luxury on Long-Distance Journeys.

PARIS, Feb. 1.—(Special).—An enterprising group of bankers, at the head of whom is a great theatrical amateur, has met to discuss a new plan to provide amusement for travelers in trains on long-distance journeys. The idea is to add a theater car to every fast express, so that travelers going at night from Paris to the Riviera, for instance, instead of sleeping in their berths, could book a stall in the theater car and attend a performance. The car would be so arranged as to resemble a small theater, with seats to accommodate 50 or 60 passengers, and a stage would be erected at one end.

The orchestra, it is proposed, shall be limited to a piano, a cornet, a piston and a drum. The performance to be a continuous one, or broken up into several series, for which stalls could also be booked in advance. The railway companies may object that the scheme does not look practical, but neither did restaurant or sleeping cars when they were first suggested.

The bankers in question have unlimited funds to draw upon, they might make a trial, and it is quite within the possibilities of the near future to hear Riviera travelers tell of the enjoyment they derived from the performance in the "trappe" by M. Coquelin or Madame Sarah Bernhardt.

RENT PROBLEM IN BOMBAY

Charges Threaten to Exceed Those in New York.

BOMBAY, Feb. 1.—(Special).—For some weeks back the housing question in Bombay has been becoming more and more acute, and the government has at last taken an important step towards its solution. Mr. George Clark, the governor, has invited the principal public bodies of the city to confer on a scheme for remedying the existing difficulties, and in doing so has laid down a few leading principles for their guidance.

It is pointed out that "adequate provision for the accommodation of the resulting classes who require houses, either in the Fort or Malabar Hill and its vicinity, is no longer available. The result has been a rise of rents in recent years that threatens, if it continues unchecked, to render Bombay as a place of residence more expensive than New York, having regard to the nature of the house accommodation provided. The two cities simultaneously a marked increase has occurred in the rent paid by clerks and other members of the less-wealthy class, who are being obliged to accept a situation in their endeavor to house themselves at a reasonable rate within reach of their daily objective. It is impossible at present to admit that the rents paid by either of these classes are such as might reasonably be expected for a town of less than 1,000,000 inhabitants, occupying an island 11 miles in length."

TRY A NEW ANESTHETIC

Physician Performs Remarkable Operation With Tropa-Cocaine.

CALCUTTA, Feb. 1.—(Special).—A striking operation has been performed in the Calcutta Medical College Hospital by Major Stevens on a patient who had been made insensible by the use of chloroform. The remarkable feature of the operation was that it was done without chloroform, the patient remaining conscious all the while. This is the first time that an operation of so serious a nature without chloroform has been performed in India. The method consists in injecting into the spine a solution of a derivative of cocaine, called tropa-cocaine, before the operation.

Within ten minutes of injection the lower extremities and a portion of the trunk become anaesthetized, the upper portion remaining perfectly normal. The patient, therefore, does not feel the pain of operation at all. In the present case, when half the operation had been gone through the patient asked: "When will you begin, doctor?" He was smoking a cigarette all the time. This method is specially suitable in operations where the patient has a weak heart and chloroform is dangerous.

SIX VICTIMS OF TIGER

Ferocious Beast Terrifies Entire District in India.

BOMBAY, Feb. 1.—(Special).—For some time the neighborhood of Vekarabad in Gujarat suffered terribly from a man-eating tiger. Within the last three months he has carried off five or six victims, one being a woman. Something akin to a panic prevailed at Podoor, a place about five miles from Vekarabad, and the tiger's lair is supposed to be in the thick jungle close to the place.

Mr. Penderbury, son of the agent and manager of the Nizam's Guaranteed State Railway, was out recently in that district, and he shot a tiger which was said at the time to be the one required, but a trade port of fresh victims dispelled that idea.
